ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Feb. 9 (AP). —Ferocious crag-to-crag fighting raged on heights overlooking Cassino on the main Italian front today as American troops opened a full strength assault to destroy that Nazi fortress which has held up their push to relieve beleaguered allied forces in the Anzio bridgehead 50 miles away.

American riflemen, charging up the steep cliffs of Monte Cassino west of the town thru a hell of German artillery, mortar, and machine gun fire, at one time reached a point only 75 yards from the ancient Benedictine monastery which crowns the crest of that key position.

German Power Grows.

Inside Cassino doughboys fought into several more fortified buildings but after a week of house to house combat the Nazis still held about three-fourths of the stronghold and their supply line was unbroken.

The long delayed breakthru at Cassino can come none too soon to serve allied strategy. From the shell pocked beachhead below Rome, Daniel De Luce of the Associated Press wrote that "it is a very small beachhead. German power still seems to be mounting."

A broadcast by the Nazi high command claimed gains of "several kilometers" thru a British defended sector of the beachhead and claimed 700 allied prisoners were taken.

Planes Pound Germans.

Seeking to relieve some enemy pressure against the landing forces, American planes heavily bombed and strafed German positions around the Appian way town of Cisterna, 14 miles northeast of Anzio, which the Nazis have converted into a fortress. Not one German plane appeared over the beachhead yesterday, where the enemy had lost 19 fighter-bombers on Monday.

German attacks on the beachhead Monday night and yesterday morning were described as the hottest since the allied landing force assumed the defensive six days ago. The allies lost some ground, but in counter-attacks regained several vantage points.

Of this fighting, an allied war bulletin said: "On the Anzio beachhead the enemy continues to probe our positions," but it also reported "aggressive patrol activity."

Open Attack Before Dawn.

The renewed allied assault on Cassino began before dawn yesterday. As the American soldiers pushed up the heights toward the monastery, which the Germans have been using as an artillery observa-

MINERS FIND BODY OF GIRL SWALLOWED BY SIDEWALK CAVE-IN

Pittston, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—The body of 2 year old Jule Ann Fulmer, who was swallowed up by the earth in a mine subsidence yesterday, was recovered tonight 35 feet from the surface.

The spot where the body was found had been by-passed by a huge gasoline shovel which replaced miners who had removed tons of dirt, bucket by bucket.

As the arm of the shovel swung down for another load, it struck the side of the excavation. Loose earth trickled down, and the child's arm and leg became visible. Doctors said the child apparently had died of suffocation.

Jule Ann, walking with her aunt, Mrs. Marie Mitchell, tagged a step behind. Suddenly she was gone. Two sidewalk flagstones had disappeared with her into a yawning abyss.

The little girl's father, Seaman George Fulmer, hurried from Norfolk, Va., on a short leave obtained to visit his tragedy stricken home.

TRIBUNE WRITER SEES MARINES STORM ROI ISLE

BY HAROLD SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROI ISLAND, Kwajalein atoll, Feb. 1 [Delayed].—Here is a running account of how a regiment of the 4th division marines stormed Roi Island at the northern apex of Kwajalein.

Our assault boat is in charge of Lt. Howard Strateman, 24, of White Plains, N. Y. The naval shelling is growing. We are joined by the boat group commander, Lt. Jack Fletcher of the State College of Pennsylvania, a former English professor, and a veteran of Tarawa.

We are in a large flotilla of landing craft. We get soaked with spray and rain.

Col. Edward J. Dillon, the battalion commander, starts in for the line of departure. Shelling of the islands gains steadily in intensity. Heavy double blasts of large bombs shatter the air about us. God knows what it must be like for the Japs ashore! The horizon winks steadily with the flash of the warships' salvos.

First Wave Lands.

The first wave starts in, kicking white rooster tails of water behind it. Everything cuts loose now. We work in closer toward the beach. Col. Dillon gets word the first wave has landed. The sun comes out bright. Now we're several hundred yards from shore and can see our assault wave moving up the beach.

Naval shell fire creeps to the north to avoid hitting our men. Our batteries on tiny islands to the southwest and southeast now are drumming away steadily, almost unheard below the larger sound of the battleship and cruiser guns.

Strafing planes dive down into a smoke cloud at the east and emerge at the west, new towers of dark gray springing up behind them as the bombs explode. There is a direct hit on a fuel dump on the western edge of Roi Island. A battalion to our left has reached its first objective line, nearly half way across Roi Island.

A tremendous blast seems to shake the whole world, and there is a clap like the birth of a new planet. Even the deep throated roar of hundreds of wide open shoreward bound craft is drowned out by the bombardment, incredibly loud and sustained.

Dead Marines on Beach.

We are within rifle range now, and keep our heads down. The sea and air pounding are letting up. Occasional bullets sing overhead. We hit the beach.

The fighting has already moved inland behind a crude revetment eight feet high. Two dead marines lie on the beach, two farther off to the left. Several dead Japs are sprawled on the light beach sand, reddened with their blood. There is a steady din of small arms and machine gun fire beyond the revetment.

Louder blasts mark the demolitions, showing that the assault engineers are working at strong points. The 2d battalion is held up 200 yards inland by several pill-

HEROES' WIVES WANT ACTION, NOT MEMORIALS

Ask Ships and Men for MacArthur.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 [Special].—More than 100 wives, mothers, and fathers of Americans killed or captured in Bataan today shouted down a proposal for a national memorial in memory of the heroes and demanded immediate action to help Gen. MacArthur rescue those who have survived.

The stormy objections of the delegates, many of them from the Chicago area, broke up the meeting which had been called by a group of Washington and New York residents who call themselves the organizing committee for the Bataan foundation and Philippine relief.

Want Ships and Men.

"We don't want a memorial now, we want ships and men, and material sent to MacArthur," asserted Mrs. Harold Parsons, president of the Bataan Relief organization of Pontiac, Mich. "We want MacArthur to go back to the Philippines and rescue our boys."

Albert McArthur, president of the American Bataan clan of Maywood, Ill., attacked "as colossal nerve" the proposal to form a memorial foundation while American boys are still awaiting rescue in the Philippines.

"This is just a money raising scheme to take the attention of the people away from the needs of Gen. MacArthur," the Maywood man added.

Asks Tangible Relief.

Charles F. Adams of St. Joseph, Mo., representing relatives of nearly 100 men and women who were on Bataan in May, 1942, declared:

"I came here to do something to help speed the methods of finding out if those prisoners are still alive and with the purpose of getting them tangible relief. If I can't go back home with some answer to my people, my trip was in vain."

Among the Chicago area representatives at the meeting were Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 S. Leavitt st., president of the Bataan Relief Organization of Illinois; Mrs. Lester J. Tacy, 109 N. State st., and Mrs. Julia Martoccio, 831 Forest av., Evanston.

Purpose of Meeting Unknown.

The delegates had come to Washington to attend today's meeting and a second gathering, to be held tomorrow, called by Dr. V. H. Spensley, president of the Bataan Relief Organization of Albuquerque, N. M.

The notice they received from the committee sponsoring today's meeting did not specify that it was for the purpose of establishing post-war relief for the Bataan victims and their families. The notice said it was to "discuss the possibility of coördinating the activities" of all groups of those interested in the Bataan men and their families.

It also stated that the coördination was undertaken "upon the suggestion of the President's war relief control board."

The representatives who attended the meeting had been given no official notice that it was not for the purpose of supporting their attitude of immediate relief. But they soon learned otherwise when a resolution for the memorial was presented to them.

Resolution Shouted Down.

In the stormy rally that followed, delegates took the meeting out of the hands of its sponsors, shouted down the resolution, and brought the session to an end.

The sponsors of the meeting were the six members who compose the organization committee for the Bataan foundation and Philippine relief:

George Djamgaroff, New York promoter and publicist reputed to have conceived the memorial plan; Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, retired, New York attorney and clubman, who presided; three society women, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre of Washington, wife of the former high commissioner of the Philippines; Mrs. James Buchanan of Washington, and Mrs. John Morgan of New York, and George Meyers of Washington.

WORLD'S GREATEST DEFLATION

6 ESCAPE FORT; KIDNAP CAPTAIN

Beat Officer, Take Car; Two Captured.

Six military prisoners escaped from the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan last night and three of them subsequently slugged Capt. R. K. Ebersole of the 1672d service unit, kidnaped him and his wife, and forced them to drive them into the country, where they got out of the car and started down the highway on foot.

Two of the prisoners, William R. Butler, 21, of 1154 Van Buren st., Chicago, and William E. Lasley, 21, Hopkins, Mo., were caught within a few hours. Butler, under 10 year military sentence at Fort Jackson, S. C., was found in the North Western station at Highland Park and Lasley was found hiding in a barn on a farm near Half Day, west of Highland Park. He said two of his companions were in the same area and admitted it was his group that attacked Capt. Ebersole.

Escape Thru Ventilator.

Capt. Fred Dettmar, press relations officer at the fort, said the escape was discovered at 8:30 p. m. The men got out of their cell block by pulling the corrugated roof loose and battering a hole in the floor of the attic. From the attic they reached the ground thru a ventilator.

Two of the men, Lasley and John Bremer Jr., 16, of 4657 Adams st., Chicago, already were charged with breaking out of Fort Sheridan Jan. 6, robbing a Highland Park man of $60, and stealing a car. They were scheduled for court-martial.

Capt. Ebersole said the three soldiers, dressed in blue denim, attacked him about 9:30 as he was walking from his home in a trailer camp at the intersection of U. S. 41 and state route 22 to a washroom. One of the men crashed a rock against his head, ordered him and his wife into their car, and directed him to drive west.

Take, Return Captain's Money.

The men took Capt. Ebersole's wallet, which contained $70, but when they left the car near Half Day, about 5 miles west of Highland Park, they handed the wallet and money back to him.

The other three who escaped are: Lewis C. Kline, 22, of Milwaukee, held for Bradley field, Conn.; William Johnson, Negro, 16, 4127 Michigan av., held for Fort Devens, Mass., and Jay T. Buckner, 24, Milwaukee, also held for Fort Devens.

War Plant Head Denounces the CIO as Plotting Seizure

The general manager of a Chicago war plant, which holds the navy E and three silver stars, sent a letter yesterday to the CIO leaders of an unsuccessful strike against his company, charging them with machinations to maneuver the government into seizure of the plant.

Elmer F. Twyman.

He charged that the strike leaders also were guilty of falsehoods, misrepresentations, and a "sinister conspiracy."

At the same time, the plant manager sent letters to 200 absent workers, telling them the strike against vital war production has failed and inviting them to return to their jobs.

Plant Makes War Equipment.

The plant is the Automatic Transportation company, makers of bomb and munitions handling equipment, at 101 W. 87th st., where more than 500 workers have stuck to their jobs in spite of the strike called Monday morning. Elmer F. Twyman is the general manager, who spoke up against the CIO in a manner almost without precedent in recent years.

Early in 1942 the CIO union won a labor board election in the plant, but it no longer has a majority among the workers, Twyman said. Fearing to disclose its weakness, the union withheld for nine months its list of members in good standing, thus defying a directive of the war labor board, he asserted.

Taunts CIO Leaders.

In his letter to the union officials —Pat Greathouse, international representative, and Edward Flaws, president—Twyman taunted them with their failure to obey the WLB, and added:

"There is ample evidence of machinations on your part to maneuver the government into seizure of this plant."

He closed the letter by asking the union bosses to "cease your efforts to disrupt our vital work."

In his message to the absent workers, also distributed to loyal workers, Twyman reminded them they had been told that the CIO was a democratic organization, that each member had a voice in all decisions. Then he asked:

"Did you have a vote or have an opportunity to voice your opinion in this matter? The answer is—you did not."

Strike Plotted Secretly.

This was a reference to the fact that the strike was plotted Friday night at a meeting not open to the general membership, and that most of the workers did not know of the strike call until Twyman himself circulated a notice Saturday morning, warning the employes against the "plot."

Twyman emphasized that he believed many of those still absent are loyal Americans, unsympathetic toward the strike, but fearing to return because of threats.

Reports 3,750 Strikes

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP). —Secretary of Labor Perkins reported today there were 3,750 strikes in 1943 involving 1,900,000 workers which resulted in 13,500,300 idle man-days—the second largest number of work stoppages since the European war began.

The record for preceding years was 2,968 strikes in 1942, 4,288 in 1941, 2,508 in 1940, and 2,613 in 1939. In 1942 a total of 839,961 workers struck.

Miss Perkins said the four coal strikes, each of brief duration but involving 400,000 men, accounted for 8,500,000 of the man-days idle last year.

Including the coal strikes, the average man-days lost per worker involved in a strike in 1943 was 7.1 days, compared with 5 in 1942, 9.8 in 1941, 11.6 in 1940, and 15.2 in 1939.

DemandsCurb on 4th Term Puffs to Yanks

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Rep. Brown [R., O.] today proposed legislation designed to curb dissemination of "New Deal and fourth term political propaganda" to American troops at home and abroad.

His resolution, offered in the house, would set up a bipartisan committee of six congressmen to investigate all news, motion picture, and radio material issued for service men by the army, navy, and office of war information. Copies of all such material would have to be filed with the committee within 24 hours after its distribution.

Full Text Broadcast.

Brown said one of the chief targets of the proposal is radio broadcasting to troops, about which congress and the public are largely kept in the dark. The need for a check on this and other propaganda activities is particularly evident with the November elections approaching and the fourth term drive afoot, he said.

In this connection, Brown called attention to the broadcast of the President's recent message on soldier vote legislation, in which he termed a "fraud" the plan supported by a majority of Republicans in congress.

Looks to Elections.

"My investigations have revealed that the complete text of the President's message was broadcast overseas by every available means of the government," he said. "Use of like facilities for the reply of Republican Minority Leader Martin were not made available.

"Such a bipartisan committee as I propose would curb such practice and would insure our troops here and abroad of receiving both sides of every story."

Papen Cousin Deserts Nazis' Secret Service

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 8 [Delayed].—The German embassy here is reported in a state of near panic after the discovery that one of its key secret agents has fled to British territory.

Dr. Erich Vermehren, ostensibly an assistant military attache but really a chief aid to Dr. Paul Leverkuehn, alleged chief of the German intelligence in Turkey, disappeared about a week ago with his wife. The Germans first said he was missing, then claimed he committed suicide. The British today revealed Vermehren and his wife, who is a cousin to German Ambassador Franz von Papen, were both safe in allied territory.

Well Informed on Nazis.

It is not known how much he has talked, but presumably anybody in his job would have a great many significant things to say if he changes sides voluntarily.

Vermehren, 24, and his wife, 33, are members of north German Catholic families. He has been in Turkey since December, 1942. She arrived Christmas eve. Vermehren, tho anti-Nazi, remained loyal to Germany thru the war, even serving as one of the intelligence chiefs here, but finally quit, giving as his reason that he was disgusted by Nazi brutality.

Wife Was a Suspect.

For many months he could not get his wife from Germany because she was suspected by the Gestapo, which repeatedly arrested and questioned her. As soon as she arrived here the couple completed plans for a getaway.

When their disappearance became known Von Papen curtailed his holiday in Germany and rushed back to Istanbul, returning to Ankara last night.

Vermehren is the son of a well known German newspaper man, Petra Vermehren, who now is in Lisbon, Portugal.

NEW DEAL PLAN FOR 1½ BILLION FUND REJECTED

Program Branded 'Appeasement.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The Roosevelt administration suffered a stinging defeat today in the senate on its pet measure—food subsidies—after one of its own stalwarts, Chairman George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee had warned that the subsidy plan was an "appeasement" to the CIO.

The senate voted, 43 to 26, against a proposal by Sen. Maloney [D., Conn.] to permit the New Deal to spend 1½ billion dollars a year on subsidies in an ostensible effort to keep down food prices. Despite the administration's claims, Sen. Bankhead [D., Ala.] told the senate that the subsidies would mean a difference of only 11 cents a day to a family of four.

Food subsidies, or consumer subsidies, are intended to roll back food prices or keep them from rising.

Consider House Ban.

The house already has banned food subsidies in the face of the administration drive to extend them. The senate is considering Sen. Bankhead's bill to support the house ban but continue the life of the Commodity Credit corporation, which administers many of the subsidies.

Supported by Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.], Sen. Maloney opened a fight for his own amendment, which in effect would have destroyed the Bankhead bill.

Barkley pleaded with the senators to remain at their desks, so that the issue could be disposed of quickly, and promised them a rest from their long labor if they remained. Then he departed, leaving Maloney to explain why Mr. Roosevelt thinks 11 cents a day for each family will prevent inflation.

Echo of "Picayune."

Maloney described the economic chaos that he said would result unless the President got his way. He dropped in a deprecatory word favored by Mr. Rooseelt—picayune—in referring to the controversy over the nation's food bill. [Mr. Roosevelt recently warned reporters not to be picayune when they asked him about the fourth term.]

The listening senators soon were so few that Maloney complained about being forced to talk to himself.

"I'm here," retorted Sen. Taft [R., O.] "but the majority leader isn't."

Late in the day, George closed the debate with his charge of CIO appeasement, after other subsidy critics had said that the administration actually is trying to convince labor leaders that the "little steel" wage formula isn't being broken—when it is.

Since President Roosevelt is expected to veto the bill if it makes an outright ban on food subsidies, some senators favor a limited subsidy plan. Sen. Taft is expected to offer a compromise amendment providing a relatively small food subsidy system.

Australian Casualties Up to Jan. 1 Total 66,930

The toll included 36,600 casualties in the war with Japan, with 4,500 of these killed, 7,500 wounded, 19,900 prisoners, and 4,700 missing.

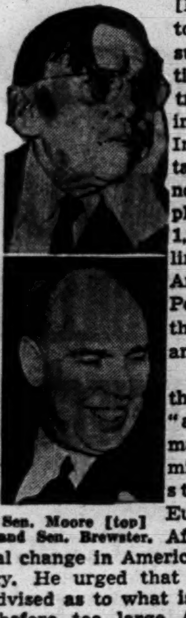
SENATORS BLAST ICKES' ARABIAN PIPE LINE PLAN

Congress Investigation of Project Demanded.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Senators Brewster [R., Me.] and Moore [R., Okla.] called today for a senate survey of the nation's entire petroleum situation in the wake of Interior Secretary Ickes' announcement of plans to build a 1,250 mile oil pipe line across Saudi Arabia, from the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean sea.



Sen. Moore [top] and Sen. Brewster.

Brewster told the senate that "a project of this magnitude in the middle east maelstrom between Europe, Asia, and Africa" is a radical change in American foreign policy. He urged that the senate be advised as to what is contemplated "before too large American commitments are made in an area so largely under British influence.

"So Typical of Dictators."

Moore said Ickes announced the scheme last Saturday "with the dramatic suddenness so typical of dictators," and accused Ickes of denying as late as last Thursday that the Petroleum Reserves corporation, designated to build the pipe line, had any plans for entering the oil business.

Brewster and Moore are co-authors of a bill to abolish PRC, of which Ickes is president. Many have speculated that Ickes proposed the pipe line, which he says will cost between 130 and 165 million dollars, to forestall the proposed liquidation of his newest agency.

Brewster and Moore asked that a special senate committee be appointed to conduct the inquiry. Ickes' pipe line project did not bring on the demand for an investigation, Brewster said, because such a survey has been contemplated for some time.

Policy Explanation Held Up.

But Ickes hastened it, according to Brewster, by continued postponements of engagements to tell senate committees the policy of the heretofore mysterious PRC. Brewster told the senate Ickes has been blaming a broken collar bone and a bad cold.

Ickes was to have appeared last Friday, but postponed the engagement until yesterday.

"Last Saturday," Brewster said, "there was an announcement of the pipe line. I cannot conceive that this is other than coincidental, but meanwhile a further request arrived to postpone Ickes appearance from yesterday to Feb. 15.

"Further delay in the appearance of Ickes seems to necessitate some further action being taken here in the senate."

Foreign Policy Affected.

Saying that the pipe line is evidently not part of the war program, Brewster told the senate the project should have the serious consideration of congress in view of its relation to foreign policy.

Brewster said Ickes had assured the senate [Truman] war program investigating committee that efforts were being made to draw more heavily on British oil reserves as a result of complaints that the British are conserving their oil and shouldering on the United States the task of supplying the oil for the war.

"Contrary to Ickes' statement," Brewster said, "the pipe line arrangement apparently contemplates withdrawal from American reserves in Arabia and Kuwait."

Deal with Oil Companies.

The pipe line is to be built for foreign subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company of California, the Gulf Oil company, and the Texas company in those countries. Ralph K. Davies, Ickes' deputy of petroleum for war, was vice president of Standard of California before joining the government service.

Moore charged that the pipe line is a post-war project by Ickes' own admission and asserted there is "not the slightest necessity for the government to enter the oil business to supply military needs.

"The American people," Moore said, "have hardly recovered from the exposure of the Canol debauch [the 134 million dollar war department pipe line fiasco in Canada]. Now we are confronted with what will prove to be the Arabian debacle if not the Arabian scandal unless congress calls a halt to the ambitions of the White House planners and their front men."

Called Adroit Plan.

Recalling his recent senate charge that the New Deal is creating an artificial oil shortage and frightening the people with propaganda that American oil soon will be exhausted, Moore said:

"The pipe line contract and publicity have been adroitly prepared to instill in the public mind the belief that the President has met and overcome a great emergency."

Moore said the pipe line will be "a ready made facility for American enemies" in case of another war, and that it would not help in the present emergency because two years will be required to build it. An oil man himself, he added:

"The pipe line and necessary pump stations will consume thousands of tons of steel for which our own American oil industry is begging.

"The White House planners visualize the socializing of the oil business and our other basic industries. Control of foreign oil is a convenient adjunct to world control of transportation by airplane and steamship, to which the White House planners are looking.

PRC a Part of Plan.

"The activities of PRC are merely part of the plan. These activities and future schemes of the White House planners are so far reaching and sinister they impose on congress the pressing obligation to investigate PRC and all similar proposals from top to bottom."

Acting Chairman McKellar [D., Tenn.] of the senate appropriations committee said no appropriation has been asked for the Ickes project.

Sen. Taft [R., O.] brought chuckles from the senators with a deadpan reading of a comment from today's Times of London, where the British have expressed concern over Ickes' plan. The comment, said to have been a direct quotation from the Latin poet, Horace, was:

"Iccius, are you now looking enviously at Arabia's rich treasure?"

PLAN STIRS COMMONS

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden indicated in the house of commons today that Great Britain has not yet approved a proposal to construct an American pipe line from the Persian gulf to the Mediterranean, and agreed with inquiring members of parliament that the government would be profoundly concerned about any such project.

Members of parliament voiced anxiety on the possibility that the United States might acquire sovereignty over territory to be occupied by the projected pipe line.

Conservative Arthur Colegate asked Eden for a statement on the operations of the foreign oil concessions committee of the United States, declaring "there are a great many rumors" about the committee.

"Must Consult Britain."

"So far as my information goes, this project is at present in a very preliminary stage and before it is developed it will no doubt be for the United States government to approach the other governments concerned," Eden said.

"Ought not the British government be consulted in a matter that so profoundly concerns the interests of this country and the commonwealth?" asked Laborite Emanuel Shinwell.

"Yes, sir," Eden replied. "And I am expecting a report from the British ambassador in Washington."

Asked by Conservative Arthur Molson if it would be necessary to obtain concurrence of the British government before such a pipe line could be laid, Eden said it was "obvious" that consultations with all the governments concerned would be required.

Say King Approves.

The parliamentary discussion followed publication of a story cabled Monday from Cairo quoting officials of Saudi Arabia that Ibn Saud, ruler of the country, would approve the pipe line proposal. The king had known of negotiations for several months and likely would give his consent if he were assured of sufficient returns in development of the country, said a legation official.

Official American announcement of the proposal has been made by Interior Secretary Ickes, who disclosed the Petroleum Reserves corporation intends to construct a 1,250 mile pipe line in Arabia by agreement with the Arabian-American oil company and the Gulf Exploration company.

This pipe line to tap Arabian and Kuwait oil reserves would cost an estimated $130,000,000 to $165,000,000. Monday Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] asserted in Washington that the plan was a "treaty" requiring congressional approval.

Dunham States Case Against Back of The Yards Council

BY GORDON SCHENDEL.

Evidence to show how the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council disrupted recreational activities in Davis Square park from 1940 to 1944 was being prepared yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, for presentation before the citizens' committee investigating park district policies.

Dunham said he will give the evidence to Max Murdock, an attorney and chairman of the citizens' committee, shortly. The committee, a nonpartisan body, is composed of leaders of civic, business, labor, and welfare organizations.

Presents His Evidence.

Dunham said he had photographs and other evidence to show that:

1. Beginning in July, 1940, without the consent of park district officials, the Back of the Yards Neighborhood council progressively moved into the various rooms of the Davis Square park fieldhouse until it occupied the entire second floor, as well as much of the first floor.

2. For the greater part of the time it occupied the park fieldhouse, the council constantly was using all the assembly rooms, four clubrooms, and numerous other rooms and facilities. The council listed the fieldhouse as its headquarters in the telephone directory.

3. The council's occupation of fieldhouse space barred the public from using those rooms for recreational purposes inasmuch as the council kept the rooms it occupied constantly filled with its supplies and equipment.

Secretary of Council.

4. Altho Joseph B. Meegan was paid by the park district to be a full time supervisor of Davis Square park, he devoted the largest share of his time to promoting the interests of the council, of which he was executive secretary. [Meegan resigned his park job last month as a result of the controversy.]

5. The council's occupation of the fieldhouse barred the public from use of its facilities to such an extent that attendance decreased 31 per cent in 1942 from the 1941 figure, and fell 37 per cent more in 1943.

6. As a result of the council's occupation of the fieldhouse, Davis Square park failed to join other parks in the system in initiating recreational programs to combat delinquency.

Cites Notice to Council.

Dunham said he also will show that he informed council officials last July that the council's occupation of public property to the exclusion of the public must be terminated. Council heads agreed, he said, to terminate it.

In December, when no move had been made by the council to quit the fieldhouse, Dunham said, park commissioners transferred Meegan to Ogden park. This caused the controversy which resulted in the council's quitting Davis Square park and Meegan resigning to take a full time job as council executive director.

River Taxi Service Again Permitted by Aldermen

The city council yesterday enacted an ordinance permitting Arthur Agra, 1356 Sunnyside av., who operated a river taxi between the Michigan av. bridge and Madison st. last year, to resume service this spring.

WALLACE FLAYS BUSINESS; HAILS RUSSIAN SYSTEM

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9 [Special].—Vice President Wallace tonight attacked the American business man and praised the Russian system. He also predicted a "profound revolution" after the war.

Efforts must be made to keep the "hard headed business man" of the past from leading the world astray after this war, he declared in a speech prepared for delivery before Democratic, civic, and labor groups.

He charged that after the World war several groups of what he termed so-called hard headed business men decided to make profits for themselves without regard to harmonizing their individual activities with the needs of the nation's foreign policy.

He Fears Fascist Rule.

Only by planning now for the post-war period, Wallace said, can the nation prevent "American Fascists" from taking over.

In extolling the soviet work-incentive plan, he said the Russians couldn't understand how the United States could get along without giving workers incentives, such as large cash prizes for going beyond their quotas.

"That the Russians could go so far in the past 20 years and evoke such an extraordinary response from the people in time of stress," he said, "is the greatest indictment I know of the scarcity economics practiced by those who believe that profit and free enterprise are only for the few.

Russian Unity Hailed.

"Nearly every one in Russia feels he is directly working for the welfare of the whole nation. He has no fear whatever that he is being exploited for the profit of the management or stockholders."

The "profound revolution" he forecast will come, he asserted, "partly as a result of the aftermath of two great wars and partly as a result of 150 years of modern technology and democratic thinking about the rights and duties of man."

Such a revolution, the vice president believes, would be gradual and bloodless if the makers of public opinion would influence their followers in behalf of what he considered the public good instead of what he called regional and class prejudices.

Outlines Barter System.

He outlined a system of international barter under which the "peaceful" nations of the world would exchange and build up supplies of strategic materials to guarantee protection against sudden attack.

His suggested barter system would work like this: If Russia, for example, wanted machine tools after this war she would pay for them in terms of manganese and platinum, of which she has a surplus.

"One of the best ways to make sure that there will not be another war," he said, "is to build up, in all the peaceful countries of the world, such large supplies of the materials of which each is short, that no friendly nation anywhere in the world ever will be caught helpless by sudden attack."

Predicts High Taxes After War.

He predicted that post-war taxes would continue to be heavy. There is little doubt, he said, that the nation would have to continue with heavy, steeply graduated personal income taxes after the war.

For corporations he asked a tax policy to force corporation savings, beyond what he called "legitimate needs," into the building of plants and new equipment or into distribution as dividends.

"In time of unemployment," he declared, "each billion dollars stored up as savings means at least half a million men unemployed for a year."

Oh, Yeah?

NATION LAGGING ON SCRAP PAPER, WPB AID WARNS

Chicago Praised, but It's Below Quota.

Herbert M. Faust, salvage director of the war production board, yesterday told 100 members of the National Waste Paper association and the Waste Paper institute that while the nation is collecting 560,000 tons of scrap paper monthly, it is still below the monthly goal of 667,000 tons.

Here from Washington, D. C., Faust paid tribute to the Chicago collection system as one of the best organized in the country. After the meeting in the Bismarck hotel, he said that Chicago is leading all metropolitan areas in waste paper collection.

Chicago's Setup 'Best.'

"It has," he said, "the best and most harmonious organization of any of the metropolitan cities." In Chicago the drive is being headed by the newspapers, and Faust complimented and thanked the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association for its leadership.

Waste paper salvage spokesmen said Chicago collected 75,000 tons of scrap paper in January. This, they said, makes a per capita collection of 4.7 pounds a month, and altho Chicago is heading the nation, the city is far behind the per capita goal of 10 pounds monthly.

Earl L. Bauer, regional chief of the salvage branch of the WPB, said a drive has been launched to route tons of waste paper into the drive from storage rooms and files in office buildings. He estimated that uncounted thousands of tons were available from these sources.

Illegal Purchases Hit.

Alvin Clapp of the OPA's enforcement section, gently chided the Chicago dealers for not turning in known black market operators.

Stuart B. Sutphin, national co-chairman of the industry committee, presided at the session.

William L. McFetridge, general chairman of the waste paper salvage committee, announced that 20 new depots will be established this week for collections made daily by trucks owned and operated by wholesale liquor dealers.

Reduce Air Mail Weight, Is Plea of Postmaster

Postmaster Kruetgen, in a plea for the use of lighter stationery for air mail, said yesterday that 150,000 ordinary one sheet letters in envelopes weighed about 2,575 pounds and required the space and use of 37 mail sacks, while the same number of letters on lightweight air mail stationery would weigh about 1,500 pounds and require only 22 sacks.

CHARGE CANADA MISUSES DATA ON WOODSMEN

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9 [Special].—The Boston Herald tomorrow will publish the following dispatch from a staff correspondent at St. Come, Que.:

"Accusing Minister of Labor Humphrey Mitchell of misrepresentation and of stating half-truths in his recent report to the house of commons on the availability of Quebec labor to cut wood in Maine for America's war production, mayors and residents of this and other border towns offer to produce 500 idle woodsmen on a day's notice.

"'We can get 500 in five hours who want to go across and work but are refused permission by Ottawa, said Mayor Grouleau of St. Zacharie.

Plenty of Farm Workers.

"'They are farmers and farmers' sons and other men who have nothing to do on their own farms these months,' he said. 'They would not be taken from any work and there are plenty of others to take care of the farms while they are away.'

"The representative of the Agronomes in this district whom Mitchell quoted as saying men in Quebec province not now in the woods are needed on their farms said he was referring only to approximately 250 farmers whose cattle would suffer if they left them to work in the woods of nearby Maine. His report to Ottawa, he said, did not refer to farmers who could leave their farms these winter months, nor to the hundreds of sons of farmers. This representative is A. Ed Theberge. His district comprises the five towns of St. Come, St. Zacharie, St. Theophile, St. Auriele, and St. Rene.

Quota Not Being Met.

"Mayor Grouleau was quoted by Mitchell in Ottawa as saying: 'There were possibly 50 men on farms not of military age and 35 of military age around this village who might be available.' Said Grouleau when he read this today, 'Sure, that's what I told the associate director of national selective service, Paul Goulet, when he called up for Mr. Mitchell the other day. That's what he asked me, was how many in the village, not the whole town. I said in St. Zacherie, St. Prosper, and St. Georges altogether there were 500 easy. Why didn't he say that, too?'

"That the Canadian quota of 3,600 men to cut wood in the United States is not being filled was indicated by evidence obtained here from officials and the idle men themselves.

"'I will pay Mr. Mitchell $1,000 in American money [10 per cent more than Canadian currency] if I can't put 1,000 men into the American woods in 10 days, provided he will lift the restrictions on the quota and on the military age,' promised Leopold Dumas, paper company representative.'"

HELD ON MANN ACT CHARGE.

United States Commissioner Walker yesterday held to the grand jury Charles L. Venton, 45, Negro, 4837 Prairie av., who is charged with abetting the transportation of a woman from Portland, Ore., to Chicago for immoral purposes.

DYESS AND PAL PULL A TRICK ON JAPS AT PRISON

Provide Captors False Data on Air Force.

This is the 12th instalment of the late Lt. Col. W. E. Dyess' story of the horrors of Japanese prison camps. He was killed in California last Dec. 22 in an airplane crash, several months after his escape from the Japs.

BY LT. COL. W. E. DYESS,
[United States Army Air Forces.]
As told to CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The worst jolt I got at O'Donnell prison camp came soon after we had arrived. On one stifling hot morning a Japanese officer stepped into our barracks, which measured 14 by 20 feet. He called out my name and the name of another man.

I had expected to be questioned by Japanese intelligence officers, but the thing that shocked me was the other name the Jap called. It was that of the captain beheaded on Mariveles air field at the start of the Death March of Bataan.

Why we should have been summoned together I couldn't understand. The captain, of course, didn't answer. As I walked up the hill with the Jap I was nervous.

Asks for Other Man.

At Japanese military headquarters I was halted in front of a desk occupied by a thin faced, intelligent looking officer. Beside the Jap sat a Filipino captain who seemed to have been pressed into service as an interpreter. It was quickly apparent, however, that the Jap knew more English than he was likely to let on.

He asked at once for the other man. I said that so far as I had been able to learn he never had reported at O'Donnell. The Jap made a note upon a dossier. I then saw he had a dossier for me. My name had been typewritten at the top, but the rest of the document was in Japanese.

I was worried. How much did they think they knew about me? The next question reassured me somewhat.

"What you do with 21st pursuit squadron?"

"I was a pilot," I told him.

"Only a pilot?"

"Only a pilot."

"Not officer?"

Jap Officer Suspicious.

I said, "No." He was suspicious and I wondered if he could have known I was squadron commander. He appeared to be satisfied for the moment about my status with the 21st pursuit. He then wanted to know about our air fields and our "hidden planes."

I told him there were no hidden planes; that they all had been shot down. He knew the air fields as well as I did, so I named them off for him. He asked about radio and air alarm service. I told him I knew only about the radio in our planes.

After each question and answer the Jap would look at me keenly and ask abruptly:

"And you only a pilot? Not officer?"

"Only a pilot," I would say, as cheerfully as possible.

Asks About Radios.

His questions covered practically everything. How fast would our planes fly? That, I told him, depended upon the condition of the plane; sometimes very fast, sometimes not so fast.

How far could our radios send and from how far could they receive? Well, that depended upon conditions. Sometimes very far; sometimes not so far.

How far in miles, usually? Two miles, as a usual thing, but occasionally as far as 30.

The Jap was getting nettled.

The Filipino captain undoubtedly saw I was giving the Jap the runaround, tho he never let on. He could have helped him out several times. I began to feel a little better. I was told, however, to be back the next day for "new questions."

Jap Makes a Demand.

I didn't like the sound of that. I figured he intended to do a little investigating. Apparently he was not able to, because his questions the next day all had to do with radio. I told him I knew nothing about codes. I was strictly a flyer, I said, and had nothing to do with communications.

"You go back," the Jap said. "There is communications officers in camp. You go find and bring back here tomorrow."

Back in our compound I looked up a young lieutenant who had been communications officer in our squadron. His name was Leroy. I told him about the grilling. I asked him if he would like to take a swing at a little questioning. He said he surely would. The next day we were escorted up the hill together.

Words Don't Make Sense.

The kid was a whiz. He started shooting technical data at the Jap officer at a great rate. His words didn't make sense. The Jap soon was so befuddled he had to appeal to the Filipino captain, who threw up his hands and said in effect that it was too deep for him.

When our inquisitor had taken five or six pages of notes in Japanese he gave it up and turned back to me. He wanted to know the complete setup of an American air squadron; officers, technicians, crew—everything. And he wanted a diagram of it. He got one.

When, finally, I had finished covering a large sheet of paper with labeled squares and circles, connected by lines, the chart was so confusing it looked almost like the real thing. I was proud of it. Leroy and I were dismissed and the last I saw of the Jap intelligence officer he was looking hopelessly and with furrowed brow from my diagram to Leroy's radio data and back to the diagram. I wasn't bothered again.

Prisoners Arrive from Rock.

But there were plenty of things to occupy our minds. Thruout the two months in O'Donnell sick and hungry prisoners straggled in almost every day. About the middle of May there was a heavy influx. These were the men from Corregidor. The Rock had fallen on May 6, just 27 days after Bataan. These prisoners were preceded by hundreds of rumors.

Even before they arrived we were convinced the Rock had fallen, but the rumors about it were accompanied by others and we lived on these. One was that the conditions of the American surrender were that all prisoners taken on Bataan and Corregidor be sent back to the United States.

This didn't make sense to me. On the other hand, nothing the Japs had done made much sense. It might be possible, therefore, that they were about to send us home. Our hopes really soared when we heard a report the steamer Blackhawk was lying in Manila bay being painted white to effect the transfer. A day or two later a Filipino smuggled in a package of cigarets which contained a note that read: "Be brave! You will soon be free."

Rumors Provide Stamina.

I saw the note and tho I didn't allow myself to believe it, I stopped throwing cold water on our hopes. To many, in much worse condition than I, the rumors provided the stamina that kept them alive.

One of them was a technician who had been in my squadron. He knew about all there is to know in airplanes. He was a 200 pounder when Bataan fell, one of the finest physical specimens I ever have known.

Yet, when I went to look for him at what passed for the hospital, I passed him by without recognizing him. I walked to the end of the row and back again. Then I heard my name called in a husky whisper. I looked at the man a full minute before I knew him. His weight couldn't have been more than 85 or 90 pounds.

He was finished. It was too late for food. There was nothing I or any of us could do.

Dyess Encourages Friend.

"Ed," he whispered, "what do you think of the rumors that are going around?"

I knew then I didn't believe any of them. I seemed to know also he never would see home again. I looked as cheerful as I could and said:

"I don't know what all you've heard, but I'll tell you that those two reports about the Japs agreeing to send us home and about the Blackhawk being painted white for the trip sound pretty good to me."

He brightened up. He said it sounded swell and he was glad I thought the rumors were true. I told him to pull himself together so he would be in shape for the voyage home. He said he would. He died the next morning.

BRITISH ASK AID OF REDS IN BID TO HALT ATROCITIES

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden remained silent when asked in commons today whether Russia might be requested to serve as a protecting power in an attempt to halt Japanese atrocities against allied prisoners of war.

Eden told commons that "the good offices of the soviet government have been sought and have been forthcoming in connection with the dispatch of war prisoners' correspondence and also with the forwarding of relief supplies thru their territories."

The foreign secretary indicated, however, that all protests against Japanese barbarities in the treatment of prisoners of war were still going thru neutral protecting powers—not Russia.

WOMAN JURORS GIVEN FATE OF 2 IN GAS SLAYING

The 12 women jurors who will decide the fate of Edward Damiani and Alvin Krause, accused of murdering Miss Agnes Olsen with poison gas in the robbery of a currency exchange last July 3, were told last night in closing arguments in Criminal court that they are all that stands between decent society and desperate men.

Alvin Krause.

Edward Damiani.

"You are about to make the greatest and the bravest decision you will ever have to make in your lives," Assistant State's Atty. Richard Austin told them. "The defense has been playing on your sympathies to make a hatrack on which to hang a weak verdict. Don't be fooled, ladies, and don't compromise.

Calls for Death Penalty.

"Even the use of gas has been outlawed in war, but here are men using it to gain a few paltry dollars. The death penalty for these men is clearly indicated. This is a case that was made to order for the electric chair."

When Austin concluded his argument Judge Harold G. Ward delivered his instructions and the jury—the first all-woman group called upon to inflict the death penalty in Cook county history—began deliberations at 10:27 p. m. When it was reported at 12:45 a. m. that a verdict had not been reached, the jury was locked up for the night.

Atty. Harold Levy, defending Krause, told the jury that his client had not been identified as one of the men who participated in the robbery and the fatal gassing of Miss Olsen.

"We are concerned here only with the murder of Miss Olsen," he said. "If you are not convinced that Krause was in that exchange—and the state has not shown that he was—then you must acquit him."

Plea Made for Damiani.

The state's opening argument was made by Alex Napoli, assistant state's attorney, who described the defendants as men who inaugurated "a new, vicious type of holdup" and demanded the death penalty. He was followed by Leonard N. Steiger, who asked that Damiani's life be spared.

During the day Damiani, who on Tuesday made a witness stand confession of the slaying, wound up his testimony, apparently in the hope of exonerating Krause, by asserting that two other men—Ray McClain, alias Ray Nelson, and Marvin Drausman—had been his accomplices. Damiani said police beat him until he confessed, and promised him leniency if he implicated Krause.

Krause followed him to the witness stand. He said he was a gambler and denied he had participated in the holdup or asphyxiation of Miss Olsen.

The women jurors are: Mrs. Esther Romer, 29, of 1611 N. Richmond st., a waitress; Mrs. Lillian Klein Plowman, 50, of 644 State Line st., Calumet City; Mrs. Agnes L. Wognum, 31, of Warsaw av., South Holland; Mrs. Camille Davis, 53, of 6211 N. Mozart st.; Mrs. Emily Kaminski, 28, of 3046 N. Drake av., a war plant inspector; Mrs. Alice R. Treloar, 53, of 917 Chicago av., Evanston, supervisor; Mrs. Clarice G. Mitchell, 29, of 969 Spruce st., Winnetka; Mrs. Lilas C. Crothers, 38, of 2016 E. 68th st.; Mrs. Alvina Wageman, 50, of 2151 Berteau av.; Mrs. Bernice Bartosik, 27, of 938 W. 52d st.; Miss Mary L. Sarnecki, 24, of 2157 North av., a secretary; Miss Emily D. Defeats Spirits

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

MRS. VIRGINIA CEPPARO.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—The revelation of more so-called spirit letters in the divorce contest of Leon Cepparo, 55 year old voice teacher, and Virginia, his pretty 29 year old wife, was halted today when they agreed to a property settlement and a divorce. Cepparo dropped his cross complaint and his wife was granted a decree by default.

Leon Cepparo.

The husband had testified yesterday that dozens of letters found by his wife in their home, in which she was urged to have a love affair with a younger man, were really not from the spirit world as they indicated but were written by him in the hope that such an experience would send her back to him.

REDS CLOSING IN ON KRIVOI ROG IN NEW ADVANCE

Tighten Ring Around Ten Trapped Divisions.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Red army, forcing battered German forces from at least 57 more communities along the Nazis' crumbling front in the southern Ukraine, closed in upon the important iron ore center of Krivoi Rog today with a swift 14 mile stab from the southeast which carried it to within eight miles of the city.

Other Russian forces drew closer their ring around 10 German divisions encircled in the lower Dnieper area near Shpola, capturing nine towns, and pursued beaten Nazi forces thru eight populated places in the mud flats and swamps near Nikopol.

Far to the north the railroad center of Luga, on the Leningrad-Pskov-Warsaw line, was under attack as the Russians swept up 30 more towns and hamlets and reached a town 13 miles northeast of Luga.

In the Ukraine, Russian forces were moving up from Apostolovo, captured Monday, toward Krivoi Rog, taking a town 14 miles to the northwest in a drive that engulfed 40 populated places.

Town May Be Circled.

The Russians also were sweeping westward south of Krivoi Rog, and the town was threatened with encirclement altho there remained a wide gap to be closed. Fifteen Nazi divisions in the Krivoi Rog area appeared to be in a precarious position.

The fall of Nikopol, 50 miles to the southeast, set in motion a disorganized German retreat in the direction of Nikolaev on the Ukrainian Bug river and Kherson at the mouth of the Dnieper, twin southern anchors for the German eastern front lines.

The Russian bulletin made no mention of developments in the Red army's drive into Estonia along the coast of the Gulf of Finland or the progress of Russian forces in the Rovno and Luck areas more than 400 miles west of the Dnieper bend.

NAZI WAR REPORT

Following is the German Wednesday war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"Filled with exemplary fighting spirit, the German troops in heavy defensive fighting at Nikopol, west of Cherkasi, east of Zhashkov, south of the Berezina, south and west of Lake Ilmen as well as in the area of Luga repulsed strong soviet attacks and break thru attempts and ironed out or closed local dents.

"The bridgehead at Nikopol was systematically evacuated after destruction of all military and war industrial installations."

BISHOP BLASTS AIR RAIDS, BUT LOSES HIS FIGHT

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The bishop of Chichester, Dr. George Bell, today tried—and failed—in the house of lords to put an end to what he called terror bombing. His attack was joined by the former archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Cosmo Gordon Lang, now known as Lord Lang of Lambeth, but their opposition to the R. A. F.'s bombing policy was defeated by the house leader's assertion that air raids will "continue in increasing power . . . until final victory is secured."

Chichester recalled that when the war began both France and Britain declared their intention to spare civilians and "preserve in every way possible the treasured monuments of human achievement." Altho he said he was not forgetting Germany's tremendous bombings of Warsaw, Belgrade, Rotterdam, London, Coventry, and other English cities, he said that since "Hitler is a barbarian" we "should not make him our pattern," and that "the policy of obliteration . . . is not a justifiable act of war."

Assails "Gloating" Over Raids.

Dr. Lang, former head of the Church of England, deplored "recent attacks upon cities like Hamburg, Frankfurt, and Berlin," and criticized a tendency "among some of our people," to "exult and gloat" over the destruction of German cities and towns.

Replying to Chichester and Dr. Lang as leader of the upper house of parliament, Dominions Secretary Cranborne said the R. A. F. never had indulged in pure terror raids and that 80 per cent of the German fighter plane strength is tied down to combat allied attacks, which greatly facilitates Russia's fight against the Germans.

"War, which is a horrible thing, cannot be carried on without suffering even to those not immediately responsible for the conflict," Cranborne said. "In the circumstances today we cannot expect to find the means of conducting hostilities without suffering."

Foresees Heavier Blows.

He said the entire Krupp armament works had been destroyed at Essen and that bombing attacks on Hamburg have cost the Germans 400,000,000 man hours.

"It is to me full justification for the present bombing campaign," he said. "I cannot give the bishop of Chichester any hope that we shall abate our bombing policy. On the contrary, we shall continue it in increasing power and with more crushing effect until the final victory is assured."

Chichester expressed regret at the government's answer but withdrew his motion challenging Britain's bombing policy.

SCHOOL WILL STUDY ADDRESS ON HISTORY BY COL. M'CORMICK

Remarks on Russian history made by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in his Chicago Theater of the Air address on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system last Saturday, soon will be utilized in classrooms of Marysville High school, Marysville, Cal.

Algeo H. Brill, an instructor in senior social studies at the school, wrote Col. McCormick, in a letter received yesterday as follows:

"I have under my guidance more than 100 students. Having just listened to your discussion on Russia, I believe that it would be a privilege if my students could be allowed to study this talk. The largest class contains 40 students."

Copies of the address were sent to Brill.

IF YOU'RE YANK, THINGS COST MORE IN ITALY

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Things cost more in Italy if you're an American, Capt. Pleasant J. McNeal of San Antonio, Tex., said today.

McNeal arrived from Italy with a photograph of a bill presented to the American Red Cross by an Italian carpenter. After listing items bought, the bill read: "Plus 20 per cent because you are Americans."

"And that's cheap," McNeal said. "Most of our co-belligerents charge 100 per cent more."

LONDON SPEAKS FOR ALL POLAND, LEADER AVERS

Contrary to stories spread by enemies of Poland, the Polish government in exile in London represents all shades of Polish opinion from the right to the left. It is closely in touch with the underground movement in Poland, even to sending instructors by plane and parachute to train the Polish underground army.

Alojzy Adamczyk.

Those statements were made in an interview yesterday by Alojzy Adamczyk, Polish labor leader, who is in the United States on business connected with the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, and who arrived in Chicago Sunday to address a meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

"None Collaborationists."

"There is no one in the present government who ever collaborated with the Nazis," Adamczyk said. In that respect Polish officialdom has cleaner hands than the Russian, he pointed out, for Molotov and others who still hold high positions in Russia, did collaborate with the Nazis in 1939.

Asked about the charge frequently made that Poland was a reactionary state during the period between the two world wars, Adamczyk admitted that Gen. Pilsudski's government, which came to power in 1926, did attempt to limit certain liberties, but he said it never was able to win a clear cut victory because of the resistance of the people.

Want Russian Friendship.

On the subject of the present controversy with Russia, Adamczyk declared that every Pole, no matter what his political opinion may be, understands the necessity of living on friendly terms with Russia, for Poland cannot allow herself to be menaced from the east and west.

"But we want to live on our own basis," he added. "We want to be independent and to suffer no foreign interference. We want to collaborate with Russia if the collaboration is mutual."

EYES WEAK, BUT ARMY FINDS ED'S FISTS ARE O. K.!

Belleville, Ill., Feb. 9 (AP).—Edwin Taylor's poor eyesight disqualified him for military service, but four soldiers learned there's nothing wrong with his fists. They made the mistake of calling him a draft dodger.

Edwin Taylor.

"I've been taking that kind of guff from soldiers too long," Taylor said. "I decided it was time for a showdown."

When police arrived, two of the soldiers were unconscious on the sidewalk. The third had crawled away, and the fourth had fled.

Taylor, 30, a roofer, weighs 180 pounds. One of the soldiers he knocked out is an amateur boxer.

WILLIAM'S LOVE STRONG ENOUGH TO STOP A TRAIN!

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—The girl friend said: "I dare you to stand on the tracks and stop the train."

So William Kane Jr., 19, struck a pose, arms folded, on the Pennsylvania tracks at 23d st. A train approached at 40 miles an hour. It ground to a stop a few feet from Kane, who maintained his Napoleonic stance.

Police arrested Kane for trespassing. The girl disappeared. At a police station Kane refused to name his companion.

"I'm a gentleman," he said.

"Why did you do it?"

"I'm in love."

8TH AIR FORCE'S BOMBER LOSSES IN '43 UNDER 4%

1,037 Raiders Lost on 110 Missions.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Air battles dwarfing anything yet seen over Europe are expected when good weather permits full use of the huge fleets of allied bombers and fighters now poised for attack.

New secret devices and techniques have enabled continued operations thru unfavorable winter weather, but "blind bombing" admittedly is less successful than "pinpoint" attacks on targets which can be plainly seen.

The high command is prepared to accept heavy losses to accomplish its objectives in the projected air offensive, altho 1943 bomber losses of the 8th air force were less than 4 per cent. The R. A. F. estimates Germany has committed 80 per cent of her fighter strength to defense against bombing from the west and south.

U. S., R. A. F. Bombing Similar.

Altho extraordinary results have been achieved on occasion by American bombers attacking thru heavy overcasts, this method is said to be more like the British "area bombing" technique in contrast to the American "precision" style.

British reports rate the 8th bomber command's achievements at roughly 25 per cent excellent, 25 per cent good, 25 per cent fair, and 25 per cent poor.

Other ideas that the R. A. F. night missions are flown by larger fleets than the 8th's daylight missions and that the 8th has a higher average loss rate are said to be wide of the truth.

Record of '43 Raids.

The scope of the 8th bomber command's operations are indicated in an official summary of 1943 operations issued today. Some of the facts brought out in it are:

Of the 180,000 tons of bombs dropped on Nazi Europe by the R. A. F. and the A. A. F., 48,666 tons were dropped by the 8th, but of the 8th's total, more than 12,000 tons were dumped on German targets in December alone, when some formations numbered more than 700 planes.

The 8th bomber command conducted 110 missions, pounded 31 major targets with more than 100 tons of bombs, and hit four German cities with more than 1,000 tons — Kiel, 1,900; Wilhelmshaven, 2,647; Emden, 3,219, and Bremen, 6,165.

In 1943, 1,037 American bombers were lost from battle action, less than 4 per cent. In the year, the bombers destroyed 3,357 enemy aircraft, probably destroyed 843, and damaged 1,596. The 8th fighter command added 447 enemy planes destroyed, 75 probables, and 230 damaged. Fighter losses totaled 150, out of 25,000 sorties on 154 missions.

Reds Using Air Driven Sledge in North Russia

MOSCOW, Feb. 9.—In north Russia the Red army is using an improved air propelled sledge. The model used mounts a machine gun and provides armored cover for a tommy gunner firing thru a front slit.

New Aerial Blows

Where the American Marauder bombers struck yesterday.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The steady bomb barrage along the French "invasion coast" lifted suddenly today and arched 100 miles inland as more than 200 United States medium Marauders struck heavily at railroad yards and repair shops at Tergnier. All the bombers returned safely.

"Sheds and debris were blown sky high," said Lt. C. R. Stillmer of Chicago, a bombardier-navigator. "We kicked up a row that probably was heard in Paris."

The attack, 120 miles northeast of Paris, was the Marauders' deepest penetration.

It was executed simultaneously with blows by other Marauders against the Pas-de-Calais area and by British attacks on northern France.

The new daylight blows followed raids into Germany and France last night by the R. A. F., including an attack on the Gnome and Rhone aircraft engine factory at Limoges.

BOOM TOSCANINI AS PRESIDENT OF ITALY REPUBLIC

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—A Berne dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Aftontidningen said today that "influential circles" in northern Italy were working to obtain the election of Arturo Toscanini as "president of the future Italian republic," the office of war information reported tonight. The conductor and composer, an active anti-Fascist, lives in New York.

Abdication Studied.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The British government is studying the demand of Italian political parties for the abdication of King Victor Emmanuel, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today. He did not disclose what action Britain plans to take.

"The question is not one I am prepared to consider while the battle for Rome is still raging."

WIFE GETS NEWS HERO FLYER IS A JAP PRISONER

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Ralph Chell, wife of Maj. Chell, congressional medal of honor pilot reported by a Japanese broadcast to be a prisoner at Rabaul, said today she was overjoyed with the news, but that she had "never lost confidence, for I knew he had made a perfect landing."

The hero flyer's wife said she had talked with returned pilots of her husband's Mitchell bomber squadron and heard first hand how his plane crashed in a battle with Zeros in an attack on Wewak, Aug. 18, 1943.

"The boys told me as soon as they arrived that they had seen Ralph make a perfect landing on the ocean and that his plane did not catch on fire," she said. "They said members of the squadron swung back over the spot where he crashed to see whether he was all right and then went on."

Soprano Lina Cavalieri Killed in Allied Air Attack on Italy

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—Mme. Lina Cavalieri, washerwoman's daughter who won fame as an opera singer and married a prince, was killed Monday in an allied air raid on Florence, Italy, a DNB dispatch broadcast by Berlin radio said today.

She was born in Rome in 1874 and became a renowned soprano who was reputed to have received $300,000 for a season with the Metropolitan Opera in New York in 1907.

RENOWNED FOR BEAUTY.

The Cavalieri, as she was acclaimed in the world capitals early in the century, achieved fame after beginnings as a dancing girl and flower girl. She made her debut in opera as Mimi in "La Boheme" in 1900. Often called "the most beautiful woman in the world," she appeared with the Metropolitan Opera company in New York in 1906-'07, the year Geraldine Farrar also made her debut there.

Many legends arose about The Cavalieri, one centering about her early romance with a prince of Italy who was credited with educating her for the world of music. She was one of the earliest advocates of dieting for beauty among women.

Married Three Times.

Mme. Cavalieri was married three times; first to the Russian prince, Linotchka Bariatinsky; later to Robert Winthrop Chanler, artist grandson of John Jacob Astor. Chanler was reported to have given her a large share of his fortune. In 1914 she married Lucien Muratore, then leading tenor with the Chicago Grand Opera company. In 1916 Mme. Cavalieri appeared in Chicago as Nedda in "Pagliacci" at the Auditorium and as Fedora in "Tosca." She was Nedda for Caruso's singing of "Pagliacci" early in her career.

In 1927 she divorced Muratore and had passed her more recent years at Florence. One of her most noted feuds was with Mary Garden on appearing in the title role of "Thais." Miss Garden won.

The Cavalieri's marriage to Chanler prompted a famous wise crack of a generation ago. Chanler's brother, John Armstrong Chanler, had been adjudged insane and had fled to Virginia. When he learned his brother had given The Cavalieri most of his fortune in a divorce settlement he wired the message that became famous: "Who's looney now?"

JAPS IN BURMA FLANK BRITISH; PENETRATE PASS

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Japanese have made advances in the last four days toward the British supply line in the Arakan district of Burma, an allied bulletin revealed today.

The Japanese attacking southwestward toward Ngakyedyauk pass penetrated to its entrance after a surprise flanking operation which carried 10 miles north of the British main position. Despite this setback, the British in the Buthedaung area and south of Faung Bazaar are holding on and attacking.

Chinese forces fighting in the Hukang valley of northern Burma to clear the way for the new Ledo road have wiped out pockets of the enemy and cleared the west bank of the Tanai river west of Taipha Ga.

Battle Rages at Anzio, but AMG Gets Aid to Civilians

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 9 (AP).—Under German fire, an Italian schooner has delivered 80 tons of food and medical supplies for the civilian inhabitants of the Anzio beachhead sent by allied military government [AMG] officials. The urgently needed shipment was delivered at Anzio as German air raiders dropped bombs around the ship.

YANKS HIT MORE SECRET TARGETS IN MARSHALLS

Navy to Keep Tokio from Getting News.

4 Jap Ships Sunk

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The destroyer Burns wiped out a convoy of four Japanese ships in the Marshall Islands area on Jan. 31, the navy announced tonight. The Burns, operating with the carrier task force that attacked the Marshalls, shelled and sank a tanker, a medium cargo vessel, and two smaller craft.

The destroyer, commanded by Comdr. Donald T. Eller of Petersburg, Va., was returning to the task force after rescuing flyers who had been forced down at sea.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Feb. 9 (AP).—New and secret blows against Japan's remaining holds in the Marshall Islands are being struck by United States air and naval forces.

Because Japan's communications with its isolated garrisons in the Marshalls probably have been disrupted, the navy has adopted a policy of not identifying the targets of bombs and shells. In the newest attacks, announced last night, only one atoll was named, Jaluit, at the southern end of the archipelago. Several enemy boats were sunk in the raid there last Sunday. Jaluit already had been attacked 16 times this year.

Hit Pet Fighter Field.

Other atolls under attack may have included those that have been bombed most frequently—Wotje, Mili, and Maloelap.

One of the objectives of the 7th army air force bombers in the latest raids was the "pet fighter field" of the Japanese, reported Paul Beam, Associated Press correspondent. He was aboard a dive bomber that blasted the runway. Not a single burst of heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered. Beam may have referred to the enemy air field on Taroa Islet of the Maloelap atoll.

Must Base in China.

The new raids were part of the strategy "to get our ground and air forces into China as early as possible," referred to yesterday by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. He told correspondents that Japan "can only be defeated from bases in China."

While there was no mention of an invasion schedule, there were indications that much action is ahead. Nimitz remarked that "if you'll watch the war bulletins you'll see us moving on."

FIGHTER BOMBS JALUIT

BY PAUL BEAM.

[Associated Press War Correspondent.]
[Representing the Combined U. S. Press.]

AN ADVANCED FIGHTER BASE, 7TH A. A. F., CENTRAL PACIFIC, Feb. 5 [Delayed]—(AP).—P-40 fighter planes which today carried bombs to Jaluit atoll in the Marshalls "could repeat the performance every day of the week," said Lt. Col. Julian E. Thomas, 26, of San Anselmo, Cal., who planned and led the raid.

[The fact that the P-40 Warhawk single engined fighter plane is being used in the Marshalls indicates that an American fighter base already has been established in or near these islands.]

"The trip was more than an experiment," said Thomas. "A trip of this length—previously considered about the maximum range of a P-40 with even a lighter bomb load—demonstrated the power of this fighter.

A bomb was slung under each wing. After the bombs were released, the fighters dropped as low as 30 feet to strafe Japanese buildings on Jaluit, formerly a submarine stronghold.

Squadron officers said the heavy bomb load demonstrates the extreme versatility of American fighter planes.

SERB PARTISANS FORBID KING TO RETURN HOME

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—The free Jugo-Slav radio reported today that partisans meeting recently at Cernomelj had approved a resolution "forbidding" King Peter II. to return to Jugo-Slavia.

The broadcast said the session had sent telegrams to President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Premier Stalin urging recognition of the Jugo-Slav National committee as the only government in that country. The meeting was addressed by Dr. Ivan Ribar, head of the Jugo-Slav liberated territories.

A broadcast bulletin said the partisans had "inflicted a devastating defeat on German troops and Mihailovich Chetniks near Gacko," 45 miles south of Sarajevo.

CARRIER RANGER NO GHOST SHIP, NAZIS KNOW NOW

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—She's a ghost ship on Nazi records, but the aircraft carrier Ranger is very much alive and a continual threat to German shipping.

Ten months ago Hitler boastfully reported the Ranger sunk by torpedoes and announced decoration of a U-boat commander for the exploit. Today the navy made the decoration look a little ridiculous by releasing an account of the Ranger's war exploits since then.

Six months after she was "sunk," the Ranger daringly struck into enemy waters off Norway, the navy reported.

When the Ranger's planes returned, more than 40,000 tons of Nazi shipping, including four merchantmen and a tanker, lay on the bottom, blasted by more than 15 tons of bombs. Two enemy planes had been shot down. The Ranger had not been damaged; only three of her planes had been lost.

That was last October while the 14,500 ton flat-top—first ever built specifically as a carrier by the United States navy—was operating with a British task force.

In many months of Atlantic service the Ranger has ferried hundreds of American pilots—and their planes—to the European war fronts, slipping thru submarine infested waters with her flight and hangar decks packed.

JAPS QUIT BASE IN NEW GUINEA, YANKS REPORT

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Feb. 10 [Thursday]—(AP)—Bomb-battered Madang, Japan's main port on the northeastern New Guinea coast, apparently has been deserted by the enemy.

Americans in Mitchell medium bombers that made a low sweep over the once teeming port Wednesday saw evidence that the Japanese may have blown up what buildings the allied bombs had missed, and pulled out—possibly for Alexishafen, about 10 miles north.

The Americans encountered no anti-aircraft fire in either the bombing raid or subsequent strafing sweeps.

Periled by U. S. Landing.

Madang not only has been heavily bombed recently, but has been under threat since the landing of American invasion troops at Saidor, about 45 air line miles to the southeast, Jan. 2. The Americans have pushed their patrols toward the Madang area, which includes Bogadjim, about 15 miles to the south.

Australians advancing up the Ramu valley, inland, have reached a point in the mountains about 15 miles south of Bogadjim. A spokesman of Gen. MacArthur said only seven miles separated them from the Americans.

Hit Jap Sub at Rabaul.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 10 [Thursday]—(AP).—Air craft from Solomon Islands air fields, in more poundings of the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, scored a direct hit on a surfaced submarine in the harbor, destroyed 19 planes, and spread 129 tons of bombs on two airdromes. The submarine may have been used as a cargo carrier to help supply Rabaul.

Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today told of the eighth raid in 10 days Monday, in which torpedo and dive-bombers struck at Vunakanau and Tobera airdromes, destroying or damaging 26 gun positions and seven parked aircraft, as well as tearing up the air strips. Anti-aircraft fire was intense until the bombers knocked out the gun positions.

[A dispatch from Jack Turcott, New York News correspondent, said it no longer is safe for a Jap ship to drop anchor in Rabaul harbor for 24 hours and enemy merchant tonnage there has dropped 26 per cent since Jan. 1.]

Pacific Isles One of Three Routes in March to Tokio

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[Regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

This month witnesses an American advance into the Marshall Islands, the most easterly of the large number of islands held by the Japanese.

An advance to the far east westward from Hawaii, thru the Marshall Islands, and then thru the other islands farther on has long been envisaged. It is in fact the classic route—the west route.

The route that Gen. MacArthur's forces have been taking is the south route, while Adm. Mountbatten's command is to follow the east route. All these routes are eventually to meet at Tokio. The north route from the Aleutian Islands, or from Siberia, is not at this time available.

Two Island Classes.

The Pacific ocean islands are of two general classes, the coral and the volcanic islands. They differ markedly in their characteristics. The method of attacking them will differ too.

The coral islands are low and flat. The coral builds up from the tops of submerged mountains.

Coral islands have a poor soil. About the only vegetation is grass, cocoanut palms and the pandanus.

Volcanic Isles Bigger.

Coral islands can be shelled and bombed to destruction. It is next to impossible in such small islands to avoid the hurricane of fire which battleships and bombers can deliver.

The volcanic islands are larger than the coral islands. Their soil is extremely fertile. Anything that will grow in the tropics can be raised. Their civilization is higher. It will be harder to capture such of these islands as are defended.

Coral islands are nearly all beach, and landings can be made almost anywhere. Not so on the volcanic islands.

The route of Gen. MacArthur thru the Solomon Islands, New Britain, and New Guinea is over volcanic islands. After two years of fighting, the Japs are still holding out in each of these places.

The Gilbert Islands were coral islands. Altho we had heavy losses at Tarawa, we captured the entire Gilbert group in less than a week.

Carolines Are Next.

After the Marshall Islands are taken come the Caroline Islands. This is a still more extensive series of islands, which stretch over 1,800 miles from east to west. The Carolines are partly coral, and partly volcanic islands.

North of the center of the Carolines are the Marianas Islands. This is a smaller group, only 400 miles long, extending in a north and south line.

In our march across the Pacific it will probably be necessary to take all of these islands in due time. No one should delude himself into believing that this will be an easy task.

It declared the incident of St. Paul's church, searched last week by Fascist police, was of "enormous gravity." St. Paul's is outside Vatican City, in Rome proper.

ENDS 5-YEAR SIEGE OF CONSTIPATION!

"Now as Regular as Anyone!" Says H. C. Durand

Here's a sincere, unsolicited letter every disappointed "doser" will want to read:

"I'm 82 years old, and have been constipated over 5 years, going as much as 5 days without a movement. Pills and laxatives would relieve me only for the day I took them. Next day I'd be as bad as ever. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Am now on my second box, and as regular as anyone could want, thanks to regular use of your wonderful product!" Mr. H. C. Durand, 221 N. Columbus Ave., Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.

Sounds like "magic," doesn't it? Yet, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really can, and does, get at a common cause of constipation—lack of certain dietary "cellulosic" elements! That's because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements—which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It is simply a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins daily. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

TRIBUNE WRITER SEES MARINES STORM ROI ISLE

Battle Japs in Concrete Pillboxes.

boxes and a large blockhouse at the eastern edge of Roi Island, near the bayou formed by the spit and causeway. Roi Island is entirely occupied by an air port, Namur by garrisons, barracks, warehouses, and services buildings.

Marines Crowd Beaches.

The beach is now filling up with marines who await orders before advancing. Col. Louis R. Jones, 27 years a marine, with a cigar in his mouth, orders his staff to call back the tanks behind the objective line and prepare for a coördinated attack along the entire Roi front. Runners stream in with messages, junior officers return to keep Col. Jones posted on developments.

Bullets constantly kick sand off the revetment top. We all hit the dirt as the Japs open up from a burned out fuel dump 100 yards to the right. A wounded Jap is headed down the beach, shot in the mouth. He sits with his eyes closed, holding his head in pain.

Beside us a rugged marine pours his precious water into his cupped palm, from which a tiny captured Jap kitten drinks thirstily.

Beyond the engineers are blasting a concrete sewer in which scores of Japs have taken refuge, now and then poking out their close cropped heads to snipe or toss grenades. Each blast kicks slabs of sewer cover high in the air and kills scores of Japs.

Use Flame Throwers.

Off to the right assault engineers are using flame throwers on pillbox entrances. They turn the flame down the sewer. It flushes out two Japs a few yards to the east, who are cut down by a spurt of the flame. Ahead of the advanced troops the flame throwers dart on in a crouching position, halting occasionally to mop up resistance.

Capt. Frank Snepp of Memphis, Tenn., has led his company to a half destroyed blockhouse where many Japs are still holding out. He calls for a tank, which fires five rounds into the half open door of the fort. That finishes the blockhouse crew, but strong resistance still comes from trenches and pillboxes.

The island is almost ours. It sounds as if the other battalion on Namur Island to the east is having slower going. They are calling for air support, which our boys here have been unable to use because of the faster advance. Thus far our casualties have been light.

Heaps of Dead Japs.

A quick tour of the south and part of the west beaches shows that the fleet and air force did a magnificent job of reducing the strong points. Every prepared position had had at least one direct hit. A huge blockhouse on the west beach has huge gaping holes. Hot fire still rages inside.

In pillboxes and dugouts along the beach are heaps of Japs caught by shell or bomb hits. In fact, most of Roi Island's Japs are killed by bursts—shell, bomb, grenades, mortar fire, and demolition charges. A comparative few are left for the rifle men.

Col. Jones announces at 5:30 p. m. that Roi Island is secured. The mopping up of the remaining Japs in isolated spots continues as the marines overrun the island, collecting souvenirs.

Navy corpsmen, the unsung heroes of these amphibious operations, stream back from the north beach with the wounded. They deposit their stretcher loads at aid stations and return for more, while the sweating doctors begin their work.

His face drawn in pain of a leg shattered by a Jap bullet, a marine asks the doctor about to administer an opiate, "Will this hurt?"

We dig in, expecting a visit from the Jap air force by moonlight. Bullets whine all night over our foxhole in the middle of the south runway. Whether they are ours or the Japs we can't tell.

Heavy showers make a puddle of our bed. But we shiver thru the night rather than get our necks out in the mesh of angry, buzzing, hot stuff. Between naps we hear a plane high overhead. It may be a Jap.

'TERRIBLE TWINS' OF NAVY BLAST 884 JAP PLANES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The "terrible twins" of the navy's Pacific air arm—Vought Corsair and Grumman Hellcat fighters—destroyed 884 enemy planes in 1943, the navy reported today.

Lt. Ira C. Kepford.

The Corsair first went into action in February, 1943, and ended the year with a record of 584 Japanese planes. Only 108 Corsairs were lost.

The Hellcat made its bow last Sept. 1. From then until the end of the year pilots flying them destroyed 300 enemy planes. Only 62 Hellcats were lost.

Lt. [j. g]. Ira C. Kepford, Muskegon, Mich., former Northwestern university football star, destroyed four Jap bombers at Rabaul in a Corsair.

Green and wax beans will sell at 27 cents a pound, down 4 cents from last week; cabbage, 2 pounds for 10 cents, down 2 cents; bunched carrots, 9 cents a bunch, down 1 cent; bulk carrots, 5 cents a pound, down 1 cent, and spinach, 13 cents a pound, down 1 cent.

Original pack and repacked tomatoes will be 1 cent a pound higher at 31 and 37 cents, respectively. California oranges will retail at 5 pounds for 50 cents, an increase of 10 cents; Florida oranges, 5 pounds for 35 cents, up 5 cents, and tangerines, 5 pounds for 55 cents, up 10 cents.

U. S. FIELD HOSPITAL AT ANZIO SHOT UP BY NAZIS AFTER BOMBING

ALLIED HDQ. IN ITALY, Feb. 9 (AP).—Allied headquarters announced today that enemy planes machine gunned the American field hospital on the Anzio beachhead after bombing it Monday.

"One of our hospitals has been bombed and machine gunned by enemy planes," a war report said, giving no further official details of the attack, which resulted in 27 deaths and 68 other casualties. Three American nurses were among the dead. The hospital was in the open and clearly marked. Among the nurses who helped organize relief for survivors of the raid was Lt. Helen Talboy of Des Moines, Ia.

Mass funeral services for the victims were held in a tent chapel. The fact that the hospital tents were both bombed and machine gunned indicated the attack was a deliberate one by more than one enemy craft.

CHICAGO NURSE ON MARSHALLS HOSPITAL SHIP

Lt. [j.g.] Sophia G. Monteville, 9345 Throop st., one of the few American women who have had a close-up view of allied offensive action in the South Pacific, is a veteran of 14 years in the navy nursing corps. She is senior nurse aboard the hospital ship which recently lay close off the coast of Kwajalein island during shellings by American planes and warships. Before her enlistment in the navy in 1930, Lt. Monteville lived with her sister, Mrs. Edward D. Smith. She received her training at St. Elizabeth's hospital and served four years at Great Lakes.

YANKS UNLEASH ALL-OUT SMASH TO WIN CASSINO

tion post, allied artillery laid down a terrific barrage against enemy positions and waves of allied bombers pounded German heavy gun positions in the mountain pass north of Cassino.

The famous monastery, which overlooks Cassino and hundreds of square miles of surrounding countryside, has been spared by the American artillery. The army newspaper Stars and Stripes said Italian prisoners reported that 3,000 Italian civilians had taken refuge in it.

[A dispatch from the front said German reënforcements in Cassino and on Monastery hill have given the enemy an advantage over American troops in both sectors.]

Gain North of Cassino.

American troops north of Cassino and British forces to the south on the Garigliano river front registered small gains against strong German opposition. Activity on the Adriatic end of the front was limited to patrol clashes.

[The Americans have made "short local advances west of Cassino," the British radio said, and the British 8th army on the Adriatic coast inflicted "large casualties" on a German unit probing British positions.]

In all allied planes flew 1,500 sorties yesterday without loss, pounding enemy troop concentrations, air fields, and rail yards over a wide area. A British destroyer and a Dutch gunboat bombarded German installations near Formia, on the Italian west coast.

GERMAN WAR REPORT

Of Italy, yesterday's German war bulletin, as broadcast by Berlin, said:

"At the landing head of Nettuno, German positions were advanced by several kilometers despite stubborn British resistance. Seven hundred prisoners were taken. Strong enemy counter-attacks supported by tanks and naval artillery were warded off. Fighting still is going on.

"The German air force silenced enemy batteries near Aprilia [10 miles west of Cisterna] by direct hits and destroyed several material depots and six enemy machines.

"Enemy embarkations at the beachhead were effectively attacked by battle planes and heavy batteries.

"On the south front fighting in the sector of Cassino-Terelle increased in intensity. Numerous enemy thrusts were unsuccessful."

Report Badoglio Restores Rights of Italian Jews

ALLIES SHORT OF LANDING CRAFT FOR BIG INVASION

Need Thousands for Attack on Coast.

[The writer of the following dispatch, who was long assigned to Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters in the Mediterranean, has been transferred to London to cover Eisenhower's new headquarters for the invasion of Europe from the west.]

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP).—If the invasion of Europe from the west is going to open with the margin of safety that is the fetish of Gen. Montgomery, American and British genius must quickly solve another war shortage — landing craft — because the allies' amphibious warriors and landing craft, like men, are highly expendable.

Everything else—guns, men, tanks and planes — the allies have in plenty, and even ships to carry them across the seas. One by one, American mass production and skill have licked allied material weaknesses. But the ungainly ships with the queer shapes, the landing craft, now are of number one priority to unlock Hitler's fortress.

Will Need Thousands.

It took more than 2,000 to invade Sicily. They ranged in size from 5,000 tons down to less than 100. It will take many times this number to attack Europe. Not only must a vast initial force be on hand, but thousands more must be in reserve.

The difference between the swift, smooth landings in Sicily, which was attacked at many points, and the desperate fighting at Salerno is largely one of having sufficient numbers of landing craft.

Lacking at Nettuno.

For example, one of the difficulties of the recent landing south of Rome was that there was a reef along the coast which made it impossible to use large LSTs [landing ships, tanks]. Special ships with a shallow enough draft but big enough to carry a large number of tanks had to be brought in for the operation.

UPHOLDS ARMY RULE OF SEAMEN ON SUPPLY SHIPS

Judge Refuses to Upset Sailor's Court Martial.

Columbus, O., Feb. 9 (AP).—Judge Mell G. Underwood of federal District court, in a decision which he said was precedent setting, today ruled that merchant seamen serving on vessels operated as a part of an army supply line are subject to military jurisdiction.

The decision was given in denying a writ of habeas corpus to Jacob M. Berue of Philadelphia, Pa., a CIO merchant seaman sentenced to seven years at hard labor Jan. 11, 1943, by an army court-martial in Casablanca, Morocco.

The sentence later was reduced to two years and Berue was confined in the federal reformatory in Chillicothe, O.

Accused of Striking Skipper.

The seaman was charged with "provoking an incident on the high seas." Berue's petition for the writ said he struck the master of the Anthony Wayne while the ship was in convoy en route from the United States to Casablanca.

The seaman contended the military court lacked jurisdiction because he was a civilian.

William L. Standard of New York, chief counsel for the CIO National Maritime union, of which Berue is a member, contended refusal of the court to grant the writ would in effect place approximately 250,000 civilian seamen under military jurisdiction.

Circumstances Cited by Judge.

Judge Underwood commented that ordinarily ships are not under army jurisdiction, but the peculiar circumstances under which the Anthony Wayne was operating placed it under jurisdiction of military authorities instead of maritime law.

He said these circumstances were that the vessel "was carrying soldiers and military supplies in convoy thru seas infested by submarines to actual fighting lines of the army."

This made the vessel a part of an "army in the field" and it "was an actual part of an army supply line," he declared.

Army Officer on Ship.

The Anthony Wayne was described as the property of the United States and operated by the Matson Navigation company under an agreement with the war shipping administration. The ship's master was a civilian, but there was an army security officer aboard.

Judge Underwood held Berue's offense was committed when the seaman was "accompanying or serving with the armies of the United States within the meaning and intent of the second article of war," which provides in part that all persons accompanying or serving with the armies of the United States in the field are under military jurisdiction.

"The court-martial convened at Casablanca had jurisdiction," Judge Underwood concluded.

Janitor Fined After 3 Charge He Abused Flag

Mrs. Marion Johnson, 9355 Baltimore av.; Martin Gustav Johnson, 3047 E. 92d st., and Walter Johnson, 10636 Avenue H, charged in the South Chicago court yesterday that they heard George Yavor, 49, of 10545 Torrence av., a steel mill janitor, abuse the flag, the United States and the President. Yavor denied their accusations but was fined $100 and costs by Judge Daly on a charge of disorderly conduct. The Johnsons are not related. They said the incident occurred in a tavern at 3061 E. 91st st.

EIGHT CONVICTS TO PRESENT OWN CASES IN COURT

Eight Indiana state prison convicts, including four lifers, today will be taken under guard from Michigan City to South Bend, where they will argue for their freedom on writs of habeas corpus in federal court.

Warden Alfred F. Dowd said the state will oppose the writs on its contention that the prisoners have not exhausted legal remedy in state courts.

The convicts, all of whom will be their own lawyers, are George Sneed, 10 years, auto banditry; James Garrett, life, second degree murder; Ruben Foxhall, 10 years, auto baiditry; Winston Posey, life, kidnaping; Earl Watson, 1 to 10 years, assault with intent to kill; Charles Potter, life, rape; Williams Watkins, 20 years, burglary, and life as a habitual criminal, and Frank Potts, life, murder.

All wrote their own petitions from legal information obtained from law books in the prison library, Dowd said.

They told inspectors they spent a check for $45, taken from one letter, for clothing.

PUPILS' CRUSADE TO TURN STAMPS INTO WAR BONDS

A "treasure hunt" designed to bring out of hiding the partly filled war stamp books owned by Cook county's 690,000 public and parochial school children and their friends and neighbors was announced yesterday by Frank McNair, county chairman of the 4th war loan drive.

It is estimated that 3,234,000 unfilled stamp books in Cook county have an average value of $13.75. Their owners will be urged to turn them into $25 bonds by paying the extra $5 [average] necessary to make up the purchase price of $18.75. The children will start canvassing for the books Tuesday.

County Past Three Quarter Mark.

Bond sales in the county thru Tuesday, the last day for which complete figures are available, were $555,798,000, McNair said. This is 77 per cent of the county's quota of $721,818,400. The drive started Jan. 18 and will close for corporation sales Tuesday and for individual sales on Feb. 26. Latest available figures show corporation sales at 95 per cent of quota and individual sales at $110,509,000, or 44 per cent.

Chicago Stock exchange trading will halt for 15 minutes at noon for a rally of 500 salesmen and executives of security houses and banks to stimulate lagging sales to individuals.

Marshall Field & Co. yesterday held a "celebri-tea," open to buyers of $100 bonds, in the Walnut room of the retail store. The cast of entertainers was headed by Gene Tierney, movie actress, and Groucho Marx, comedian. Sales totaled $1,100,000.

AFTER 1½ YEARS, U. S. TO SPEED UP SEDITION TRIAL

Rogge Promises Action in March or April.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The justice department will make every effort to begin trial of the long pending sedition case in March or early April at the latest, O. John Rogge, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Biddle and prosecutor in the case, told reporters today. The first indictment in the case was returned July 21, 1942.

Meanwhile, Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher in federal court took under advisement demurrers which would quash the latest sedition indictment [the third] on the grounds that it is duplicious and is barred by the statute of limitations. Justice Eicher gave defense attorneys until Feb. 18 to file additional memoranda on the statute of limitations.

Limitation Law Cited.

Floyd Lanham, Chicago attorney representing Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, contended in his argument today that that indictment "will never sustain a conviction" because he said it was returned more than 3½ years after the crime charged in the indictment allegedly was committed. He said in cases not punishable by death, the law is that proceedings to prosecute must be instituted within three years after the crime was committed.

Rogge announced near the close of the day's session that the justice department is preparing a bill of particulars that will name for the defendants some of the allegedly seditious documents they are accused of distributing. This action is expected to aid materially in clearing the way for bringing the case to trial at an early date.

The justice department heretofore had refused at all times to name any of the specific overt acts of which each defendant is being accused.

Rogge proposed, as a means of hastening the trial, that he join with defense attorneys in a "pre-trial conference" at which the government would show them all of the publications they intend to use as evidence in the case and the defendants would stipulate which of the documents were published by them.

Defendants Veto Plan.

Rogge's proposal was vetoed immediately by many of the defendants. The judge said such an agreement would have to be purely voluntary on the part of the defendants.

Frank H. Myers, attorney for William Robert Lyman Jr., in arguing that one paragraph of the indictment charges the defendants with conspiring prior to the enactment of the law under which they are indicted, told Judge Eicher that "unless you expect to sit as a court of appeals on Judge Adkins' decision, you will have to find this paragraph invalid."

Judge Jesse C. Adkins, now ill, had invalidated the first count of the second indictment returned against some of the defendants on the ground that it charged a conspiracy prior to the enactment of the law. Rogge yesterday had urged that the indictment be kept intact even if Judge Eicher should conclude that the disputed paragraph does charge a conspiracy prior to the enactment of the law.

To do this Judge Eicher would have to overrule Judge Adkins. Defense lawyers said Rogge's efforts "come precious close to double jeopardy."

ASKS U. S. HUNT AMELIA EARHART IN MARSHALLS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Rep. Heffernan [D., N. Y.] proposed today the army and navy search for possible evidence that Amelia Earhart landed in the Marshall Islands on her round the world flight in 1937 and that her fate had been concealed by the Japanese.

The American aviatrix was lost on a flight from Lae, New Guinea, to Howland Islands, 2,556 miles distant and on an air line route south of the Marshalls.

Heffernan wrote Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox that Miss Earhart may have flown over the Marshalls, have seen the Japanese's "illegal operations," and then have been forced or shot down.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by George Doss, 2829 Calumet avenue].

THE QUESTION.

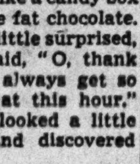
What was the most embarrassing incident that happened to you while you were on duty as a hotel maid?

WHERE ASKED.

The Palmer House.

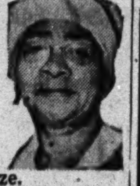
THE ANSWERS.

Minnie Britton, 5542 S. State st.—Before one of the guests checked out, he offered me what looked like a candy box with one fat chocolate. I was a little surprised, but I said, "O, thank you. I always get so hungry at this hour." Then I looked a little closer and discovered it was a lapel pin.



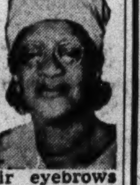
Josephine Patterson, 4734 Michigan av.—I often carry a lunch box and eat when I have extra time. Once I checked an occupied room, thinking the guest was out, and when he spoke I was so startled I threw the box and scattered apples and sandwiches on the floor.

Amanda Workman, 5318 Michigan av.—After work one night, four of us were singing Pistol Packin' Mama and jitterbugging. We didn't see two men watching from the open door. They applauded and handed us each a dollar. That was truly embarrassing especially because we weren't professionals.



Willie Cottrell, 4141 Prairie av.—During one of the bond drives I took care of a room for a Hollywood actress. When my knock was unanswered, I thought she had left. I walked to the bed and whipped off the covers—and she was still in it! I was too embarrassed to apologize.

Minnie Bennlefield, 3006 Prairie av.—I knew the President's son was going to stay at our hotel, but I didn't know it was his room I was attending. When I saw him I asked him if he was the President's son. When he said he was, I was so thrilled I dropped my towels. It embarrassed me when he asked if I didn't feel well.



Corilla Wilson, 5604 Prairie av.—As I was cleaning the bathroom floor, the guest walked in and reached for a glass of water. As he did, his bottle of Scotch slipped, broke, and splashed all over me. That was embarrassing enough, but later, on the street car, people lifted their eyebrows when they sniffed the Scotch.

3 DEATHS HELD ACCIDENTAL IN CAR THEFT CASE

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the inquest on three young men who were killed when a stolen auto in which they and two companions were riding crashed against a tree at Kean av. and 87th st., Willow Springs on Jan. 20. The dead were Walter Gron, 21, of 5017 S. Kildare av.; Eugene Tero, 17, of 3941 S. California av., and Joseph Szklankowski, 18, of 4900 S. Kedvale av. Two others, Edmond J. Polejewski, 23, of 4922 S. Karlov av., and Howard Brinker of 4955 S. Kedvale av., who were injured, are scheduled to appear in Felony court on April 3 on charge of robbery.

CAN'T MEET PAY RAISES, BRITISH COAL MEN SAY

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The British treasury reacted swiftly today to a coal owners' announcement that they cannot afford to pay the miners' the increased wages decreed last month by a government tribunal. The treasury promised a decision within a few days on the coal owners' request for what amounts to a government subsidy, and was reported to have determined that the miners must receive their extra pay by the end of next week.

The coal owners say the industry is insufficiently prosperous to finance pay increases estimated at between 28 and 40 million dollars annually, and comes at a time when all leftist groups are clamoring for the nationalization of the mines. The fact that both the owners' and miners' representatives accepted the new rates is expected to revise agitation in parliament and elsewhere for state ownership.

Face Nationalizing Issue.

Nationalization of the mines, public utilities and transport are the main planks in the Labor party platform. Recent by-elections have revealed that there is strong support for this since nowhere have Conservative candidates, even when elected, received anything like the majorities in the 1935 general election. Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin himself, before joining the government, was one of the main advocates of nationalization.

Bevin recently startled the house of commons by remarking that he would only be in office another couple of months. Subsequently, it was explained that the minister of labor was only joking, but the test may come to a head if the Laborites seize the opportunity now provided by the coal owners to bring the issues over the mines to parliament.

Prices Recently Raise.

The dispute over wages and the decision to award higher pay was precipitated, it is recalled, by Bevin's boy conscripts who, while observing all war-time regulations governing mine labor and giving the legal three weeks' notice of intention to strike, forced the government to admit that they were underpaid and adjust the basic rates both for conscripts and most classes of regular mine workers accordingly.

The mine owners want the government to grant them an outright subsidy or allow a further substantial increase in coal prices which were raised only last month by 60 cents a ton. At the start of the war coal prices ranged from $9 to $12.20 a ton. Today they vary between $12.20 and $14 a ton.

The statement issued by the Mining association said, "The money is not in the industry, which can only finance its existing obligations week by week."

TRANSOM THIEVES STEAL BONDS.

Thieves who crawled thru a transom stole postal savings stamps and war bonds valued at $356 from his apartment, Jeno Bettina, 2616 N. Clark st., reported to police yesterday.

EXPECT U. S. TO BACK DE GAULLE RULE OF FRANCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP)—The United States is expected to broaden relations with the French national committee in Algiers enabling the committee to serve as the temporary government of liberated areas of France when allied forces invade Europe.

A statement revising American policy probably will be issued by President Roosevelt.

Washington action undoubtedly will be paralleled in London.

De Gaulle Attitude Differs.

American policy toward De Gaulle has been a source of lively controversy. Some elements have contended the committee should be recognized as the government of France, but the White House and state department have stood firm on limited recognition.

[A dispatch from another news service last night said allied troops will bring French currency with them when they invade France. It will not be "military money," but part of the French currency tho different in appearance from present franc notes, it was said.]

Authority Was Restricted.

It is understood that a formula is being worked out in accord with that principle and military realities. Areas of strategic importance will be under military control. As fighting forces advance liberated areas will pass under civilian authority.

This country's relations with the French committee are based on a statement by President Roosevelt last Aug. 26, recognizing the committee as head of territories in which it exercised authority. This includes everything except the German occupied homeland and Japanese Indo-China.

This limited recognition was unsatisfactory to the committee because De Gaulle feared his authority in France might be denied.

WOMAN BURNED IN FIRE.

Eight women lodgers escaped uninjured, but Mrs. Alice Meister, owner of a rooming house at 528 Oakdale av., suffered burns on her hands and ankles yesterday when she tried to extinguish a fire which started in the basement of the three story building.

SMEARERS AIM FOR NYE'S SCALP IN NORTH DAKOTA

State Early Battleground with G.O.P. Split.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 9.—Sen. Nye [R., N. D.], arch foe of the New Deal, is facing a fight for renomination that is making North Dakota one of the early battlegrounds in 1944 politics. The state, noted for its complex politics, this time not only has an intrastate contest between rival political groups for Nye's seat but in the background a smear campaign from eastern internationalists and global planners is declared to be getting under way against Nye.

Sen. Nye.

In this city some leading neutrals, so far as politics can be neutral in this state, as well as Nye supporters, say that the senatorial contest involves an effort from outside to split the anti-New Dealers and the anti-interventionists before Pearl Harbor to beat Nye. North Dakota, like the rest of the midwest, is overwhelmingly against the New Deal at Washington, as shown in its elections.

The state primaries do not come until June, but next month the first test comes in the conventions of the two rival factions in the Republican party. These conventions are a hangover from years ago when the Nonpartisan league grabbed control of the Republican party machinery, forcing Simon-pure Republicans to organize as an Independent Voters' association, the IVA, as it was called.

Party Within a Party.

The league was a party within the Republican party, and the two pre-primary conventions have survived. They make slates for the primaries. The league holds its convention March 7. The regular Republican convention, sometimes called the Progressive Republican convention, meets March 17. County conventions to pick delegates to the state meetings are held this month.

Much is cooking, but nothing has jelled as yet on the slates. Rep. Usher Burdick is being urged by some of the supporters of Sen. William Langer to run for the senate on the theory he could win indorsement of the league convention over Nye.

Lynn Stambaugh, former national commander of the Legion, is being boomed by some for indorsement by the regular Republican convention instead of Nye. Considerable doubt is expressed by politicians that he will run. Judge James Morris of the Supreme bench is likewise talked of, but politicos say in this state it is not popular for a judge to run for another office. Some guessers say no indorsement may be voted.

Three Way Fight Possible.

In case both conventions indorsed other candidates than Nye, the latter would have to run without support of either organization and there would be a three way fight in the primary. General belief among politicians here is that Burdick may not run unless it shapes up as a triangular fight. So there are possibilities of all sorts in a two way race. Observers here say Nye would win hands down. On nationalism versus internationalism Nye and Burdick have similar records.

Control of the league is in the hands of Sen. Langer, known as the "stormy petrel" of politics. Frank A. Vogel, manager of the Bank of North Dakota, the state owned bank, is the league's master mind. Their wishes are expected to control the league convention. Langer is regarded here as unfriendly to Nye, who beat him for the senatorship six years ago both in the primaries and in the election itself, in which Langer ran as an independent. There have been rumors here that difficulties between the two men have been patched up but nothing is definite. Burdick's chief boosters are Langer men.

By radio, eastern internationalists, the Nye forces say, are working for the defeat of the senator. The New Deal at Washington, too, Nye's friends declare, is out to get Nye as a thorn in the flesh, and in devious ways are encouraging contests against Nye in the primaries. Some New Dealers in the state, it is figured, will vote in the Republican primaries against Nye.

Willkie supporters too, are taking the warpath against Nye, who put Willkie on the spot in the investigating committee that brought forth the Willkie break about "campaign oratory." Nye supporters declare that smear literature from eastern groups is being quitely circulated.

NEGRO REPUBLICANS FROM 42 STATES TO MAP PROGRAM HERE

Negroes from 42 states are expected to attend a national Negro Republican conference here tomorrow and Saturday, Lincoln's birthday. This will be an unprecedented event in the political history of the race, according to the sponsors.

Conferees are to consider recommendations to the Republican national convention, which will be held here June 26, particularly planks touching Negro participation in the post-war program. They also will discuss the party position on the rights of minorities and may request the G. O. P. to express their demand for Negro representation at the peace table.

George W. Lawrence, an arbitrator for the Illinois industrial commission, is leader of the conference. Other sponsors include Roscoe Conkling Simmons, Dr. J. B. Martin, owner of the Chicago Giants baseball team and a candidate for sanitary district trustee; William E. King, and O. Stanton De Priest. Sessions in the Pershing hotel, 6400 Cottage Grove avenue, will be open to the public.

REPORT F. D. R.'S NAME NOT TO BE ON APRIL BALLOT

Democrats Decide to Switch Plans.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

President Roosevelt's name probably will not be on the Illinois primary ballot April 11, it was learned last night. The preference primary in this state enabled him to show his strength prior to his second and third term campaigns.

There was immediate speculation that the change in plans was to prevent a clear-cut showing of his slump in popularity. In 1936 he received 1,416,411 votes in the primary without an opponent on the ballot. With John N. Garner running against him in 1940, the President got 1,176,531 votes.

At a Springfield meeting of Democratic leaders Tuesday it was announced that Roosevelt would be in the primary, presumably without his signature, as was the case in 1940. State Chairman Edward P. Allen of Quincy and Albert J. Horan, Cook county executive subcommittee chairman, said it had been agreed to put petitions of candidacy before the public soon.

Report Mayor Opposed Plan.

Last night it was reported that Mayor Kelly frowned upon the plan, believing that it would place the President's actions under a political shadow henceforth. Horan saw in the plan a means of bringing out a larger Democratic vote, but other leaders said there would be no contests to necessitate such a measure. Whether word of White House disapproval came thru is not known.

State Chairman Allen, reached at Quincy, said he had not heard of the reversal in program.

"We decided at Springfield to put the President's name on the ballot," he said. "I hadn't known of any change, but, of course, we will be glad to consider any new angles on the subject at a subcommittee meeting early next week. Certainly we wouldn't want to embarrass the President."

Edward J. Barrett, former state auditor and treasurer now with the marines in Hawaii, will be the choice of Cook county leaders for secretary of state, it was reported last night. He signed a petition of candidacy before leaving here a few weeks ago. Should he be elected while absent, the law provides that the incumbent serve until he returns and is qualified. Ill health kept Edward J. Hughes, Democrat, from running.

Second in Patronage.

This office, with 2,000 jobs, is the second most important politically, ranking next to the governor's office in patronage power. State's Atty. Courtney, no friend of Mayor Kelly, is the candidate for governor.

Two downstate Democrats already are in the field for secretary of state—Louie E. Lewis of Christopher, former state treasurer, and Lawrence Arnold of Newton, former congressman. , Most Illinois Democratic votes are in Cook county.

Albert M. Carter of Murphysboro, banker, manufacturer, and past state commander of the American Legion, is expected to get Cook county support for state auditor.

Sveinbjorn Johnson, professor of law at the University of Illinois, yesterday announced his candidacy for attorney general on the Democratic ticket. He said he will resign his $9,000 a year university position in June. Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett assailed Johnson two years ago for holding the U. of I. post while drawing $6,500 a year as state director of the office of government reports.

REPUBLICAN CARAVAN DRAWS CROWDS AT ALL ILLINOIS STOPS

Monmouth, Ill., Feb. 9 [Special].—Attentive crowds today continued to mark the progress of the Republican caravan of state candidates which is touring downstate Illinois as a curtain raiser for the primary and election campaigns.

At every stop the "standing room only" sign was hung out. From last night's Quincy meeting where many were turned away after 600 had packed the courthouse, the candidates went to Carthage. After a capacity crowd of 300 guests who paid 75 cents each to dine while hearing Gov. Green and Richard J. Lyons, aspirant for senator, the caravan went to the courthouse to encounter a similar crowd.

In Oquawka on the Mississippi river there were 250 able to get into the courthouse, with many left outside. Comparable galleries were expected here and at the final night meeting at Macomb. Local Republican leaders in nearly every meeting town pointed out Democrats present who they said never had attended a Republican meeting before.

"The Republican party is the only agency offering Democrats a means of returning to constitutional and representative government," Gov. Green said today.

THREE ACCUSED OF $50,000 THEFTS IN WAREHOUSES

Three men, two of them ex-convicts, were held to the federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Walker on charges that they broke into nine warehouses and stole merchandise valued at $50,000 from interstate shipments.

Arrests of the men were announced by Spencer J. Drayton, Chicago area head of the federal bureau of investigation, who said they were seized by his agents and Maxwell street policemen.

They are John Arke, 41, of 2138 Cermak rd., father of three children, who was sentenced for burglary in 1919; Emil Vrlec, 35, of 2332 24th st., who served seven years for automobile larceny, and Victor Platek, 33, of 724 Grenshaw st., a truck driver and father of five children. Vrlec and Platek were held in $500 each. Bond for Arke, who denied the charges, was set at $7,500.

Agents said the burglars usually threw a brick thru a warehouse window. Then, if no alarm sounded, they would enter and remove the merchandise.

URGED TO LEAVE PARIS.

LONDON, Feb. 9 [AP].—An appeal to civilians to leave Paris voluntarily was made by collaborationist Marcel Deat, who warned in the axis controled Paris newspaper L'Oeuvre that the invasion would bring "a terrible blow to civilian population, which will suffer most."

DEATH FOLLOWS UNION QUARREL IN STEEL PLANT

Jerry Pashes, 52, employe of the Gary plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, was held by Gary police yesterday while they investigated the death of Andrew T. Brown, 51, a shop steward for the United Steel Workers union [CIO].

Brown, whose home was in Chesterton, Ind., died early in the day while waiting at the Broadway gate of the steel works for his wife, who worked on the same shift. Police learned that an hour and a half earlier Brown had been knocked down in a fight with Pashes.

Pashes admitted he struck Brown in a quarrel over Pashes' lack of a union card. An autopsy indicated Brown's death was caused by a heart attack.

SCHOOLS CLOSE AS CIO JANITORS TURN OFF HEAT.

Bay City, Mich., Feb. 9 [Special].—Six thousand pupils in Bay City public schools were sent home today when 14 of the city's 17 schools were closed for lack of heat because of a strike by CIO janitors and maintenance men.

The heatless holiday was limited to one day, however, for the janitors and maintenance men called off their strike after a meeting with School Supt. Benjamin Klager at which an agreement was reached to negotiate the dispute.

The strikers, members of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America [CIO], left their jobs in a disagreement with the board of education over demands for recognition of the union.

3 Die as Blaze Sweeps Homes Construction Plant

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 9 (AP).—A fire that raced thru the three acre plant of the National Homes corporation last night caused three deaths and damage estimated by plant officials at $250,000. The dead were Herman E. Gilbert, 74, and Frank Richardson, 23, both of Lafayette, and Dallas Ruch, 70, Mulberry, Ind. The fire started after the explosion of a lacquer spray gun operated by Richardson.

CORONER SEEKS RE-ENACTMENT OF DRAKE CASE

Victim's Daughter Plans Journey to California.

Assertions by Lt. John A. Quinn that, in his opinion, Mrs. Frank Starr Williams was accidentally slain in a scuffle with her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, over a gun, echoed yesterday when Coroner Brodie recommended that Mrs. Goodbody assist in a reconstruction of the shooting.

Mrs. Williams, wife of a diplomatic attache, was shot Jan. 19 in her room in the Drake hotel. Mrs. Goodbody also was fired upon. Both described the assassin as a fur clad gunwoman. At the inquest Tuesday, Lt. Quinn said he doubted the existence of the third woman, and expressed belief the shooting occurred during a struggle between mother and daughter. Mrs. Goodbody and Quinn's fellow policemen immediately attacked his theory as unfounded.

Mrs. Goodbody Ill.

Coroner Brodie said he had no opinion either way on Quinn's theory, but that he was overlooking no possibility, and that a reconstruction of the crime would be helpful. None has yet been held with Mrs. Goodbody assisting. She was described yesterday as too ill to participate, and hopeful of journeying to California with her sister, Miss Elizabeth Born, for a rest. Authorities were sounded out on the trip and they said they had no objection.

"I don't want Mrs. Goodbody to reënact the shooting while she is ill," said Coroner Brodie, "but I believe that when she is well enough to travel to California she will be well enough to participate in a reenactment."

Most police investigators were reported lukewarm or cold to the proposal. Lt. Quinn however, said he favored it, and his superiors, District Capt. Frank Reynolds and Supervising Capt. John Ryan, said they not only would not interfere, but would give Quinn all the help he wants if a reconstruction is held.

Drake Employes Heard.

Reynolds and Ryan disagree with Quinn's theory, holding that a third woman did the shooting, as Mrs. Goodbody says. The two captains said that they have reconstructed the shooting seven or eight times themselves, and are satisfied that her description of the action is correct.

The only other development came last night when Jack Tierney, house detective for the Drake, and Walter Shawke, a bell boy, were requestioned by detectives at the Chicago av. station in the hope that they might recollect new evidence. After the two were released, the detectives said several points had been clarified, but no material additions made.

SOLDIER VOTING MEASURE IS SENT TO CONFERENCE

House Hits Version Senate Approved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The house by voice vote today rejected the senate soldier vote bill calling for federal ballots for some service men, and thus threw the entire ballot bill dispute into the hands of a joint conference committee of both houses. The senate approved its bill yesterday.

Inasmuch as the house has gone on record, 224-168, for a bill outlawing all federal ballots and leaving the service voting in state hands, members predicted the conferees face a heated controversy in attempting to reach a compromise. The possibility of a complete deadlock was suggested.

Speaker Sam Rayburn promptly named the five house conferees, of whom three favor the house approved bill, but the senate postponed its selections until tomorrow.

Predict Floor Fight.

Some senators predicted there will be a floor fight on who shall be named to the senate conference committee. Normally, the five ranking members of the senate elections committee, which worked on the bill, would be chosen.

In this case, however, three of the ranking senators, Butler [R., Neb.], Smith [D., S. C.], and Connally [D., Tex.], opposed the modified federal ballot bill passed by the senate, while only two, Senators Austin [R., Vt.] and Green [D., R. I.], committee chairman, favored it.

Thus, if these five were selected, it is predicted the conference committee would report back a bill substantially along the lines of the house state ballot measure.

Lucas Wants Change.

Administration stalwarts, led by Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], who headed the fight for the federal "bobtailed" ballot, announced, however, that they will insist on appointment of a majority of conferees who supported the senate approved bill. Lucas said it would be absurd to have conferees who did not represent the views of the senate majority. He said his stand has been previously upheld on other legislation.

If state ballot supporters oppose this administration stand, the appointment of conferees, who are normally named by the presiding officer, would be up to the senate.

The house conferees are representatives Worley [D., Tex.], chairman of the elections committee, Bonner [D., N. C.], both federal ballot proponents, and Le Compte [R., Ia.], Ellsworth [R., Ore.], and Rankin [D., Miss.], advocates of state ballots only.

Before any plan can be adopted in conference, it must be approved by a majority of the conferees of each house. Rankin predicted today a majority of the house group will continue to insist on outlawing all federal ballots. This stand, if taken, presages a deadlock inasmuch as a majority of the senate has repeatedly insisted on the use of federal as well as state ballots.

FOUNDRY STRIKE OF 2,500 ENDED AS WLB YIELDS

A three day strike by 2,500 foundry workers in 25 Chicago plants was ended yesterday at a meeting of officials and members of local No. 233 of the Molders and Foundry Workers' union [AFL], pending a new hearing by the war labor board on a union demand for a wage increase of 6 cents an hour for all workers.

William Lorenz, district representative for the union, said that all striking workers would be back on the job this morning, and that union officials would go to Washington, D. C., to discuss the wage demands with the WLB as soon as possible.

The strike, which began Monday, was called after the WLB refused to approve the 6 cent increase agreed to by the union and the Chicago Foundrymen's association. In a telegram sent to the union the WLB agreed to grant a rehearing of the case if the foundry workers would return to their jobs.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9 (AP).—Harry Schooler, 25, aircraft plant employe who made a fortune operating dance halls for fellow swing shift workers, was convicted by a Superior court jury today on one of three counts of statutory rape against Patricia Ann Frey, 17 year old school girl. The jury recommended a jail sentence and a probation hearing was set for March 2.

As Schooler, known as the "swing shift dance king," started to leave the courtroom he was handed a notification that he had been classified 1-A in the draft.

MESA ASKS F. D. R. TO PROBE UNION MAKEUP OF WLB

Cleveland, O., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Mechanics Educational Society of America called tonight upon President Roosevelt to "order an investigation" of CIO and AFL membership on the war labor board.

The union's national administrative committee telegraphed the appeal to the President following MESA's decision to continue indefinitely a truce in its recent four day strike—that affected more than 40 Ohio and Michigan war plants—for independent union representation on the WLB.

Matthew Smith, the independent union's secretary, announced a three man subcommittee would go to Washington to confer with the President on its demands for WLB membership.

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

E. S. T. writes: "I am 26 years of age and have had three years of college training, including a year of physics and a year of college mathematics. I have been employed as an inspector for three years. Can you tell me if there would be any possibility at my age for a commission in the navy?"

ANSWER: The navy prefers candidates for a commission who are under 30 years of age and who are college graduates. However, applicants are occasionally accepted from among young men who have had at least two years of college with a good scholastic record plus three to five years of good business or industrial experience. It is suggested you visit the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Board of Trade, Chicago. If it is not convenient to visit the offices, send us a self-addressed stamped envelope for a folder describing civilian experience which may qualify an applicant for a commission.

G. K. writes: "I am employed in a war plant in the Chicago area. My draft board is hundreds of miles away and it is difficult to carry on communication. Would it be possible for me to have my draft records transferred here?"

ANSWER: You can request of your board in writing that you be given your pre-induction physical examination thru a local board most convenient for you. Similarly, you can also request to be inducted thru this same local board. Your local board may, if you request it, permit you to be interviewed by your neighborhood board and let a transcript of this interview serve as your "hearing." Under recent regulations, if you appeal your classification, your file will automatically be reviewed by the appeal board having jurisdiction over the area wherein you are employed.

F. F. J. writes: "My deceased brother's wife has written to me here at camp asking if she is entitled to file for the severance pay? He died after being discharged."

ANSWER: Mustering-out payment due a person discharged under honorable conditions after Dec. 7, 1941, who dies after leaving service, may be made to a surviving wife [or husband], or if there is no wife or husband, payments in equal shares may be made to his child or children, or in equal shares to surviving parents including stepparents, foster parents, etc., when such relationship can be established. If the deceased person served in the navy, application by letter is made to Chief of Naval Personnel, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C.; if service was in the coast guard, application is made to United States Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington; for the marines, to the Commandant of the Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., or if he served in the army, application is made to the Fiscal Director, The Pentagon, Washington 25, D. C.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S VOTE FRAUD.

To understand a demoralizing scene in Washington every literate person in the country ought to read and, if necessary, reread the following from the Constitution of the United States:

"Each state shall appoint, in such a manner as the legislature thereof shall direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the congress. . . . The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President, and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President and of all persons voted for as Vice President and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign, and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate."

There is no alternative method of electing a President. Witless comment, the prevailing comment, on the proceedings in congress assumes that there can be another method, that congress can give legality to a direct vote for President on a federal ballot. It is assumed that the controversy is a partisan fight over optional procedures. There is no optional procedure. An informed people would either have laughed the idea off or have damned the impostors who tried to make a game of their intelligence.

The state legislatures, to be sure, could direct that a part of the vote for their electors could be taken by federal ballot as proposed. The legislatures have full authority. Congress has none. The question is not one of states' rights. It is one of supreme federal law.

Because of witless comment the service vote has been involved in a fog of deception, intrigue, and twisted thinking. Mr. Roosevelt leads off, in what he thinks is his own interest, in the most preposterous falsifications ever submitted to congress by a chief executive. Even in his administration it has no precedent and it has escaped proper indictment. He advocates an election fraud and accuses the opposition of trying to perpetrate one. If we did this sort of thing often our survival as a republic would be too much of a miracle to expect.

The Republican management cannot be credited with full intelligence in handling the matter. The opposition to the nullification has helped to confuse the people by not hitting the fraud on the nose and continuing to hit it, by debating irrelevances, by consenting to the discussion of compromises and modified settlements. There can't be any compromise with lawlessness. A federal vote for President is lawless. It is an attempt to nullify the Constitution.

No other issue is involved. Yet, without a response centered wholly on the evil proposed, the opposition permitted Mr. Roosevelt to address congress as commander in chief of the armed forces and demand what he called a square deal for his army and navy. He called the honest ballot plan a fraud—and got away with it. He demanded a fraudulent voting scheme and may have convinced many people that he was right. He was audacious and false. The Republicans should have nailed him with a denunciation which could not be answered and have wasted no time on side issues.

States' rights is a poor definition of the issue. It suggests southern Democrats trying to protect their poll tax restrictions on voting, chiefly to disfranchise the Negro. Many of these politicians are fourth termers. Republicans can have no alliance with them. At any rate, the point is clear. The President is elected by state appointees, called Presidential electors. Mr. Roosevelt has been elected three times. No votes ever have been counted for him except the votes of these appointees. He knows that. He knows it even as he asks congress to permit the soldiers and sailors to vote directly for him. The part the states play is not derived from their own sovereignty or by inference. It is a delegated power. The federal Constitution delegates it. The federal organic law prescribes how a President shall be chosen. The law cannot be changed by a federal statute. Mr. Roosevelt asks for such a change.

The fourth term candidate has posed himself as the champion of voters in uniform who, he says, cannot vote unless he overcomes opposition to their ballots. This is picturesque mendacity and could have no success if unrelentingly pounded with the truth until people who needed a reminder of their own laws were no longer in doubt.

The Republicans seem to have feared that opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's lawless procedure would be construed as opposition to the uniformed vote. The fourth termers tried to make it so appear. The contrary is true. Legal ballots can be sent to the soldiers and sailors if the postoffice and the army and navy will do their duty; if Mr. Walker, Mr. Stimson, and Mr. Knox will quit stalling around and promise to carry the mail. They want to deliver illegal but pretend to see no way to deliver legal ballots.

What would happen to Mr. Roosevelt's scheme could not be known until the votes illegally cast by the services reached the state returning boards. These votes would have no standing in law. A federal statute could not lend them any. The states are anxious to give the armed men the vote. They might, they probably would, ignore the illegality, and add the irregular votes to their tabulations. But why give sanction to a fraud? Why support a nullification? Why risk a contested election?

Where the illegal ballots can go the legal ballots can go. The fourth termers could have helped if they had held their national convention in June instead of July.

The scene is not complimentary to the American political savvy which has made the Republic work. The people are being taken in by tricksters and slickers in high place whose operations they ought to see in their true light and resent.

JUSTICE FRANKFURTER ON INCONSISTENCY

Associate Justice Frankfurter has for some time been laying about him in the Supreme court, using dissenting or concurring opinions to reprove his fellow justices for expressions of doctrine that he considers heretical.

The other day he concurred with the rest of the court in an opinion concerning the bankruptcy act, but accused the other justices of resorting "gratuitously" to a "wholly novel doctrine of constitutional law" in reaching the opinion. Almost the same language was used last month by Justices Murphy and Black in criticizing one of Justice Frankfurter's opinions.

Only the week before Justice Frankfurter had concurred with Justice Roberts in a dissenting opinion protesting against a majority opinion in a seaman's compensation case which, the two dissenters held, reversed previous rulings of the court on the same subject.

"The evils resulting from overruling earlier considered decisions must be evident," said Roberts, with Frankfurter's concurrence. "In the present case the court below naturally felt bound to follow and apply the law as clearly announced by this court.

"If litigants and lower federal courts are not to do so, the law becomes not a chart to govern conduct but a game of chance; instead of settling rights and liabilities it unsettles them. . . . Respect for tribunals must fall when the bar and public come to understand that nothing that has been said in prior adjudication has force in a current controversy."

Justice Frankfurter has not always been of the same mind. In 1938, shortly after he went on the court and its membership comprised for the first time a majority of Mr. Roosevelt's appointees, he wrote a concurring opinion in a jubilant note after the court, in the O'Keefe case, had reversed opinions, running back to the famous case of McCulloch vs. Maryland, to hold that states may tax the income of federal employes.

"The volume of the court's business has long since made impossible the early healthy practice whereby the justices gave expression to individual opinions," he said. "But the old tradition still has relevance when an important shift in constitutional doctrine is announced after a reconstruction in the membership of the court."

The following year he paid his respects to the doctrine of legal consistency, expressed in the principle stare decisis, et non quieta movere [to stand by decisions and not disturb settled matters]. In Hallock vs. Helvering, an opinion dealing with inheritance taxes on contingent trusts, he said:

"We recognize that stare decisis embodies an important social policy. . . . But stare decisis is a principle of policy and not a mechanical formula of adherence to the latest decision, however recent and questionable. . . . Surely we are not bound by reason or by the considerations that underlie stare decisis to persevere in distinctions taken in application of a statute which, on further examination, appear consonant neither with the purposes of the statute nor with this court's own conception of it."

This brought the tart rejoinder from Justice Roberts, in a dissenting opinion:

"If there ever was an instance in which the doctrine of stare decisis should govern, this is it. . . . To nullify more than 50 decisions, five of them by this court, some of which have stood for a decade, in order to change a mere rule of statutory construction, seems to me an altogether unwise and unjustified exertion of power. As I shall point out, there is no necessity for such action because it has been, and still is open to congress to change the rule by amendment of the statute, if it deems such action necessary in the public interest."

Justice Frankfurter's ire against judicial inconsistency seems, from this record, to be restricted to the other fellow's inconsistency. Justice Roberts' protests are, of course, well founded. If there is one thing that can harass a people more than frivolous reversals of policy by burocratic agencies, it is similar frivolous reversals by a court. In either instance we have a government by men and not by law, regardless of the fact that the men may be sitting on a court.

Editorial of the Day

THE CARDINAL IN FEBRUARY.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The cardinal is livelier; he perches higher in the sycamore. His weather eye is toward spring. Does he feel that the sap is about to flow, that soon his favorite tulip tree will be a bower of green?

There is hope in his quicker flight, his cheerful chirp; warning in his ruffling of his bright feathers to temper chill winds. He knows there are wintry blasts to come; that surely warm sunshine and gentle breezes will follow. Brave, industrious, happy; looking on the brighter side. He is so much more likable than the lethargic, indolent ground hog, who can't make up his mind and rarely guesses right.

That new allied weapon, small enough to be carried and fired by one man, but powerful enough to pierce four inches of steel, should be tested on the author of the income tax return form.—Indianapolis News.

SHERLOCK'S FAVORITE KEY.

Discovered in Chicago: A man who wears on his watch chain the key to a Bramah lock. It is of gilded silver, and, therefore, meritorious as an ornament in a country where watch chain keys of other types, such as the Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi emblems, are familiar forms of masculine jewelry. He is worthy of mention because he is probably unique. We daresay that he is the only man in this city, perhaps in the nation, who sports a Bramah key.

* * *

Mention of Bramah locks is scattered profusely thru English fiction of the last century, from the novels of Dickens to the Sherlock Holmes stories, always with the implication that they are thiefproof. For example, see "Pickwick Papers," chapter LIII., where Mr. Lowten, the lawyer's clerk, opens the door of an office in Gray's inn with a Bramah key "with a small plug therein to keep the duct out." Evidently it was a key with a hollow nozzle.

* * *

The only Bramah key in Chicago has such a hollow nozzle. Furthermore, around the orifice are thin slots. The instrument is pushed into the keyhole and twisted until its slots find their places within the mechanism; then it is pushed into engagement and turned to unlock. In theory, the combination of slots varies on each key.

* * *

In English fiction, dispatch boxes containing secret treaties always have Bramah locks, and sure enough, our friend with the key has a dispatch box to match. It is a fine example of cabinetmaker's skill which came to him as a Christmas gift, some years before Queen Victoria celebrated her Diamond Jubilee.

* * *

The inventor of this lock, Joseph Bramah, flourished from 1748 to 1814. His ingenuity also produced other popular gadgets, such as the beer-pump.

LINCOLN IN WAR TIME.

Between his laughter and his tears,
Standing like an oak of Illinois,
He bastioned a nation in its fears,
Comforting a mother weeping for her boy.

He labored within a nation's law,
Craving no powers above the state,
Holding the republic's history in awe,
Lamenting a people's fratricidal hate.

His ear was over the country's heart,
Listening to catch its every sob;
He strove with all the statesman's art
To still and shame the spirit of the mob.

He salved an afflicted nation's sore,
Rebuking any boast of northern power,
And when he lay upon that playhouse floor
The south came to its desperate zero hour.

Mankind may need him when this war ends,
For angry men will attempt another peace;
If he were here in love to make amends,
The racial conflicts might forever cease.

How Bunn the Baker Was Discovered.

Linemaster: I am the man who discovered Bunn the Baker of Baraboo, who started him on his way to fame. Thirty years or so ago I "shot an arrow into the air," or caused it to be shot. It happened this way:

With a young wife I was on vacation at Devil's Lake, Wis. A bunch of us young vacationers hiked to Baraboo, near by. On a bakeshop window I saw the sign of John C. Bunn.

I was fresh from two years' adventuring in Chicago. I had become a regular reader of and an occasional contributor to the Line. Nobody else in our hiking party had been a "contrib," but nearly everybody knew the Line and had followed the occasional contributions under the heading, "Names Is Names."

I pointed to the sign of Bunn the Baker. The happy association, the alliteration, the rhythm of it grew upon us all. Soon we were swinging along the street, as young vacationers do, chanting "Bunn the Baker of Baraboo!"

It was wonderful. In our party a young casual from Chicago—alas, even his name has faded with the years!—was going home that night. We put him on the train. "Bunn the Baker of Baraboo" still beset us. "Try it on the Line," I urged him. "Maybe you'll have beginner's luck; I didn't do so well last time." He said he would—and did.

In the "gloomy, intervening years," as you say [Jan. 28], I had lost track of my arrow's flight. I had all but forgotten the "golden age" in which, from my happy stance, I shot it. You pick it up, and with it probe a calloused memory. The probing hurts a little, but it helps.

Thirty years ago! Ah, me! Hewitt Taylor.

LINES IN BITTERNESS.

I wish some goddess of the muse,
Observing me one day, would use

The rhythm of my manly stride
Adown Boul Mich at morningtide

To theme a pome (not epitaph)
Like fair Cherida's lines to Gaff.

But whether I stride slow or fast,
Preoccupied the throng swings past;

Or all I get is dirty looks
From waitresses, charwomen, cooks.

It's hopeless, ah-h-h (a sigh), I guess
No lovely, star-eyed poetess

Will ever limn a line to me,
But gosh! a guy can dream . . . can't he?

LOW BACK PAIN—SCIATICA.

MOST of us know something about the way in which the spinal column is built. There are 33 bones in all. Seven of these [cervical] prop up the neck. Immediately below are the 12 dorsal. In the lower back we find 5 lumbar. There are 5 in the sacrum, or keystone bone; and 4 in the coccyx, the terminal portion of the structure.

While not as flexible as a reed, the spine will bend and sway, depending upon the pull and haul of the muscles. Most of the segments are separated by elastic, semi-solid pads which serve as cushions.

Ordinarily, we are not aware of the parts of the skeleton. It is only when pressure or strain appears that we experience difficulty. We can understand why this is—because nerves leave the spinal cord and, at their points of departure, lie in close relationship to the bones. Thus it is that sciatica may be due to trouble with the framework. The distress, which at first is felt in the thigh, may extend to the leg or foot.

There is always a tendency to assume that such an episode is brought on by injury. This is rarely the case. More often than not, we find that the nerves which emerge from the spinal segments have become irritated or inflamed. Sometimes the cause is the protrusion of a disc which lies between the vertebrae.

More frequently, however, if the patient is past middle life, the origin will be arthritis. This ailment is difficult to diagnose or identify. X-ray films may show but minor changes. Nevertheless, discomfort will be intermittent. There may be a succession of days without symptoms. On the other hand, walking or lifting may become painful suddenly.

The first thing to do is to make a careful study of the bony areas, and simple healing procedures may well be tried in the beginning. Thus the affected region may be strapped to give support. If improvement occurs, a permanent girdle may be worn at intervals. Heat may be applied and sedatives or salicylates administered internally.

The injection of a local anesthetic has long been employed. In fact, this is the plan of choice in those cases in which fibrous degeneration of the "pulleys" has given rise to distress. No attempt is made to place the solution in contact with a nerve, as this may be dangerous. It is merely introduced deep within the muscles and serves to relieve soreness temporarily and hence permit movement. If the patient can be allowed complete freedom in turning and stretching the involved sites, recovery may follow apace.

If an intervertebral disc has been squeezed forward, however, it may be necessary to hospitalize the patient for a few weeks and resort to surgical treatment.

If we assume—and we can, with justice—that nerve irritation or inflammation is responsible for sciatica the single element of rest, plus providing body support, will be of value in a number of cases.

The Monster.

Back in 1941 he was one of about 30 who started navy careers at the Glenview air station when it consisted of a grass field a mile or so square. His name was Mackie, but it wasn't long before he was known as the Monster because he was just under the limit where the navy says you are too big to fit into a cockpit.

The station's first cadet battalion was organized while the 30 were there, and cadet officers were picked. The competition was strong, for two All-American football players, hot off the front pages that fall, were in the class. But when Glenview's first cadet battalion commander stepped out and took charge one morning, it was The Monster. There were no dissenting votes.

He did pretty well after they got to Corpus Christi, too, anyway, he was one of 20-odd who didn't get weeded out along the way. And along toward the end of training, he found out what his orders would be. They were going to make him a seaplane pilot. Right then he did something unheard of.

The Monster, lest the name mislead you, was built along the lines of a very large piece of good spring steel covered with pre-war rubber. He played football for the Illini, and during summer vacations he was a life guard and had pulled drowners out on every beach from Oak st. to 63d. He was so full of energy he sort of bounced from one place to another, and when he came around a corner, you could see his chin for quite a while before The Monster arrived.

To get back to his unprecedented accomplishment: Somehow he got in to see the superintendent of aviation training and bounced up and down in front of him and [so the legend goes] pounded the desk with his fist until his orders were changed. Seaplane pilots don't get enough action. The Monster went into the office to get put into dive bombers, and that is what he was flying when his friends last heard from him. It was, as far as is known, the first and last time that the immutable laws of the Medes and Persians, as handed down by aviation training, were circumvented.

His last letter said he was somewhere in the South Pacific. Word drifted out that he was still sticking out that big jaw of his, bouncing around and waving his fists when things didn't go right. When The Monster decided something ought to be done, it was invariably done, even if it involved bouncing in front of the admiral.

And now the navy announces that Lt. [j.g.] N. W. Mackie has gone on what may have been his last mission, "Missing in action" were the words.

Maybe so, but one of his aviation classmates has a souvenir of their days at Glenview. About a week before the class was to go south, The Monster hadn't soloed yet, and he couldn't leave with the class unless he did. His administrative duties were interfering with his flying, and he was so sure he'd never make it that the classmate bet him $5 he would. The Monster, in typical fashion, talked one of the younger instructors into sneaking him up for a couple of hours of unscheduled instruction. Naturally, the classmate won the five. He now says that if the navy department wants to bet him five The Monster won't be back, they've got a bet. He may have to swim all the way back, but The Monster is just the one who can do it, and he'll probably be towing a couple of Jap battleships.

Psst! Mr. Gadley!

One of our poets, Halifax Gadley II., lamented in verse last week that he could find no word to rhyme with Chicago. John McHugh writes in to say that on April 26, 1937, using the pseudonym "B. McBeazle," this masterpiece of his was published in the Wake. All right to reprint it, Mr. Ward?

When the circus came to Chicago
I had a hard time making Pa go,
But he thought it was swell
And liked it so well,
That he went the next day
And made Ma go.

HOW COME?

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Last week THE TRIBUNE carried a story about the Dutch air line, K. L. M., being allowed to operate between Miami, Fla., and Curacao in the West Indies, while Eastern Airlines has been refused a permit over the same route because it would have had to withdraw four transport planes from its New York-Miami run.

I understand that one reason our air lines have not been able to purchase new equipment is that American made transport planes are being lend-leased to European nations for foreign service. It goes without saying that if it were not for American air power, flying American built war planes and supplied by American built transport planes, there would be no hope of the Dutch ever regaining their own country or their colonies. Yet, this Dutch air line, using American built Lockheed transport planes, is allowed to take over a route that is denied to an American air line because of lack of flying equipment.

How come? TED LEITZELL.

NOT THE BLUE NETWORK.

New York, Feb. 3.—My attention has been called to the editorial in THE TRIBUNE for Jan. 28, referring to last week's broadcast of "America's Town Meeting."

To correct what seems to be a false impression, may I say that speeches of participants in "Town Meeting" broadcasts are submitted to us only after they have been approved by the Town Hall committee which arranges the broadcast; our checking is limited to speeches in final form for broadcast, to meet the requirements of the office of censorship. Consequently, Mr. McCormick's talk was not submitted to or reviewed by any member of the staff of the Blue Network.

CITY HALL MAN POWER HOARD.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—In an article in one of today's Chicago evening newspapers, Mayor Kelly states he "can't sleep nights" because of worry about shortage of labor, and disinterest among Chicago area people toward the war effort.

Now, I for one, hate to see our mayor go without sleep, and perhaps he could ease his mind a bit if he looked around in all directions next time he walks thru the city hall, took note of some real waste of man power, and then started ridding the taxpayers of most of those tax eating "lounge lizards."

In addition to this, they subscribed for war bonds and are donating blood 100 per cent.

Nothing more will help to promote our democracy than to give wide publicity to the exemplary conduct of our minorities.

THE ADDISON STREET BUS.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—As a bus driver for the last 18 years with the Chicago Motor Coach company, I wish to express my sympathy to the rest of the drivers on Addison street, as well as to the people who depend on this service. Every day we drivers are jumped on by disgusted patrons because the bus ahead did not stop for them. Previous to Jan. 31 we had a five minute schedule from Austin avenue to the loop after the rush hour but now it's 15 minutes, so if a bus should be loaded and pass you by you have another 15 minutes to wait before you can get on the next bus.

I don't like to pass any one up, knowing these facts, but there is nothing we can do because the bus will hold just so many and no more. Don't think that the drivers like this schedule. They do not and there's plenty of criticism about it going on. Before the schedule even went into effect about 30 of us drivers went to the front office to protest this proposed schedule. We realized we had worked years to create a good name for the company only to have it torn down.

We were told that government regulations required the company to cut mileage to save on tires and gas, which no doubt is true. I always thought that transportation was vital to the war but the government keeps cutting our mileage.

POLITICAL COURT REPORTERS.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—The court reporting profession, in which there are less than 300 persons engaged in Chicago, sets a high standard by requiring an entrance examination which certifies its members and keeps the incompetents out of its ranks. Now along come some official appointments and what happens? At the mere mention of alloted stipends, politicians and racketeers interfere, ready to appoint secretaries, relatives, or friends, untrained and inexperienced in court reporting, and without examination to receive the salaries!

Court reporting is not learned overnight but requires years of application and preparation, and when attained has to be retained by devotion and diligence. If, in spite of efforts of this profession to keep its standards high enough to furnish competent work at reasonable compensation, politicians and racketeers succeed in degrading it, the court reporters as well might abandon their calling, be content to take less exacting work, enjoy the extra leisure then available to do other things not possible when their entire time is given up to court reporting, and let the politicians and racketeers attend to the verbatim recording! And how!

OPA Expands Use of Tokens in Ration Plan

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The OPA will spend another million dollars for wood fiber ration tokens in addition to the 2¾ million dollars already expended for 2 billion tokens that go into use Feb. 27, Chester Bowles, price administrator, disclosed today.

Originally hailed by OPA as a money saving innovation, the token system has been expanded rapidly as rationing officials raise their estimates of how many tokens will be needed. The total cost of the current program will be almost 4 million dollars and may reach 5 or 6 million by the end of the year.

Bowles today asked manufacturers to submit bids on a minimum order of 200 million tokens—110 million red and 90 million blue—to be set aside as a reserve for future requirements up to June 30. He said this order may be increased to 800 million.

Bids are invited on three sizes—0.642 inch [somewhat smaller than a dime], 0.88 inch [larger than a nickel], and 1 inch [about the size of a quarter], Bowles said. The cost of producing the larger sizes is being studied in the event a token of larger denomination, pernaps 5 points, may be used to supplement the 1 point tokens now being manufactured.

OPA officials denied that the interest in a larger size token was provoked by complaints from coin machine owners and transit companies using turnstiles that the small ration token now being made can be used in place of dimes by unscrupulous persons.

Bids for the new order will be opened Feb. 18 in Washington. The invitation requires delivery of the minimum order of 200 million by April 7.

When the original order for tokens was announced last fall, the OPA had planned to order 100 million additional tokens a month for 10 months as replacements for those lost or worn out. Later, OPA raised its initial order to 2 billion and dropped its plan to obtain a replacement supply.

OPA decided recently to purchase more tokens to provide a larger supply for turnover purposes and for inevitable loss. It said that replacements will be smaller than anticipated because the material used in the tokens has been found to be so durable it is used as facing for pile drivers.

In the new contract being offered, bidders will be permitted to offer any nonmetallic material, OPA said.

Bowles reported that about 1 billion 113 million of the tokens have been ordered by about 14,000 banks for distribution to approximately 600,000 retail food stores. More than one-half of the requested amount has been shipped by OPA.

The banks act as agents for OPA in handling ration "checking" accounts in which merchants deposit their collected ration stamps and against which they draw "checks" for ration points in making purchases. The banks are paid a nominal fee for the service.

OPA is paying for the tokens and their handling. The tokens will be used as the "small change" in the ration currency system, supplementing ration stamps, which will be uniformly valued at 10 points each. Consumers will receive the tokens as change when redeeming ration stamps.

Sally Issues Plea for Items to Fill Variety of Needs

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A wide variety of requests have been included in the mail recently and we hope our readers can fill some or all of them. The first comes from a group of soldiers stationed in a camp in the far northwest. To help employ their leisure time they have organized a glee club, but they are in need of music. Their station is some distance from any large city, so they would be grateful for any material our readers can send. The name and address will be supplied to any person able to help them.

As a result of the war the number of broken homes seems to have increased and child placing agencies are hard pressed to find suitable foster homes for children in need of them. Many of the people who have offered to care for such youngsters are in moderate circumstances and neither they nor the agencies can supply some of the items which the children would enjoy.

One youngster longs especially for a basketball or a football. We also have requests from a boy who wants a bicycle, and another has asked for a trumpet, but explains that he would be glad to get a clarinet or saxophone if the former is impossible.

Many of the foster mothers are caring for infants and lack baby buggies. In some cases it is impossible to locate them even in second hand stores.

Readers who have any of these items may obtain further information from this department.

Hails Creation of Cancer Cells as Step to Cure

Artificial production of cancer cells in test tubes was hailed last night as the outstanding achievement in recent years in the ceaseless battle against the dread disease by Dr. Ludvig Hektoen of Chicago, executive director of the national advisory cancer council of the United States public health service.

Dr. Hektoen, who spoke at the regional conference of the women's field army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer at the Palmer House, declared the creation of cancer cells in test tubes opens new possibilities for discovering a cure.

"If the cells can be made, why can't they be unmade?" he asked.

Dr. C. C. Little, managing director of the society, outlined a five year program designed to gain public support for cancer work on a scale now accorded tuberculosis and poliomyelitis. A three point plan for the project includes education, diagnosis and treatment, and research, he said.

Dr. John Wolfer, chairman of the Illinois executive committee of the women's field army and associate professor of surgery at Northwestern university medical school, explained the state's setup for coordination of all efforts for cancer control. Because the cancer problem is constantly undergoing change it is not a program which can be led by laymen, he declared.

A recent survey of the National Cancer institute listed 700 substances used in experiments to produce cancer in animals, Dr. Hamilton R. Fishback, associate professor of pathology at Northwestern university medical school, told the gathering. Approximately 200 of the substances brought about malignancies when employed as irritants upon animal tissues.

Other substances, he pointed out, may produce an inhibiting effect. Chief among these is brewers yeast.

The two day conference and training school for officers of the women's field army is being attended by representatives from nine middle western states—Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, and Illinois.

Audry Campbell, Grandchild of Levi Leiter, to Be Bride

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGOANS who knew Miss Audry Nancy Campbell when she lived here with her uncle and aunt, the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, will be inerested to hear that she will be married next month in the east. Today in Washington, D. C., announcement is being made of Miss Campbell's engagement to Lt. Middleton Train of the naval reserve, son of Rear Adm. and Mrs. Charles R. Train of Washington. The wedding will take place some time in March, probably in Washington or in Aiken, S. C., as Miss Campbell divides her time between the two cities.

Miss Campbell, who attended the Fermata school in Aiken, is a member of one of Chicago's prominent early families. She and her brother, Capt. Colin L. Campbell, who is stationed with the army in Chicago, are children of the late Col. Colin Campbell of the British army and the late Mrs. Campbell [Nancy Leiter], and grandchildren of the late Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant.

At present Miss Campbell is staying in Washington with her cousin's wife, Mrs. Thomas Leiter, while Mr. Leiter is stationed with the army at Camp Lee, Va. Young Mr. Leiter's sister, Mrs. Charles Thomas Clagett, and her husband also are separated by the war. While Lt. Clagett is on duty with the navy in the South Pacific his wife is living at Duration farm in Rockville, Md.

Another of Miss Campbell's cousins, Cecil Howard, and his wife, known as Frances Drake in motion pictures, live in Bel-Air, Cal. Mr. Howard's mother, the former Daisy Leiter, whose husband was the earl of Suffolk, now is living in Tucson, Ariz. She also is a sister of the late Joseph Leiter.

Future Events.

Crimson printed invitations are announcing the annual dinner meeting of the Harvard club of Chicago, to be held at 6:30 p. m. Feb. 18 in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. The dinner will give Harvard alumni one of their rare opportunities for a local reunion, as the club's annual fathers' and sons' luncheon was called off this year.

At the meeting on the 18th Dr. Roger I. Lee of Boston, Mass., a member of the class of 1902, will speak on "Harvard Looks to the Future." "America at the Crossroads in Italy" will be discussed by Gaetano Salvemini, a member of the Harvard faculty who formerly taught at the University of Florence. In making arrangements for the meeting Snelling S. Robinson will be assisted by Lyell H. Ritchie, Meyer Kestnbaum, Dr. Willard O. Thompson, Norman N. Feltes, and Harry S. Dumbaugh.

The first of four performances of the Francis W. Parker school senior play will be given for the high school of the Spaulding school for crippled children at 1:40 p. m. Feb. 18 at the Parker school. There will be another performance that night, and a matinee and evening performance on the 19th. "Pride and Prejudice," directed by Mrs. Maurice P. Geraghty, is the dramatic fare to be offered. Two complete casts will give the performances, one each day.

Valentine Special in Youthful Fashions

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Here's a valentine special in pale blue wool for the younger set. This slim, smartly fitted two piece suit has a pleated skirt and a jacket embroidered with gay red braid hearts, one on the sleeve and the other on the chest. The little straw bonnet matches the drawstring straw pouch. The entire costume is available in a Chicago shop.

Thru the Looking Glass

Not long ago the service men who are regular guests of an enormous and well run center downstate came shyly but bravely to the director with a request concerning the dress of the girls who were their hostesses. Would she please use her influence, they asked, to have the girls wear something frilly and feminine?

In this spot, it happens that most of the hostesses are school girls or college girls whose tastes run to sweaters and skirts and saddle shoes, a fashion that bores the service men to death for two reasons. One, it's practically a uniform—and they're sick of the sight of uniforms. Two, it's not as feminine as they think it should be.

There's a good deal of nonsense written and spoken nowadays about woman's duty to look her prettiest and a lot of it makes us sick, too. But we will always wave the flag for femininity in dress. Not for the reason that men are supposed to prefer it, but because femininity of dress invariably sustains femininity of manner—and that is one of the most vital of all qualities that women should sustain and build.

It's a curious thing that when a woman dresses sloppily she'll be sloppier in speech, in manner, and even in thinking. It always follows. If she sloshes around the streets or the house in wrinkled slacks or dirty sweaters and unpressed skirts you can bet she'll be sloshy about her other responsibilities, too. She'll slip up on manicures and shampoos and even the amenities. On the other hand, if she has the habit of dressing like a lady she's much more apt to conduct herself like a lady in speech and behavior.

And femininity in a woman remains, eternally, one of her best wearing charms.

68 St. Luke's Students Will Get Nurses' Caps

Sixty-eight students in the St. Luke's hospital school of nursing will be capped at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in ceremonies in Grace Episcopal church, adjoining the hospital. Eighty new students, all enrolled in the United States cadet nurse corps, entered training at St. Luke's yesterday, bringing the number of trainees to 360.

Spring Attire Meets Demand of Younger Set

BY REA SEEGER.

The youngest clothes in town are those in the specialty shop dedicated to youth. Each costume is gay, colorful, and the very essence of what the young crowd demands. There are clever wool suits and matched topcoats of jonquil yellow, powder blue, and lipstick red, all effectively decorated with sentimental braid-embroidered motifs like hearts, and flower and leaves. Pocket flaps, a garland wreath effect around the neckline, hearts on sleeve with a tinier one on a chest pocket, and even a perky little design at the center back are some of the clever ideas used for telling contrast for both color and braided design.

Handsome silver buttons and the gayest of printed cotton linings make the long fitted coats and the jackets gay and tempting. Crocheted yarn edging is another trick way of achieving color contrast for a dark coat or jacket.

In this shop of perpetual valentine spirit pinafores, vastly different from those for children, are star attractions. These come not only in vivid shades of red and blue but in green and yellow. They're made to fit smoothly like a jumper dress, not tied or buttoned at the back, but snapped at the side like any regulation skirt. The bib is embroidered in contrastingly colored braid and there are pockets or a single large pocket at one side.

Artfully simple peasant style snowy white cotton blouses provide the "just right" accent for the suits, and pinafore dresses. Some have gathered round high necklines tied with bright red cotton cord to match the wrists which also are tied with the cord. Some have effective smocked or embroidered shoulder and chest detail and others have dainty frills of cotton lace or eyelet embroidery.

Pen Women Devote Program Today to Henry Blake Fuller

Having undertaken this season to reawaken the city's memories of prominent figures in its cultural history, Chicago branch members of the National League of American Pen Women will devote a luncheon program at the Cordon club today to the works of Henry Blake Fuller. The group will gather at 1 p. m., with Miss Alice Gerstenberg, playwright, presiding. Fuller's life and letters will be reviewed by Jessica Calhoun Swartz.

Fuller, a noted stylist, was the author of several novels, short stories, poems, and dramatic sketches. Best known of his novels was "The Cliff Dwellers," from which the Cliff Dwellers' club derived its name. The author was a charter member of that group. He was born in Chicago in 1857 on the site of the La Salle street station. He lived to be 72.

Among others who will contribute anecdotes to the discussion at the pen women's meeting will be Nellie Walker, Chicago sculptor, and Carolyn Tyler, painter of miniatures.

Women in War Work

Council for Nursing Education at 12:15 p. m. Monday in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. The title of her address will be "The Influence of the Cadet Nurse Corps on Nurse Education."

Miss Alice M. Morse, chairman of the program committee of the council and director of the school of pediatric nursing at Children's Memorial hospital, will introduce Miss Petry. Mrs. Chester A. Cook, chairman, will preside and give a report of the council's 1943 activities.

Miss Petry is on leave of absence as dean of the Cornell university-New York hospital school of nursing to head the cadet corps and recruit at least 65,000 new student nurses in 1944 to relieve a serious shortage in essential civilian and military nursing.

Regional headquarters of the United States civil service commission is recruiting typists, stenographers, and file clerks for positions with the veterans administration in Washington, D. C.

As the administration's duties constantly expand, due to the return of veterans of the present war, the need for a larger clerical staff is urgent. Discharged veterans and women not already in war essential work are asked to take over these jobs, which, civil service spokesmen say, have a post-war future.

The appointments are of the war service type, with accepted employes signing up for the war's duration plus six months. At the completion of the service, they may choose either to stay on or to leave.

The salaries range from $146 to $164 a month, depending on skill and tenure. Applicants must be at least 17½ years old and United States citizens and should be able to pass a basic examination requiring dictation speed of 80 words a minute and typing rate of 35 words a minute.

Eligible women interested in these clerical positions to expedite claims of war veterans may apply at room 1048, new postoffice building, Wabash 9207, extension 368.

When marine Capt. James Simpson Jr. went overseas, his wife took a five-days-a-week volunteer job in the office which he helped to organize shortly after Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Simpson's work is the handling of confidential files in the office of Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, coördinator of law enforcement agencies in Illinois, whose department is a division of the Illinois war council. Capt. Simpson, before his enlistment, was assistant coordinator.

Col. Gowenlock says Mrs. Simpson's job is a "two-fisted" one which she does superlatively well. Her brother, Lt. [j. g.] William Bonbright, is serving in the navy.

[This department reports on women's war activities and answers questions regarding such activities.]

Weddings Announced

The marriage of Miss Bernice A. Peterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Peterman of Chicago, to Lt. Paul F. Quinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Quinn of Chicago, took place Jan. 27 in St. Francis church in Miami Beach, Fla. Lt. and Mrs. Quinn will live in Miami Beach while he is stationed there with the army air forces.

Mrs. Leonard Johnson of Batavia announces the marriage Feb. 2 of her daughter, May Elaine, to Aviation Cadet Anson Cherry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Cherry of Crandon av. The wedding took place in Chicago during the bridegroom's furlough, and he since has returned to his post at Carlsbad, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russel of South May st. announce the marriage Jan. 29 in Carthage, Ill., of their daughter, Shirley Lenore, to Army Aviation Cadet Robert J. Schabilion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Schabilion of Davenport, Ia. The bride attends Carthage college, where Cadet Schabilion formerly was a student.

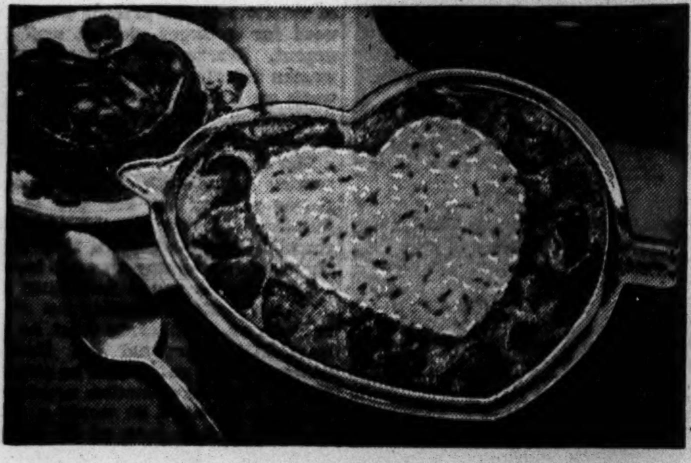
WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector

Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

FOR YOUR SWEET VALENTINE

When February 14th comes around, I'm as sentimental as anything—I like to give valentines and get them, and I like a Valentine's Day dinner table because it's a gay note on a dark wintry night. Today's food is planned on the theory that the way to a man's heart is still through his stomach . . . and his eyes.



Meat Vegetable Pie—It Glorifies Leftover Meat

2 cups leftover meat (cubed pork, veal or beef)
4 cups cooked vegetables (sliced carrots, celery, peas, potatoes)
1 tbsp. grated onion
3 cups B-V Gravy (see directions below)
⅔ cup cooked rice or margarined bread crumbs
¼ cup grated Certified Cheese

Combine meat, vegetables, grated onion and gravy. Transfer to a "margarined" casserole, top with rice or fine bread crumbs that have been mixed with Wilson's Certified Margarine (melted) and sprinkle Wilson's Certified Cheese (grated) over the top. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., for 30 min. or until cheese is melted and browned lightly. Serves 6 generously.

Now for the B-V gravy that makes this dish, gives it such rich meaty goodness. Make gravy the usual way, using 6 tbsp. of bacon drippings (from Wilson's Certified Bacon, of course), 6 tbsp. of flour and 3 cups liquid. Add 3 tsp. Wilson's B-V and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Ummmm, B-V really does things for both meat and vegetables.

Health-Giving Menu

To complete the menu I nominate frozen asparagus (not rationed now), Cardinal Salad (made like Perfection Salad with beets and celery added to the cabbage) and luscious cherry pie. The kind of dinner any man would hurry home for—even if it weren't St. Valentine's Day!

By George, What a Pie!

"I cannot tell a lie, I did it myself," you'll say proudly when you serve the cherry pie if you make the crust with Wilson's "Laurel-Leaf" Brand Pure Lard. For pastry made with "Laurel-Leaf" Brand Lard is so tender and flaky.

If you are accustomed to using other shortenings, it's well to remember that less lard is needed—only ⅓ cup of lard to two cups of flour for a two-crust pie. That's because lard has greater shortening power than any other cooking fat!

"Laurel-Leaf" Brand Lard is a stamp-saver too, if there ever was one—only 3 points per pound. So now you can bake bread, biscuits, rolls and pastry to your heart's content. For instance, just look at all the food you can bake for six people from one pound of "Laurel-Leaf" Brand Pure Lard: one double-crust pie or two single-crust pies, spice cup cakes, muffins (make mine blueberry), flaky biscuits, four loaves of bread and 25 light fluffy pan rolls. Sounds mighty tempting to me!

Family Benefits

And your family will benefit by your using Wilson's "Laurel-Leaf" Brand Lard in all your baking and cooking for lard is 97% digestible. Baked goods made with high quality lard, like "Laurel-Leaf" Brand Lard, stay fresh longer, too.

Yours for more good home-baking,

George Rector

INSTALMENT XXVIII.
IRENE'S CHILDHOOD.

Janet looked at her father thoughtfully.

"It wouldn't be fair to rake it up—it was about 12 years ago. And it wasn't anything, really. I mean, nothing happened—Mina wasn't any the worse."

"Nothing happened! Go on—tell me about it!"

"It was Irene's kitten," said Alice. "At least it wasn't really hers—it was a stray. And of course we weren't allowed to have pets at school, so Irene hid it in the toolshed."

"She gave all her pocket money to the garden boy not to tell—the gardener was away," said Janet. "And she saved bits for it in a handkerchief, at lunch and tea, you know."

"Of course, she couldn't have kept it up, but she was awfully set on that kitten. It was a hideous little thing, too." This was Alice again. "And Mina Cotterell said she was going to tell Miss Graham. She was a perfectly odious girl—we all loathed her. She said she was sure the kitten had fleas."

"Probably had."

Alice said, "O, well . . . Anyhow, Irene got perfectly wild. I don't honestly think she knew what she was doing. And she pushed Mina into the river."

"She wasn't hurt," said Janet quickly.

"Well, she might have been. It was an awfully dangerous thing to do. You know the bit of the grounds where we weren't allowed to go—they were definitely out of bounds because of the high bank over the river—well, I don't know how Irene got Mina to go there with her, but she did, and then she pushed her over."

Col. Bostock said, "Bless my soul!" And then after a minute, "Yes, yes—I remember. The Penningtons were in a dreadful way about it. The girl had a narrow escape. Couldn't swim, could she?"

"No. There was a man fishing and he got her out. There was a most fearful row. Irene would have been expelled if the Cotterells hadn't begged her off. It seems Mina had said the kitten would be drowned. I don't think Irene knew what she was doing. She's like that, you know—if she's set on a thing she can't think about anything else. It was that wretched kitten then. Now it's the children. She just can't think or talk about anything else."

"Well, well, who'd have thought it?" And then, "Better not talk about it. Not to any one."

A little later on Superintendent Vyner came up to see his chief and was led into the study.

Vyner sat down, filling the big chair.

"Well, sir, Miss Pennington wasn't there at the River house this afternoon, and I thought I'd just like to see whether she heard Mrs. Ambrose go out or come in last night."

"Get anything?"

"Not out of Miss Pennington. But I also saw Mark Paradine, and he told me he'd called in a private detective."

"What!"

"Yes, sir. Did you ever hear of Miss Silver?"

Col. Bostock said, "Bless my soul! What's she doing here?"

"You've heard about her, sir?"

"Met young Abbott when he was up for Christmas. Fellow who's a detective sergeant at the Yard. He's a cousin of the Abbotts at Huntersgrange. Met him there. He raved about the woman."

"Well, sir, she's done some remarkable work—I happen to know that. She doesn't get into the papers, but these things go round. I heard about her first from Superintendent March at Ledlington. She used to be his governess when he was a kid, and I believe that's just what she looks like, a little old maid governess. March told me a lot about her."

"Mark Paradine's called her in?"

"Yes, sir. And the point is, what are we going to do about it? I don't mind saying that I think she might be very useful. You see, she's there in the house—called in by Mr. Mark himself—living with the family. It stands to reason she gets an angle that we don't get—a kind of a personal angle, if you take me, sir. And that's just what she's good at according to Lamb. He says people talk to her, and she's a wonder at sizing them up."

"What do you want to do?"

"Well, sir, I'd suggest that we let her see the statements. Lamb says she can be trusted not to give anything away."

"O, have her in, have her in! Tell you what, Vyner, it's an awkward case. Look here, it isn't fair to keep you in the dark. I told you there was something about that girl Irene. Well, here it is."

As on the previous evening, the Ambrose party went home early. With the exception of Frank Ambrose, who had remained taciturn to the point of rudeness, Miss Silver had had a pleasant conversation with each of them. Soon after their departure she excused herself and went up to the room which had been prepared for her. It was just before she said good night that she asked Miss Paradine about the diary.

"You will forgive me if I touch upon a painful subject, but I think your niece mentioned that you had given pocket diaries as New Year's gifts to your nephews."

Grace Paradine smiled.

"There is nothing painful about that," she said.

Miss Silver coughed.

"No, of course not. But I was going to inquire whether you also presented one to your brother."

"O, no." Miss Paradine sounded surprised. "He didn't care for that sort of thing. He never used any calendar except a large plain card."

"Those little diaries are so very convenient. I thought he might have liked one for his pocket."

"He wouldn't have used it."

Miss Silver perceived the subject to be distasteful. She thought it was time to say good night.

Her bedroom was comfortable. The room, as she was aware, was almost opposite the one occupied by Mr. Pearson and next door to Elliot Wray.

She sat down in a chair by the fire, and propping the green exercise book on a cushion laid across her knees, proceeded to make notes in it, using a fountain pen.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	6 no trump

South's opening bid was none too sound, hence, for all North's 5½ honor tricks the slam contract needed plenty of luck to have even a chance.

West, intent on an opening lead that would not jeopardize whatever honors East happened to hold, led the spade 10. Declarer won with the king, and altho he was pretty sure the spade suit would not break, started a preliminary investigation by returning a spade to the queen. East discarded a low heart. Now the club finesse was tried, and the queen held. At this point declarer saw a glimmer of hope. He cashed the club ace and his three diamond tricks, cashed one top heart—and then led a third club. East was "in," with a vengeance! Reduced to hearts, he had to return that suit to the combined tenace in the North-South hands. Declarer, winning with the heart jack, now could claim his contract.

East could have struck a telling blow for his side if he had used his head a bit in connection with South's play of the club suit. South had taken one finesse, to the queen, but then had laid down the club ace. Would he have done that if he had held the A-Q-J-x of clubs? Of course not! He would have taken another finesse. Thus, the club jack was clearly marked as being held by West, and all East had to do to sidestep the ruinous throw-in play and heart return, was to ditch his club king, neatly and conclusively, on the ace.

Troops overseas get tired of eating highly spiced, finely ground canned meats all the time. Now they're having a change. Canned roast beef and roast pork, both with gravy, and canned Swiss steak are now going across. They're mildly flavored meats, and come in large chunks, so they'll taste more like mother's Sunday roast than what the boys have been eating.

"Would you like to do something for the hundreds of women who, living alone, have to meet the problem of eating on $11.30 per month [old age pension allowance for food], or 36 cents a day? Will you print some suggestions concerning how this amount can best be used?"

To this reader and others in her situation I would recommend a careful study of the "basic seven" food groups which list the important foods which every person needs for a good diet. She will be obliged to choose the least expensive foods in each group, but fortunately many of our most nutritionally important foods are inexpensive, and abundant right now.

The basic seven: Group one—Green and yellow vegetables. Carrots and salad greens are two inexpensive foods from this group. Cooked greens should probably be served once a week in this diet.

Group two—Oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit. Oranges and grapefruit now are abundant, and a daily orange or half grapefruit won't add too much expense to the diet.

Group three—Potatoes and other vegetables and fruits. Both sweet and white potatoes are plentiful and not too expensive.

Group four—Milk and milk products. She should try to drink a glass of milk a day, and eat milk with her cereal every morning, if possible.

Group five—Meat, poultry, fish or eggs, dried beans, peas, nuts or peanut butter. There's wide latitude for choice, here. Eggs are abundant and inexpensive now. Dried beans furnish a lot of protein for a few cents. Inexpensive meat cuts are as nutritious as expensive ones. It's a good idea to eat fish once a week.

Group six—Bread, flour, and cereals. A bowl of oatmeal for breakfast, enriched or whole wheat bread at all three meals will furnish a lot of energy plus certain important vitamins and minerals.

Group seven—Butter and fortified margarine. Margarine is as nutritious as butter as it is made these days and seems to keep a little better. This is an advantage for the person who lives alone. Margarine is cheaper in points and price, so I'd recommend it's use in this diet.

I'm sending this reader some menus which she may find helpful.

"I don't use your menus because you use oleo in them. Do the oleo people pay you for writing about it?" asks an anonymous reader. I thought the reason for recommending margarine was obvious—butter is extremely scarce, and we simply must conserve it! In addition, margarine is less expensive, nutritionally as good [this wasn't true of the old margarine, which so many persons remember with disfavor], has a fine flavor, and is cheaper in points. When butter is plentiful again, I'll certainly use it and recommend it.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Coffee Ice Cream.
[Serves four.]

- 1 tablespoon plain gelatin
- 1 cup strong coffee
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ¾ cup light cream or top milk

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup of cold coffee. Heat remaining coffee and milk to scalding and stir in sugar, salt, and cornstarch, which have been blended together. Cook until thickened. Add small amount of hot mixture to egg and return to remainder of hot mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly for 2 minutes longer. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin until dissolved. When partially cooled, add vanilla and light cream. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and freeze. When almost solid remove to chilled bowl and beat with rotary beater. Return to freezing tray and freeze until solid.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 9.—Since Henry Koster canceled plans for doing "The Pirates," why couldn't Sam Katz turn it into a musical and co-star Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy? Their fans are on the warpath again, demanding that they appear together in another picture. It would clean up. . . . Lou Harding, a 19 year old Whittier High school girl, drove a truck onto the Universal lot some time ago. Director Arthur Lubin saw her, liked her looks, tested her. Now she's playing second feminine part in "Slick Chick" with Martha O'Driscoll and Noah Beery Jr. . . . Warners were all ready for added scenes in Ann Sheridan's last picture, when they discovered Ann had skipped off to New York with Steve Hannagan without a word to anybody. . . . Kim Hunter marries Capt. William Baldwin Friday. Her mother's wedding present was a new car.

Lou Harding.

Martha O'Driscoll.

Busy Man.

H. Allen Smith scrambles back to New York to finish his book, also story on Edgar Bergen. He's made a real place for himself in our town. . . . There's a story behind Robert Nathan's "Portrait of Jenny." Several Metro writers did treatments of it, were wild about it. A well known producer, old friend of the big boss, turned it down. Another writer bet him $1,000 that he could sell the story elsewhere in 24 hours. He sold it to David Selznick for Jennifer Jones in 18 hours flat, and collected not only the $1,000 but a commission as well.

Beat the Pack.

Darryl Zanuck's luck still holds. He showed "The Purple Heart" picture to Moss Hart and George Cukor Sunday. They're still dizzy. Picture doesn't actually show Japs' atrocities, but the results of torture. For instance, after our flyers are tortured and brought back to their cell, one comes in holding up his hands, supposedly wearing black gloves, but you know there are no hands there. Another couldn't speak. He had nothing to speak with. With studios rushing in to make pictures of this nature, "The Purple Heart" is ready for release March 3.

Congratulations.

George Wagner, producer of "The Climax," remembers when he carried a spear, so engaged lots of old timers, Grace Cunard, Maurice Costello, William Desmond, Stuart Holmes, Eddie Polo, Jack Richardson, and Ann Cornwall. . . . Universal looked at rushes of Dean Harrow playing opposite Deanna Durbin in "Christmas Holiday," tore up his contract and gave him a raise in pay. This is his first picture. Did the same thing for Robert Siodmak, director. Gosh! What's Hollywood coming to?

Why Not?

Chill Wills, doing "The Immortal Blacksmith" for Pete Smith, was being razzed about a southerner playing a New Englander. "What's so funny about that?" said Chill. "A Man from Oklahoma played 'Connecticut Yankee,' but he happened to be Will Rogers." . . . Ben Sonenberg and Walter Marvin arrive here in time for the Academy Awards. They don't want to miss the fun this year. . . . Since arrival of her baby, Mrs. Charles Boyer looks like one herself. . . . Now that the Lonergan murder trial will soon be on, two prominent Hollywood guys are shivering in their shoes. Both were written up in the wife's diary. . . . Fanny Brice and Dinah Shore are having more fun. Dinah started to furnish her new house with only a stove, ice box, washing machine, and easy chair. But since Bricie's on the job, antiques are pouring in, and good, too. . . . Brian Donlevy, Mitzi Mayfair, Nancy Barnes, and two others will have landed overseas by the time you read this. . . . "The Man from Brooklyn," at Republic is hung up because of Anne Shirley's flu, at least, that's what she says. . . . Gracie Allen will surprise George Burns with a new Easter suit picked out by Adolphe Menjou.

White Collar GIRL

—BY RUTH MAC KAY—

[Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Warning in Plenty of Time.

Now, listen, Boss, no paper heart
Your faithful steno wants,
So let's forget St. Valentine
And pass him for the nonce.

For, leave us face it—we are not
In love, but lest you think it
Why, then, please make it something good—
Pray do not send a trinket!

MERCENARY MARY.

The Backward Glance.

A paragraph about coffee in the office reminds me of the time 30 years ago when I worked at a shoe factory in Chicago. Mary Anderson, now head of the women's bureau of the department of labor, worked at a machine near me.

At noon I made huge pots of tea and coffee. The girls each paid me 10 cents a week for all they could drink. They dipped their sugar with a tablespoon! As my pay was four dollars a week I was very glad to make a small profit this way. Miss Anderson was one of those whose dime always was paid promptly. She was pleasant and considerate and worked, even then, for the betterment of women in industry.

In reply to queries as to just what is the difference between the lions on the Art institute steps, white collar girls tripping along Michigan avenue should know: The tail of one lion curls up and the tail of the other down.

Jack London's Film Biography Is Well Acted

"JACK LONDON."

A United Artists' picture, directed by Alfred Santell, featuring Michael O'Shea and Susan Hayward, and presented at the Apollo.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I'm not familiar with the personal history of Jack London, but his biography, as screened, is certainly enchanting audiences of men over at the Apollo. Yesterday, as far as I could see, only one other woman and myself were present.

Michael Shea, impersonating the two-fisted author and war correspondent who dipped his pen in real adventure and wrote about what he lived and saw, is no glamor boy but a simple, direct sort of cuss, who grows on you because he is just that and there's no mistaking the sincerity of his effort to do his job well. His only serious drawbacks are a rather negative personality and voice—but this is only his second picture, and in my opinion he's a heap more impressive now than he was in "Lady of Burlesque."

The action follows Jack London from wild days as an oyster pirate in San Francisco bay, thru yo-ho and a bottle of rum-ish adventures at sea, experience laden months in the Arctic, and as a war correspondent in Japan. There, according to the picture, he got a mighty true slant on the ambitions of the Japs, who had just conquered the Russians at Port Arthur—their first victory over occidentals—and thru it had acquired the taste which made them aspire to world domination. For a time he was a prisoner there and learned quite a bit at first hand of Japanese cruelty toward helpless victims.

As the story ends, Mr. London is back home, famous and about to marry the lovely Charmian, who has gallantly waited until such day as he would have time to make her his wife. . . . Susan Hayward is very charming as Charmian.

Clever in support are Frank Craven, Harry Davenport, Louise Beavers, and Osa Massen.

Direction was excellent. . . . Sets and scenery seemed pretty phony to me.

See you soon.

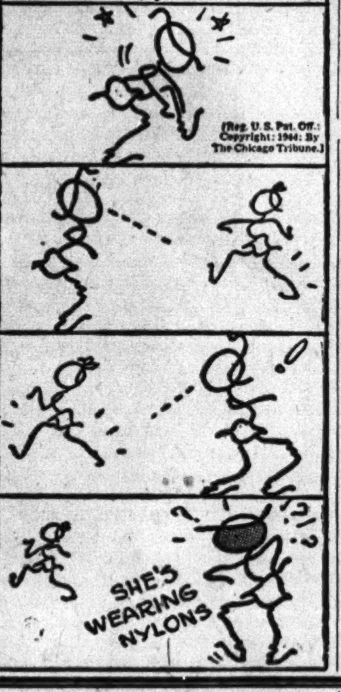
Dear Diary BY BECKY



Child's Safety Dependent on Parents' Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

You, like the rest of us, probably were shocked at the story of the little 2½ year old boy who was found dead from exposure on the roof of a house one bitter night not long ago.

In this case there was no criminal neglect; it was just one of those things that happen. The door to the roof had been locked, no one knew he was there, and he couldn't get back downstairs to the apartment where he was being cared for.

During this winter I have read of tragic deaths, accidents, and illnesses which have overtaken small children because their parents or whoever had them in charge were careless, indifferent, or inexcusably ignorant of the hazards that beset young children when left alone.

They play near the floor in a humble, gas heated room and turn the gas cock off and on, or a kettle boils over and puts out the stove flame and they become unconscious. They play near a low open window and fall out.

Then there are the babies. Their blankets aren't properly tucked in at the foot and sides of their crib or carriage, and they smother. But I could go on and list the hazards the average home has for active children who are too young to avoid them, in order to point up and emphasize that the price of safety, even the life, of a young child is eternal vigilance on the part of his mother or whoever takes care of him.

Some persons will scoff at this advice. "I'm not fussy and look at my children," they'll say. "Nothing's ever hapened to them." But in the instances where I've heard that, I've noticed that some kind neighbor or friend often had an eye out for those children. The parents were willing to "let George do it." But "George" isn't always there. And anyhow, it isn't "George's" job to be eternally vigilant.

MAYOR SETS UP GROUP TO HUNT 37,600 WORKERS

'War Apathy' in Chicago Target of Drive.

Mayor Kelly conferred yesterday with a large group of industry, labor, and business leaders to organize a program to pull Chicago citizens out of what he termed a "war apathy" and to recruit 37,600 workers to save the city from being classified as a No. 1 critical labor shortage area. The mayor said there has been a letdown in home front activities.

In announcing plans for a city-wide war worker drive, Mayor Kelly disclosed the formation of a war mobilization committee, representing business, labor, and industry.

Three Point Program Set Up.

The committee will have a three-point program: [1] To get Chicagoans into war industry. [2] To get those not working into at least part-time work of an essential nature. [3] To assure those leaving non-essential jobs for essential work that their seniority will not be sacrificed.

Mayor Kelly also asserted that Chicago's large labor turnover, which was assailed this week by War Man Power Commission Chairman McNutt, must be stopped. Labor representatives at the conference supported his appeal.

The mobilization program calls for the organization of 30 subcommittees for every phase of business and industry to push worker recruiting in their respective fields. Each of the subcommittees will be headed by a representative of that particular business or industry, who will organize his own group.

Twenty-two groups in business and industry, and the army and navy were represented at the mayor's conference.

James M. Cleary, an advertising man, was appointed chairman of the executive committee of the mobilization group. The executive body will meet at 10 a. m. Saturday in room 1404, 134 S. La Salle st.

1,200 Invited to Meeting.

In coöperation with the mayor's committee and the army, navy, and maritime commission, 1,200 labor and industrial representatives and civic leaders have been invited to a meeting in the Morrison hotel at 3:30 p. m. today. The meeting was called by the WMC and the war production board in a move to mobilize the city's labor, management, and community groups to solve the area's man power problems.

William H. Spencer, the regional WMC director, will preside. The managing editors of Chicago newspapers have been invited. Others who are to attend include Mayor Kelly; Lawrence Appley of Washington, D. C., executive director of the WMC; other WMC and WPB officials, and army, navy, maritime commission, and selective service representatives.

F. D. R. APPOINTS NEW WLB PUBLIC REPRESENTATIVE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Lloyd K. Garrison, who has been executive director and general counsel of the war labor board, was appointed by President Roosevelt today to be a member of the board representing the public. He succeeds Wayne L. Morse, who resigned recently.

Mr. Roosevelt also named four alternate public members to the board, corresponding to alternate members representing labor and industry. They were Edwin Wittie of Detroit, Frank V. Morley of New York, Dexter Keezer of Portland, Ore., and Lewis M. Gill of Cleveland.

Coincident with the White House announcement, the WLB announced the appointment of Fred E. Desmond of New York, who has been director of administrative management, as deputy executive director of the board. Frederick H. Bullen was named chairman of the 5th regional board at Cleveland where he served as disputes director before coming to Washington as deputy executive director. Louis C. Miriani, Detroit attorney, was named chairman of the 11th regional board at Detroit.

CAPITAL HEARS ICKES MAY TAKE CHARGE OF WRA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Reports were current here today that the war relocation authority, which operates communities for Japanese in western states, is about to be made a part of the interior department under Secretary Ickes, but neither the WRA nor the interior department would comment.

It was learned definitely, however, that the action has been under consideration for some time, presumably to put the agency in a position less vulnerable to attack.

The WRA, headed by Dillon S. Myer, frequently has been criticized in congress.

WMC TO EXPAND JOB SERVICE FOR VETERANS HERE

War veterans returning to civil life in the Chicago metropolitan area will be provided with immediate employment and assistance in reëstablishing themselves thru an expanded veterans' counseling and placement division, William H. Spencer, regional director of the war man power commission, said yesterday. He disclosed that WMC officials in Washington, D. C., have approved his request to organize in Chicago the largest veterans' service program ever attempted by the government.

Spencer said that by March 15, he hoped to announce that the expanded program is in operation. Headquarters will be at 308 N. Michigan av., the present location of the United States employment service and WMC offices. H. H. Weimer, veterans' employment representative of the WMC for Illinois, will be responsible for the new program in the state.

Needed to Avert Chaos.

The enlarged veterans' division will be a modern version of the service maintained for veterans of the last war, Spencer explained. He warned that it is "inevitable that chaos will result" unless veterans' job placement and rehabilitation agencies are unified and functioning by the time the war ends.

Spencer said that all local offices of the USES in the Chicago area, and eventually thruout Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, will be units in the new system. Every type of assistance needed by veterans will be available or arranged for them, he said. The services will include trained occupational analysts, vocational guidance experts, and psychiatrists.

Vets Seek War Jobs.

The regional WMC chief predicted that the job placement system will be a definite relief measure for Chicago's man power shortage in that many returning veterans will be placed in war jobs to help offset selective service withdrawals. Veterans are inclined to want war jobs when they return, he said. Currently, the central Chicago USES office is placing 200 veterans a week into industry, he disclosed.

Spencer emphasized that the present is the best time to expand the veterans' help program because of the wide variety of jobs available and the demand for workers. He explained that if the program is put into operation now, valuable experience will be gained so veterans can be assimilated into civil industry gradually as thousands of men are demobilized at the end of the war.

N. Y. Bridges Guarded After Tip on Sabotage

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—The army and the coast guard, city patrol corps members, and city police augmented port police today in guarding bridges and tunnels in New York City after receipt of a telephone tip of threatened sabotage, the port authority offices reported. A spokesman said notification of the tip came from the federal bureau of investigation, which had received the call. The FBI office refused to comment.

LEGION BACKING SINGLE AGENCY ON AID TO VETS

Members of the American Legion are circulating petitions asking support of the Legion inspired senate bill 1617 assuring general and specific aid to veterans of the present war. James P. Ringley and A. W. Shipton, co-chairman of the state Legion rehabilitation committee, are in charge of the petition drive.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Brooks, four other Republican senators and six Democratic senators, provides for hospitalization, prompt disposition of claims, educational and vocational opportunities, job opportunities, unemployment compensation, and home and farm purchase aid.

The Legion is fighting to have all these benefits controled by the veterans administration and is opposed to scattering them among alphabetical agencies. Legion officials said veterans of this war are turning to the Legion for help. Lester Benston, state service officer, said that already 322 veterans of World War II. are at Hines hospital, and 75 veterans are waiting to get in.

GRAHAM CLOSES BIG TEN CAREER AGAINST ILLINI

N. U. Star Makes Farewell Saturday in Stadium.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Otto Graham, captain of the Northwestern basketball team, will conclude his Western conference competition tomorrow night when the Wildcats play Illinois in Champaign in quest of their sixth Big 10 triumph. Graham will make his final appearance Saturday night in the Stadium when Northwestern meets Camp Grant's Warriors in the second contest of the double header.

Illinois plays De Paul in the first game Saturday night, in which the Demons hope to mark up their fourth consecutive victory over Western conference opponents.

Graham, who is enrolled in the navy V-5 program, will receive his orders to active duty Saturday night before the game from Lt. Henry Penfield of the Navy Aviation Cadet Selection board. He also will be presented with his Northwestern varsity blanket by Dal Marvil, president of the N men's association. K. L. Wilson, Northwestern's director of athletics, will preside at the ceremonies.

Leads N. U. Scorers.

The presentation will honor one of Northwestern's finest athletes in football, basketball, and baseball.

Otto's performance on the basketball court is so recent that no one need be reminded that his all-around play has been a factor in the Wildcats' bid for the 1944 championship. In his sophomore and junior seasons, when he was the standout scorer on the squad, he was runner-up each year for conference scoring honors. This year, because of the balanced attack of the Wildcats, Graham is farther down in the list but his 56 points in six games tops all of his teammates.

While Graham has not taken as many shots as in other campaigns, he has been the pivot around which the team operates. His passing and rebounding have proved, if proof were required, that he can play any position.

Football Feats Recalled.

Graham's exploits as a football player will be talked about for years. While his accuracy as a forward passer stood out, he also was a constant threat in the open field. When called upon he was a dependable kicker. In 1942, Otto established a season record by completing 89 forward passes in 182 attempts, including a mark in the Michigan game of 20 completions in 29 passes. Graham's three year mark was 157 passes in 321 attempts.

Graham's greatest thrill in football came when he played on the College All-Star eleven which defeated the Washington Redskins last August in Dyche stadium, 27 to 7. Graham's block, which took out two players, paved the way for Bob Steuber's 50 yard punt return for the Stars' first touchdown. This was an all-time thrill and it is typical of Graham that he named this play rather than his own 95 yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass.

Graham was chosen the most valuable football player by his teammates and then was elected the most valuable player in the conference. Last month, in the stadium, he received THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S silver football trophy, emblematic of the honor.

James T. Gallagher, vice president-general manager of the Cubs, yesterday announced the signing of Catcher Roy Easterwood of Fort Worth. Easterwood is 28 years old, is 6 feet ½ inch tall, and weighs 196 pounds. He is classified 4-F.

Easterwood caught 21 games for Portland in the Pacific Coast league as his latest work in a professional career which began in 1935. Most of his playing has been in the Texas league, now dormant for the war's duration.

Ensign Finds Fishin' Fine in South Pacific

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen now in the service in the South Pacific haven't forgotten how much fun it is to fish. On the contrary, some of the most enthusiastic rod and reel addicts spend most of their leisure time trying to fool the finny tribes near their bases.

The following excerpts from a letter written by Ensign William W. Haerther Jr., U. S. N. R., tell how much relaxation and fun fishing is to the men in service when they get a day out on the briny deep. Ensign Haerther, son of Lt. William Haerther of Lake Villa, writes:

"Four of my buddies and I have just had a grand day of fishing. Honestly, you would be slightly delirious if you could see the sport to be had here.

A Fishing Paradise.

"And the beauty of the islands! There is a string of them facing the open sea. Where the sea washes against them it has eroded the sides so you can literally sail right under an island! Tropical birds follow you along and there are plenty of fish just off shore. We caught a flock of luna, which are like drums. Barracuda are plentiful and lots of fun to catch, but the best are the mackerel. Haven't seen any Spanish variety. So far all we've caught have been king mackerel.

"But such kings! We got one that must have been an easy 35 pounds. There also are sea bass, marlin, and sailfish out here, but so far no one has been able to land one. Of course, the main trouble is sharks. You have to horse your fish in so the sharks won't get it."

Army Furnishes Fishing Kits.

Thousands of special fishing kits have been sent by the army to enlisted men in the South Pacific. But one of the most interesting developments in angling as it affects men in uniform is the attention recently given to fly fishing. The Weber Lifelike Fly company, Stevens Point, Wis., has made 50,000 sets of flies [six in a package] which go into the emergency kits of paratroopers. If a paratrooper has trouble finding food while on his own he can rig up a crude rod and line, put on a fly, and catch himself a mess of fish.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Boston at Chicago.
Detroit at New York.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks and the Boston Bruins will play hockey in Chicago Stadium tonight with heavy dough on their minds. They will go into the game tied for fourth place, lowest qualifying rung for the Stanley cup playoffs next month.

Under a new National Hockey league system of player guarantees an average salaried player will shoot at as much as $2,000 or $2,500 if his team wins the Stanley cup and will be assured of $1,400 if he plays a full playoff schedule. With the end of the regular season growing nearer, it is anticipated there will be little fooling tonight between the two do-or-don't outfits who will be seeking to break their deadlock.

A Doubly Important Game.

It is virtually certain that either the Bruins or the Hawks will join the New York Rangers as the also-rans in this year's regular season. The certain way for one team to qualify over the other, obviously, is to win when the teams are playing each other. By merely qualifying for Stanley cup competition the average salaried player this year will be sure to earn $400, even if his team is eliminated in the first play down series.

In seven games played this season, the Hawks are one up on the Bruins, who, by the way, played and lost three games here in November, 6-4, 7-3, and 5-4. The first three games played by the Hawks in Boston were won by the Bruins, 6-5, 4-3, and 6-4. The Hawks took the edge in Boston on Feb 1, when they accomplished their only shutout of the season, 2 to 0.

This Isn't So Good.

These figures would indicate the Hawks should win tonight but for a most surprising happening Tuesday night, when the Bruins scored their first shutout of the season by beating the league leading Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 0. As recently as last Saturday night the Canadiens ended a five game winning streak for the Hawks by thrashing them, 6 to 1.

During the Hawks' five game winning streak the Bruins went thru a seven game losing streak. At the end of the Hawk streak, which had been preceded by a tie with the Canadiens, the Hawks had gained 5½ games on the Bruins in the span to go a game and a half ahead of the Bostons. This slack was taken up by the Bruins in subsequent victories over the Rangers and the Canadiens during a stretch in which the Hawks could do no better than get a tie with the tail-end Rangers.

The advance ticket sale has indicated one of the largest week day crowds in the history of the Hawks will be on hand.

LARKIN DEFEATS COSTANTINO IN 10 ROUND BOUT

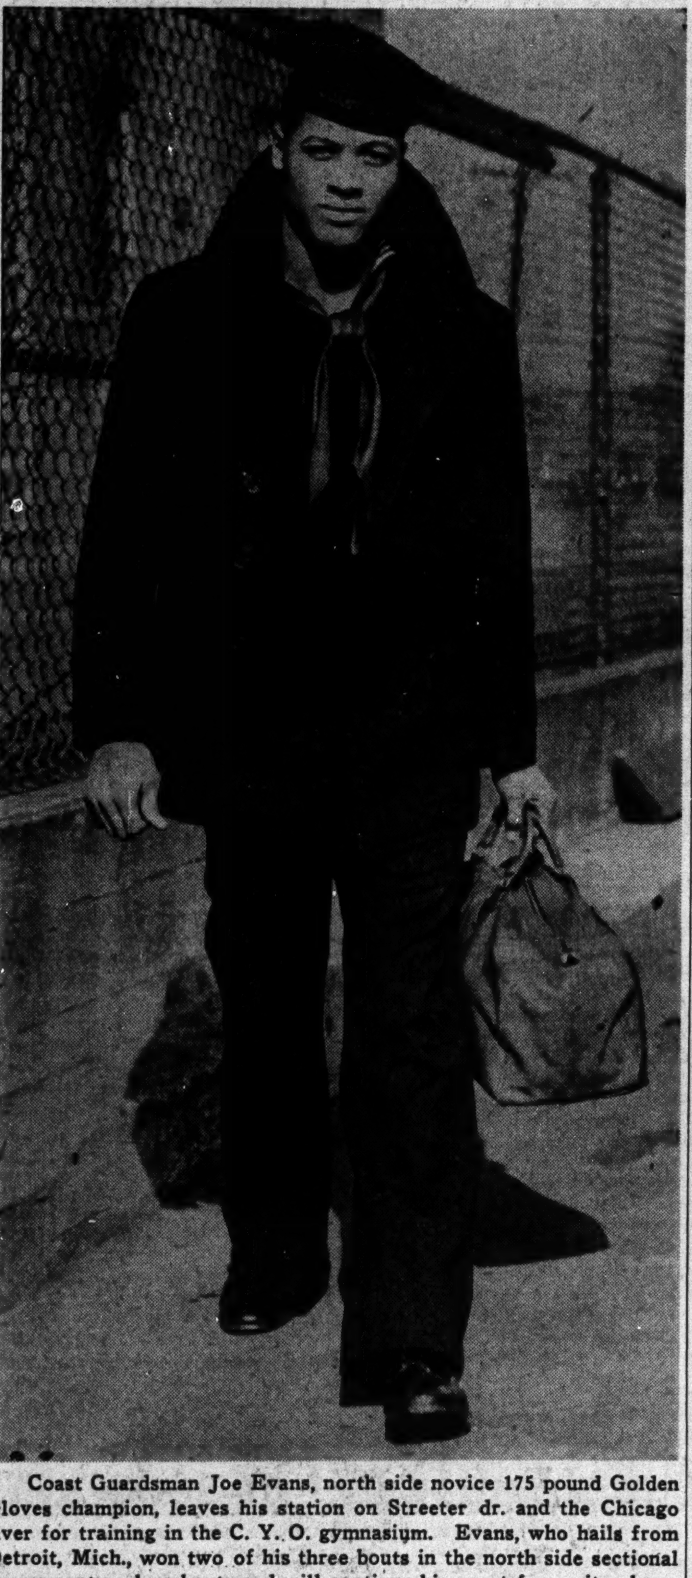
New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Tippy Larkin, of Garfield, N. J., scored a decisive 10 round victory over Lulu Costantino of New York in Madison Square Garden tonight. Larkin weighed 139¾ pounds to Costantino's 135¾.

A crowd of 11,535 that contributed to a gross gate of $31,914 saw Larkin make a cautious start, then come on strong, especially in the fourth, sixth, seventh, and eighth rounds when he jarred Lulu repeatedly with stiff lefts and long overhead rights.

Larkin had jumped from 9 to 5 to a 13 to 5 favorite after he forfeited a $1,000 bond by failing to weigh 137 pounds.

Before the fight started, the Edward J. Neil memorial award, given this year by the New York boxing writers to the 4,135 boxers in the armed services, was presented to Promoter Mike Jacobs to hang in the Garden lobby.

2 FISTED GUARDSMAN



Coast Guardsman Joe Evans, north side novice 175 pound Golden Gloves champion, leaves his station on Streeter dr. and the Chicago river for training in the C. Y. O. gymnasium. Evans, who hails from Detroit, Mich., won two of his three bouts in the north side sectional tournament on knockouts and will continue his quest for a city championship when the north side and south side teams meet in Marigold Gardens next Monday night. Coast Guard Boasts Boxer with a Battleship Punch

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

His initials are J. O. E., but he's more than just a guy named Joe to the crew at the coast guard patrol base hard by Navy pier. They regard this lithe young Negro, Joseph Ollen Evans, as the hardest hitter in the Chicago Golden Gloves final cast, which will go into action Monday night in the Marigold Gardens, Grace st. and Broadway.

Joe, a seaman second class at the base, is the survivor of its three candidates for Golden Gloves. And a glance at his record in the north side eliminations in Loyola gymnasium would seem to indicate that he is well qualified for his role. During his sectional assignment Evans won a decision and then finished off the job with two consecutive knockouts.

Evans will go into the 175 pound novice title bout against Dave Scholz of the Catholic Youth organization with one of the most unusual backgrounds in the finishing field. Altho this tournament marks Joe's big league competitive debut, he has displayed a knack for punching which caught the eyes of the experts in the north side trials.

Hails from Detroit and Follows in Footsteps of Joe Louis.

It so happens he was raised in Detroit, a city which has been an incubator of top flight Negro boxers in former Golden Gloves battles. Or do you remember a fellow named Joe Louis and a couple of lads known as Dave Clark, Milton Shivers, and Lorenzo Pack? Louis first made his national mark as a Detroit Golden Glover, and at the same weight as Evans.

A native of Pittsburgh, the 19 year old Evans first became interested in boxing as a student at the River Rouge High school in Detroit. Less than a year ago he began his boot training in the coast guard at the Wins First Bout on Points, Then Hangs Up Two Knockouts.

Chief Bosun's Mate Jack Franknecht, who coaches the coast guard base boxing team, emphasizes that the high school and service training bouts in which Evans has taken part constitute his boxing career to date, all scuttlebutt to the contrary. The chief should know, for he has had charge of the young man's training since he reported here six months ago. Joe usually works out in the base garage, but lately has been doing his drilling in the C. Y. O. gym.

In his first fight at Loyola, Evans had his toughest job, finally earning a three round decision over Fulton Gaten of the C. Y. O. Then he made his mates happy by knocking out Charley Baker of the navy in the second round, topping off his work by a one round knockout of Arden Brazaitis of Harrison park.

Chuck Kocurek, Glenview Air station heavyweight, will meet Charley Polk of the Savoy Athletic club in a five round bout in the Madison Athletic club tomorrow.

3 BLUEJACKETS ACCOUNT FOR 17 POINTS APIECE

Klier Collects 15 for Irish Quintet.

Great Lakes' Bluejackets obtained ample revenge for the only loss suffered at the station in three years of basketball competition when they defeated Notre Dame, 84 to 48, last night before 2,500 sailor recruits. The Irish had concluded their 1942-'43 season by defeating Great Lakes. The conclusive victory gave the Sailors a season's record of 25 triumphs in 27 starts and ran their winning streak to 18 games.

The Bluejackets were slow in getting their attack under way last night and trailed Notre Dame for the first 17 minutes of the game. Paul Armstrong finally put the Sailors in the lead, 20 to 19, when he scored a field goal and a free throw.

Three Score 17 Points Apiece.

At this juncture Armstrong, Herman Schaefer, a former teammate at Indiana university, and Don Smith, ex-Minnesota star, took charge of the proceedings and the Bluejackets were never headed. This trio divided scoring honors for the navy, each counting 17 points before retiring.

Starting the second half with a 50 to 28 lead, the Sailors widened the margin, 68 to 40. Lt. Hinkle sent in his substitutes with seven minutes of play remaining in the final period.

Klier Leads Irish Scoring.

For Schaefer, who already had established a new all-time scoring record at Great Lakes, last night's 17 points sent his season's total to 322. The former record, set in the 1941-'42 season by Bob Callihan, was 308 points in 36 games.

The only member of the Notre Dame squad able to pierce the Bluejacket defense was Leo Klier, who counted 15 points before being ejected with four personal fouls in the second half.

CHICAGO'S Golden Gloves fans have seen bus boys, farmers, office clerks, soldiers, sailors, and whatnot battle for championships and now something new has been added. . . . IOWA QUINTET ENDS DRILL FOR SERIES WITH OHIO

Hawkeyes' Risk Big Ten Lead in 2 Games.

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 9 [Special].—Iowa's Hawkeyes wound up their most intensive drills of the season today as they prepared to leave tomorrow for Columbus, O., to meet the Ohio State Buckeyes in a crucial two game series Friday and Saturday.

Coach Pops Harrison gave his team an all around polishing this week, stressing rebounding and passing plays. The Iowa team will average nearly two inches shorter than the Buckeyes who tower more than 6 feet, 3 inches.

Ives, Danner Lead Offensive.

As usual, the Hawkeye offensive will be geared to Forwards Dick Ives and Dave Danner, who have the first and second best scoring averages in the Big Ten. Harrison also hopes to get more offensive punch from his guards, Jack Spencer and Ned Postels, both of whom have shown improvement.

Casting aside as meaning little or nothing Iowa's 103 to 31 victory over Chicago last Saturday, Harrison said he is worried over the Ohio State series. He plans to start his same lineup: Ives and Danner, forwards; Lloyd Herwig, center, and Spencer and Postels, guards.

5 BADGER TEAMS IN ACTION.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 9 [Special].—University of Wisconsin winter sports teams face one of the fullest schedules of the season this week-end with five of them in action.

Toplining the program will be the clash of the Badger basketball team with Indiana at Bloomington on Friday and Saturday nights. The Badgers, still in the Big Ten race, must win both games to maintain their titular ambitions. Coach Bud Foster said the squad leaving here tomorrow night will include: Forwards Des Smith, Don Dick, Kurt Grim, and Clarence Dykstra; Centers Ray Patterson and Preston McNall; Guards Bill Johnson, Glen Selbo, Russ Wendland, Al Ryser, and Charles Tourek.

Swimmers Oppose Lawrence.

At home the Wisconsin swimmers will seek their second victory of the season when they oppose Lawrence college. The wrestlers will meet University of Minnesota's squad while the track squad goes to Chicago to join in a quadrangular meet with Chicago, Northwestern, and Purdue.

Tom Jones, track coach, announced today that the Iowa Pre-Flight track squad would face Wisconsin here on March 4, the flyers replacing the University of Iowa which has canceled its indoor track schedule.

Thompsons Go Into a Tie for Classic Lead

The Thompson's Restaurants went into a tie with the Washington Shirts for the Classic Bowling league lead last night as they swept their series with the United States Brewery team on Northcenter Recreation alleys.

The first half champion Meister Braus meanwhile kept the Shirts from possessing undisputed possession of the lead by taking one of their three games, the Shirts taking the first and third games by close margins.

The Monarch Beers, defending champions were beaten twice by the National Bowling Equipment team in the other match, dropping the Beers into a tie with the Meisters for third place.

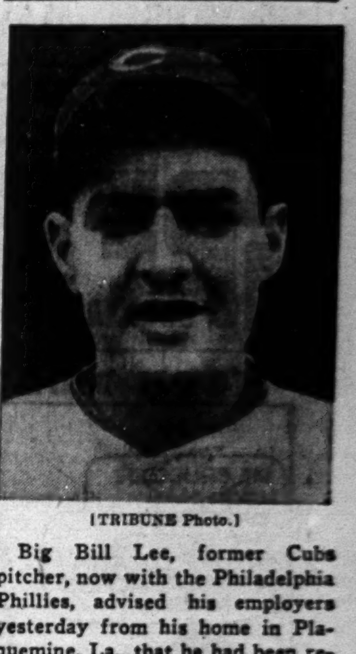
A. A. PRESIDENTS TO CONVENE IN CHICAGO TODAY

The American association will make plans for the coming season when presidents of member clubs meet in the Morrison hotel today, George M. Trautman, association president, announced yesterday in Columbus.

He's in 1-A



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Big Bill Lee, former Cubs pitcher, now with the Philadelphia Phillies, advised his employers yesterday from his home in Plaquemine, La., that he had been reclassified to 1-A by his local draft board.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies learned today that Pitcher Bill Lee has been reclassified 1-A in the draft and that Outfielder Jesse Pike has been inducted into the navy.

Lee wrote the club from his home at Plaquemine, La. Once the ace of the Chicago Cubs mound staff, he is 34, married and has an 8 year old daughter.

Pike was purchased from Indianapolis of the American association at the close of last season.

LEONARD IS REJECTED.

Auburn, Ill., Feb. 9 (AP).—Emil [Dutch] Leonard, Washington Senators' knuckle-ball right hander, said today upon return from a Chicago induction center, he had been rejected because of an old ankle injury but that he did not know his new draft classification.

Leonard, 33, resides here with his wife and two children.

HERE IS GUIDE IN COMPUTING VICTORY TAX

Phases of Revenue Law Are Explained.

[This is the 20th article on individual income tax returns.]

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

All the income subject to the regular normal tax and surtax is subject also to victory tax, except that capital gains are excluded, altho net gains from the sale or exchange of property other than capital assets would be subject to victory tax.

Interest received on United States government obligations which are partly tax exempt, and dividends on federal savings and loan association shares issued before March 28, 1942, are excluded. These exclusions are clearly indicated on the long form 1040 by the fact that no space is allowed for entering them in the victory tax net income column.

Also specifically excluded from income subject to victory tax are any amounts received as compensation for sickness or injury for which the taxpayer was allowed medical expense deductions in a prior year.

Few Deductions Permitted.

The taxpayer who files on the short form 1040A need not concern himself with exclusions and deductions. His victory tax is based on the total income reported as item 3 on the short form, less only the specific exemption.

Few deductions are allowed in arriving at the victory tax net income. No deduction is permitted for contributions, medical and dental expenses, casualty losses, or capital losses. The taxpayer may deduct alimony or separate maintenance payments made pursuant to a court decree.

Interest, taxes, and other expenses are deductible only if incurred in carrying on a trade or business, in the production or collection of taxable income, or in the management, conservation, or maintenance of property held for the production of income. Thus, taxes on the taxpayer's personal residence, or interest on his mortgage, would not be deductible for victory tax purposes.

Some Deductible Expenses.

Earned income expenses incurred in connection with earning wages, salary, or other compensation for personal services, are deductible. These expenses, such as union dues, small tool expense of mechanics, travel expenses of salesmen, and similar items, were discussed in last Saturday's article.

The amount of victory tax that may be imposed on a taxpayer is limited to an amount not greater than the excess of 90 per cent of his net income [item 1, page 4 of the 1040 form] over his combined normal tax and surtax for the year. In effect, the amount imposed as victory tax shall not raise the total normal tax, surtax, and victory tax to a point higher than 90 per cent of the net income. In applying this limitation, the 1943 normal tax and surtax would not include additions for any excess of the 1942 tax nor for the uncanceled portion of one year's tax.

Smaller Taxpayers May Benefit.

Altho the limitation ordinarily will affect only those taxpayers in the highest surtax brackets, it may also apply in cases where the smaller taxpayer has unusually large deductions for income tax purposes but not for victory tax purposes. Suppose, for example, an individual has medical expenses, casualty losses and other deductions which reduce to zero his net income subject to the regular normal tax and surtax. Altho these deductions are not allowed in computing the victory tax, the taxpayer will have no victory tax liability after the 90 per cent limitation is applied.

CONGRESS VOWS SIMPLIFIED TAX RETURN IN 1945

Ready to Heed Mass of Complaints.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Members of both houses, deluged with complaints over the algebraic proportions of the March 15 income tax returns, vowed today that it will be a different story when the time comes for filing returns next year.

The legislators, eyeing mail from their constituents and fussing by the hour over their own tax returns, threw their support behind plans for streamlining the process of settling debts with Uncle Sam.

In the upper chamber, Sen. George [D., Ga.], proposing that the senate and house work together on a simplification program, declared nearly 30 millions of the 50 million income tax payers could be spared the trouble of filing any returns "by making the wage withholding tax" their final obligation.

House Acts First.

The plan for combined action drew support in the house where Rep. Knutson [R., Minn.] introduced a resolution directing the joint senate-house committee on internal revenue to "streamline, simplify, and coördinate the federal tax system."

The resolution also calls for the appointment of an advisory council of 15 nongovernment members to work with the committee on the simplification project. The members would represent industry, labor, agriculture, tax payers, and tax consultants.

Meanwhile, the 10 Republican members of the house ways and means committee endorsed the recent resolution of Rep. Carlson [R., Kas.] proposing specific changes in the tax paying setup. The committee will meet tomorrow to consider the Knutson, Carlson, and other proposals.

Would Eliminate Returns.

Carlson's plan calls for combining levies on individual incomes into one tax, with a single base and a single set of exemptions. It also includes the proposal endorsed by Sen. George for eliminating returns for persons whose tax is substantially paid by withholding from wages and salaries.

Carlson would also permit the short tax form to be used by those with gross incomes up to $5,000 instead of $3,000, as at present, and his plan calls for streamlining both short and long forms. Taxpayers would be given until Jan. 15 of the year following the taxable year to file income estimates, instead of having to file during the year.

James G. Patton, president of the National Farmers' union, today urged the President to veto the new 2 billion 315 million dollar tax bill passed by congress. Patton said the proposed new levies, which are about one-fifth the total demanded by the President, are inadequate.

GERMAN PAPERS REVEAL DEATH OF PRINCESS MARIE

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 9 (AP).—The death of Marie Alexandra, Princess Wolfgang of Hesse, 42, was announced today in the German press. She was married to Prince Wolfgang in 1924.

FEUD PRECEDED MARRIAGE.

The marriage of Princess Marie Alexander to Prince Wolfgang who was former Kaiser Wilhelm's nephew, was a romantic event, accomplished after the feud between Wilhelm and Prince Max of Baden had been erased. Princess Marie was the daughter of Prince Max, who aroused the kaiser's fury in 1918 when he advised him to abdicate and escape to Doorn. Prince Max conducted the negotiations with President Woodrow Wilson which led to the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918.

JANUARY U-BOAT TOLL IS BIGGER THAN DECEMBER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—The allies destroyed more Germany submarines in January than in December, a joint Anglo-American statement said tonight, while merchant ship tonnage sunk by enemy U-boats was "among the lowest monthly figures for the whole war."

The statement said the higher toll of Nazi undersea craft was exacted despite diminishing opportunities to attack them.

It advised that German claims of sinking allied ships should be ignored; "they are grossly exaggerated" and issued for propaganda purposes.

COUNTY FINANCE GROUP TO SCAN BUDGET FIGURES

The Cook county board's finance committee as a whole is to have its first view today of the proposed 1944 budget. The members, few of whom have seen the figures of appropriations, are expected to find the budget out of balance.

Revenues have been estimated by Commissioner Daniel Ryan and the county staff of experts at $20,032,000. The expenditures were tentatively set at $20,748,000.

Late yesterday it was learned that the board would attempt to slash the proposed spending by $400,000 and find enough added revenue—at least on paper—to match income and outgo. This is standard practice with the board. Last year it overappropriated all conservative estimates of revenue and as a result ended up with a deficit of nearly 4 millions.

That deficit was not included in the spending estimates. To take care of this some board members advocate abandoning the pegged levy of 9½ millions authorized by the legislature and levying a tax rate that will produce enough to cover the 1943 deficit. They can do this under the 100 per cent assessment factor used this year by Assessor Clark. Formerly the assessment was at 37 per cent.

STOCKS FALTER AS BUYERS TURN TO BARGAIN HUNT

Steels and Rails Decline; Rubber Shares Gain.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Buyers combed the stock list for "special situations" today. Price movements generally were narrow with declines holding a small margin over gains. Steels and most rails faltered near the close but rubbers and a mixed assortment of shares pushed ahead.

Final hour bidding lifted Kansas City Southern preferred 3 points and it was suggested buyers thought the stock had been neglected in the recent surge of interest in the rails.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite advanced 0.1 point at 50.1. Transactions totaled 625,795 shares against 608,390 yesterday.

Stock issues of the new St. Louis Southwestern [Cotton Belt] railway having a par value of more than 37 million dollars were suspended from dealings by the exchange following federal court approval of plan of reorganization which eliminates the equity interest of shareholders.

The stock exchange reported the short interest at the end of January was 847,335 shares compared with 737,042 on Dec. 31.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB.

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Rail issues again worked higher in the bond market today, some more actively supported loans gaining 1 to as much as 5 points.

Buying was strictly selective, despite the general uptrend that lifted the Associated Press rail bond average to a new seven year high. There were numerous cases in which gains by most loans of a road were balanced by losses posted for other issues of the same road.

St. Louis Southerwestern [cotton belt] bonds benefited from court approval of its reorganization plan.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Price gains predominated yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange, altho the two volume leaders, Chicago corporation and Radio corporation, closed unchanged. Commonwealth Edison rose a small fraction and Midland United A preferred sold off slightly. Northwest Bancorporation and Wisconsin Bankshares reached new tops, as did Consumers preferred, which gained 2½ points.

CHICAGO HOLDS SOLID POSITION TO RECONVERT

Many of War Plants to Be Permanent.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago is expected to be among the more fortunately situated industrial centers when demobilization occurs. As a highly diversified manufacturing center it has excellent prospects of escaping the more severe deflation which will overtake cities whose present manufacturing position is due almost entirely to war conditions.

Chicago will emerge from the war with a broadened industrial base which will prove helpful in providing employment. Many of the new industrial plants will be permanent additions to the city's industrial equipment. Relatively few in number of the factories built since the beginning of the war are in danger of falling into complete disuse when the war ends, it is believed.

Harrington's Views Differ.

This is the situation as summed up by the best informed men on Chicago industry. It contrasts strikingly with the testimony given Tuesday before a congressional committee by Philip Harrington, Chicago commissioner of subways and superhighways. Before the house building and grounds committee, which is studying post-war problems, Harrington said:

"The problem of maintaining employment after the war will undoubtedly be more acute in Chicago than in perhaps any other large city in the nation, for Chicago occupies a unique position in the manufacturing field. Cook county manufactures more goods than any other county in the United States."

Chicago's "unique" position in the industrial field arises from the fact that it takes in a wide variety of manufacturing, ranging from hair pins to railroad locomotives, it was pointed out by those commenting on the Harrington statement. The city's commanding position in manufacturing existed before the war. In virtually every national study that has been made of post-war prospects Chicago is rated among the better situated centers.

Predict Difficulty in West.

The most severe readjustments will occur, such surveys suggest, in the Pacific northwest, Southern California, and the gulf coast where there has been expansion in manufacturing activity out of all proportion to the peace time activity. In these areas there have been big population increases since the beginning of the war. Some smaller cities also face difficult readjustments. Among these are included Wichita, Kas.; Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., and other centers where big war projects are located.

About a billion dollars has been spent on new plant facilities in the Chicago industrial area during the war. Most of the projects are adjuncts of and adjacent to existing plants. This will permit the integration of the facilities into existing plants.

Future of Some Uncertain.

Of the 266 new plants, 62 are of large dimensions. The future of some of these plants is uncertain. Among the permanent additions are counted the aluminum plant at La Grange and the Buick plant at Melrose Park. These modern plants are not expected to be discarded, regardless of the policy adopted for disposition of government owned facilities.

The Dodge Chicago plant, owned by the government and operated by Chrysler, is the biggest question mark among the new plants. Including this large plant, rated as the world's most modern industrial unit, there are not more than 14 of the new plants that could be expected to fall into disuse at the war's end even if a pessimistic view is taken, it is argued.

Termed Aid to Efficiency.

Where existing plant facilities have been greatly expanded it is expected that the new facilities will eventually replace older equipment still in use. This will key up the efficiency of the city's plants. The presence of new and modern industrial equipment is an asset, not a detriment, in readjusting to civilian production, it is agreed.

Formulation now of a clear cut policy for the disposition of government owned plants would be a big contribution to solution of the reconversion problem, manufacturers believe. It would permit companies now operating government owned facilities to plan for their future use. These operators cannot make plans to operate such units if they have no assurance that they will be given the opportunity to purchase or lease such facilities as they are released from war production.

Tighter Rule Over Lumber Use Predicted

Warning that producers and distributors of lumber and timber products may expect more drastic restrictions during 1944, Dr. Wilson Compton said yesterday that in general they would divert a larger proportion to military needs. Compton, secretary of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, spoke at the annual meeting of the Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers' association in the Hotel Sherman.

Compton said three factors indicating tighter restrictions on the sale and uses of lumber were: [1] Estimated essential requirements exceed estimated national production by 4 billion feet; [2] a continuing "leakage" of lumber into uses not included in the estimate; [3] no present indication of increased production, or of action which will provide means of increased production.

Price Revisions Probable.

Future regulations may include further "freezing," Compton said, and encouragements to lumber distributors to mobilize small lumber stocks to make them available for military uses. Price ceiling modifications affecting logs and lumber, particularly southern and eastern softwoods and hardwoods, are probable, he added.

J. Philip Boyd, director of the war production board lumber division, said minimum lumber requirements estimated at 34½ billion board feet during 1944 included: Shipping lumber, 15½ billion feet; railroads, utilities, mining, and heavy industries, 6½ billion; army, navy, maritime commission, and air corps, 5½ billion; and farms, housing, and all other essential civilian requirements, 7 billion.

BACK DRAFT DEFERMENT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Members of congress and spokesmen for the lumber and pulp industry urged a house military subcommittee today to expedite legislation to grant blanket draft deferment to men engaged in timber and pulpwood cutting and related occupations. The bill was introduced last month by Rep. Philbin [D., Mass.].

Henry Bahr of Washington, representing the lumber and timber products war committee, declared that unless the loss of workers is stopped "and a substantial number of additional men can be secured, especially in logging, our industry will be unable to meet even the most essential requirements for this year."

People and Events

Assets of the Wheelco Instruments company have been purchased by Fred A. Hansen and Cary H. Stevenson, vice presidents of the Lindberg Engineering company, and several associates, it was announced yesterday. The business will be continued at the same location under a new corporation with Hansen as president and Stevenson, secretary and treasurer. Richard A. Schoenfeld and Theodore A. Cohen, vice presidents of the old company, will retain their positions in the new company. Hansen and Stevenson also will remain active in the management of the Lindberg company.

Maj. Gen. W. H. Harrison, chief of the signal corps procurement and distribution service and former vice president and chief engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, will speak before the Western Society of Engineers next Tuesday night in the auditorium of the Engineering building. He will discuss needs for an increase in radar and other signal equipment.

Eugene W. Osborn has been elected secretary of Benson & Rixon company, replacing Richard D. Culver who has accepted a commission as lieutenant [j. g.] in the naval reserve. Osborn has been controler of the company for several years.

2 YEAR WAR OUTPUT OF AUTO INDUSTRY IS SET AT 14.2 BILLIONS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—Recalling that the last passenger automobile for civilian use rolled off the assembly lines two years ago tomorrow, the automotive council for war production reported today that since Feb. 10, 1942, more than 14 billion 200 million dollars of war materials has been delivered to the army and navy from the former motor car plants.

"Since that historic day—the first time in over 40 years that automobile production lines had been halted completely—the automotive industry has boosted its annual rate of war goods output from 2 billion 300 millions in 1942 to a rate in excess of 10½ billions today," the council said.

PROTEST GRANTS OF FEDERAL AID FOR LOCAL WORK

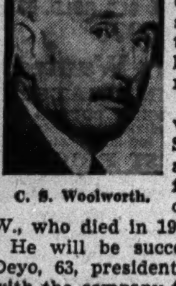
Federal grants for public improvements which are of only local value were protested yesterday by the Associated General Contractors of America in a resolution at its annual meeting in the Drake hotel. Such indiscriminate giving is breaking down the American system of local self-government, the resolution said.

Another resolution indorsed the program of the American Association of State Highway Officials asking one billion dollars in federal funds annually for the first three post-war years for national roads, this to be matched by an equal amount by the states.

William Muirhead of Durham, N. C., was elected president, succeeding Oscar B. Coblentz of Baltimore. H. A. Dick, Portland, Ore., is the 1944 vice president. E. M. Rust of Washington, D. C., was reëlected secretary-treasurer.

DEYO SUCCEEDS WOOLWORTH AS BOARD CHAIRMAN

New York, Feb. 9 (AP).—Charles S. Woolworth retired today as chairman of the board of F. W. Woolworth company after completing 65 years of association with the company. He had been chairman since 1919.



C. S. Woolworth.

Woolworth, who lives in Scranton, Pa., is a brother of the founder of the company, Frank W., who died in 1919.

He will be succeeded by C. W. Deyo, 63, president, who has been with the company for more than 40 years. Woolworth will continue a board member.

CREDIT IN PEACE TIME EXPECTED TO BE ADEQUATE

Adequate credit after the war "for the deserving" was forecast last night by Henry H. Heimann, who is in the navy on leave from his post as executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men. He addressed a forum of the Chicago group in the La Salle hotel. He said the federal government will have to justify every dollar of credit it requests during the rest of this year, "which is one of the healthiest fiscal signs on the financial horizon for the period after the war."

Interest rates will be low, consumers' and farmers' balance sheets are in excellent condition, and industry will be in good shape if a fair termination policy is effected before the war's end, he said.

Another Step Is Taken in Field Site Buying Plan

A second step in the acquisition by Marshall Field of most of the block bounded by Madison, Market and Monroe sts. and the river, was taken yesterday, when the city council directed Controler Upham to advertise for bids on the city property at the northwest corner of the block.

4 on WLB Ask Death of Little Steel Formula

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—A new attack on the administration's wage stabilization policies was launched today by the four American Federation of Labor members of the war labor board who declared the time has come to junk the "Little Steel" formula for a new, "realistic figure based upon the actual cost of living."

The demand was based on the contention that price control has fallen so far short of goals that "the only recourse left to workers is to obtain wage rate increases."

Misinterpreted, They Say.

Labor's acceptance heretofore of the "Little Steel" formula has "apparently been misinterpreted in the halls of congress," the AFL men said, adding:

"When some effort was made to implement the price control program by subsidies only delay and confusion were the results."

The craft union members—George Meany, Matthew Woll, Robert Watt, and James Brownlow—petitioned the board to request that President Roosevelt modify his incorporation of the formula in wage stabilization orders.

Use Government Figures.

They said the government's own statistics on the cost of living are sufficient to warrant abandoning the formula—citing that the bureau of labor statistics' index stands today at 123.4 per cent of the January, 1941, level.

Actually, they argued, living costs have risen far more than this index indicates, and they pointed to an AFL-CIO study released 10 days ago which concluded that costs have gone up 43.5 per cent.

But either index, they said, leads to "one inescapable conclusion: The workers of America cannot rely upon price control as it now functions to preserve standards of living."

SUN LIFE BUYS WAR BONDS WITH RECEIPTS IN U. S.

Premium receipts of Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada in the United States are being concentrated entirely in the purchase of United States war bonds, Arthur B. Wood, president and managing director, said yesterday in the company's 73d annual report.

More than 55 million dollars were invested in war bonds last year, he said. Total investment in government bonds of the allies was approximately one-half billion dollars.

The company's premium income for 1943 exceeded 112 million dollars, and total receipts increased to 174 millions.

New life insurance policies issued during the year increased 13 million dollars above 1942.

NATIONAL STEEL NET EARNINGS DOWN SLIGHTLY

National Steel corporation yesterday in a preliminary report for the year ended Dec. 31 showed a profit of $11,698,362, equal to $5.30 a capital share, against $11,929,867, or $5.41 a share, in 1942. Earnings were determined after deducting $750,000 for contingencies, compared with 2 million dollars in the preceding year. Federal income taxes totaled $26,350,000, against $30,300,000 in 1942.

BAN GAS SALE WHERE FACILITIES FOR OTHER FUEL ARE AVAILABLE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9 (AP).—Sixty natural gas companies in six states were forbidden by the WPB tonight to deliver gas to factories or business places which have equipment for burning other fuel.

The companies—operating in Missouri, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky—all get their gas from the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company. Curtailment of deliveries in these states will make more natural gas available in the Appalachian area, where a shortage "is threatening war production," WPB said, and where similar restrictions previously have been applied.

Officials of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company said last night that no limitation on natural gas deliveries for industrial uses in the Chicago area is under consideration by the WPB so far as they knew. Peoples Gas is not supplied by the Panhandle line.

UNIONS' MOVES TO RULE PLANT POLICY FOUGHT

Managers Defend Prerogatives.

Infringement by labor on management's "age-old prerogatives," subjects which are not arbitrable between unions and management, and indirect demands of labor on management were discussed yesterday at the annual midwinter conference of the American Management association in the Palmer House.

Approximately 2,500 personnel directors of American industry attended the meetings, some of which were declared "off the record." Several speakers said their situations were too delicate for direct quotation.

Union demands and purposes today are two-fold, it was asserted: First, to improve present working conditions and, second, to continue organized labor's war time gains into the post-war period. This is being done by efforts to break the "little steel" formula, thru wage and hour demands, infringement on management prerogatives, and the seeking of security of job and income.

Many Demands Justified.

One speaker declared unions and their demands were entitled to fair consideration and that some things that labor demanded were beneficial, especially during the war period. It was unfortunate, he said, that some union leaders are not always interested in the welfare of the employes they represent.

The prerogatives which unions were said to have tried to assume are dictating "efficient" operation of a plant, altho management is solely responsible for the perpetuation of the plant and its operation. This includes the right to employ, discharge, transfer, retain or discharge probationary employes, discipline, schedule, train, and give or deny leaves of absence.

Three methods by which unions were charged with infringing on these prerogatives were said to be [1] thru mutual consent clauses in contracts; [2] joint committees, on which labor and management have equal power, and [3] by asking "wide open" arbitration, in which almost any questions of labor-management relationship could be brought up.

Evade Management Control.

How the right to discipline was evaded was told by one speaker who described a contract which stated an employe may be disciplined for just and proper cause, but that a hearing and mutual agreement with the shop committee must be a part of the action. Another man told how a union wished the president of a company disciplined because he answered a telegram from Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board. The union declared the message had been sent to the employes and that the proper person to answer was the head of the union.

The question of subjects not arbitrable brought a heated discussion. Distinctions between compulsory and voluntary arbitration and what one man termed "fringe issues" were discussed. Draft deferment policy and merit pay increases were said to be among the "fringe" cases, but other management representatives disputed this. One said management would be in a difficult a position to have to consult unions in order to give a man a raise.

An appeal to management to shoulder responsibility for coöperation in labor relations matters was made at the night session by Sam A. Lewisohn, president of the Miami Copper company. He declared management must take the initiative in promoting good will between employers and employes, and that the necessity for "give and take" does not conflict with the necessity for management leadership.

WHEAT FUTURES ADVANCE ON CCC BUYING REPORT

Wheat prices advanced as much as 1¼ cents a bushel at one time yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade on buying induced by reports the Commodity Credit corporation would purchase grain from farmers in areas where they were unable to sell because of congested country elevators. Profit taking caused a reaction from the top and the close was ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. Rye was ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. Oats gained ⅛ cent, and barley was ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

Brazilian Rubber Plan Change Raises Issue of Who Will Pay

The United States' withdrawal from active participation in Amazon valley rubber development in Brazil has raised two questions of interest to American taxpayers, sources close to Latin American rubber activities said yesterday. The questions are:

1. What is to become of an American investment estimated at more than 15 million dollars?

2. What effect will the boost of 15 cents a pound—from 45 to 60 cents—in the price paid for Brazilian rubber have on prices the United States pays elsewhere in Latin America for rubber?

War Spurs Buying.

When America in its desperate need of rubber early in the war rushed into Brazil to tap rubber sources in the vast Amazon valley millions were invested in equipment of all types, it was said. Included were large amounts of marine equipment, both new boats and converted river shipping; docks, both permanent and floating; warehouses, air fields, hospitals, and housing at rubber camps in the field.

In addition large sums were advanced to Brazilian contractors engaged in development work who have possession of much of the equipment. Advances also were said to have been made to the "rubber bank," a Brazilian institution set up to finance the Amazon activity.

No decisions have been disclosed, it was said, as to whether this equipment will be retained in Brazil or shipped back to the United States or as to how, if it is retained, payment will be made. One suggestion was that rubber be used to liquidate the investment in the equipment for the benefit of the American taxpayers.

Prices to Others Vary.

Other Latin American nations producing rubber for the United States include Colombia, Venezuela, Peru, Ecuador, and several countries in Central America. Prices paid for the rubber from these countries range from 30 cents a pound upward, based on quality. It was suggested that the Brazilian increase may cause other nations to ask higher prices.

The Rubber Development corporation reported that last year imports from Brazil totaled about 24,000 tons. The rest of the Latin American nations, it was said, provided about the same amount, so the total from these sources was about 48,000 tons.

In return for the higher price to be paid by the United States the Brazilian government is to manage and take all responsibility for the development of the rubber project.

Meat Animal Slaughter Sets New Records

New January records were established in meat production last month, but part of the increase was the result of heavy selling of animals that should have been held for further feeding or breeding, agricultural authorities said yesterday. The feed situation and apprehension over office of price administration manipulation of live stock prices caused the liquidation, it was said.

Packers under federal inspection butchered 1,141,081 cattle during the month, a January record, compared with 927,500 in January, 1943.

Other Records Established.

Butchering of hogs set a new monthly record of 7,839,352 head compared with the previous record of 7,566,817 last December. Slaughtering a year earlier totaled 5,430,909.

Sheep and lamb slaughter of 1,932,987 head set a new January record and compared with the previous January high of 1,724,456 a year ago.

Department of agriculture statistics showed that matured stock this winter comprised a record percentage of the sheep slaughtered, amounting to 22.16 per cent of the total.

Prices Rise Despite Congestion.

Yesterday's rise of the general hog market to the highest price levels in six weeks in face of increased congestion in the Chicago stockyards was one of the many paradoxes in the trade under federal price management during recent weeks. The average rose 5 cents a hundred pounds to $13.40, highest since Dec. 31 and 25 cents above the winter's low.

Buyers preferred the lightest hogs below 200 pounds and packing sows at 5 to 10 cents higher prices, but left about 17,000 hogs unsold at the close, mostly "government weights" that the WFA is attempting to support at $13.75.

Strong to higher prices were paid for many classes of beef animals. Most weighty steers rose 25 cents, and strong to 25 cents higher prices bought most other steers, as well as heifers, beef cows, canners, and cutters. Lambs declined 10 to 25 cents.

86 Carriers Lose 3,802 Truck Days; Lack Drivers

Eighty-six common motor carriers operating in the Chicago area lost 3,802 truck days in December because of lack of drivers, the district motor transport office of the office of defense transportation reported yesterday to Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director. The 86 carriers represent 5 to 10 per cent of the total number of carriers in this area.

UPTURN IN CANADA'S MEAT SUPPLY HINTS OF RATIONING'S END

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 9 (AP).—Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley said today in commons that consideration now "can be given" to ending of meat rationing and discontinuance of meatless Tuesdays.

He was answering a question from Mark Senn, Progressive Conservative member from Ontario, which followed an extensive statement on meat supplies and livestock marketing by J. E. Gardiner, agriculture minister.

Heavy marketings of livestock—80 per cent above 1943 in some instances—indicated there was "little in this talk of a decrease in food supplies in Canada in the immediate future," Gardiner said. Prices for Canadian pork, with premiums considered, were reported higher than those on United States markets. Profitable shipments across the border are not likely, even if permission to make them was granted, he said.

GENERAL TIRE'S SALES SET PEAK IN FISCAL YEAR

General Tire and Rubber company's sales during the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 increased 57.8 per cent to a record $51,987,521 from $32,944,784 in the preceding 12 months, the company reported yesterday. Profit was $1,740,084, equal to $2.75 a share, compared with $1,382,963, or $2.37 a share, during the preceding fiscal year.

McKesson & Robbins, Inc., reported sales during the six months ended Dec. 31 totalled $134,334,048, against $120,639,184 a year earlier. Profit was $2,777,221, equal to $1.51 a common share, compared with $2,567,384, or $1.44 a share, during the 1942 period.

Goodyear Tire Completes Reconversion of One Plant

Jackson, Mich., Feb. 9 (AP).—The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company factory here has been completely reconverted to tire making, the company announced today. All war production schedules have been completed or moved to other plants. Plant officials said production prior to Pearl Harbor was 9,000 tires daily and present schedules call for the plant to reach capacity production about Dec. 1.

BOOST IN TIRE RATIONS AFTER JULY FORECAST

Output Below Goal, Dewey Reports.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—More tires for passenger cars will be just around the corner July 1, Rubber Director Dewey told motorists today, altho the output for the year will be lower than originally estimated.

Bradley Dewey.

Reviewing progress of the synthetic rubber program at a press conference, Dewey said automobile tire rationing quotas will be held to 750,000 a month until midyear, when the restrictions will be relaxed. He said approximately 1 million tires a month are being produced, of which 250,000 are being held in reserve.

Civilian tire output is being held to this level because of the need to save buna S [synthetic] rubber and tire cord for military, bus, and truck tires, he explained. These requirements are expected to diminish later in the year and civilian tire production will be accelerated, he said.

Earlier Goal Reduced.

Dewey said his earlier goal of 30 million civilian tires this year will have to be reduced to 18 or 24 million tires. He said that with approximately 6 million tires scheduled for production in the first half of the year, the average monthly output in the latter half will have to be increased to 2 million tires.

"It is hoped the reduced supply will be sufficient to meet the essential demand in view of the death rate of cars, restrictions upon driving as a result of the shortage of gasoline, and the very important increased length of life being obtained in tires, both synthetic and others, as a result of the public's coöperation in the care, use, and recapping of tires," Dewey said.

He said the most serious aspect of the rubber problem is the scarcity of fabricating facilities and high tenacity rayon cord for the manufacture of heavy duty tires for airplanes, military vehicles, buses, and trucks. Requirements of these tires will not be met fully for months, he warned.

August Peak Expected.

Dewey said the synthetic rubber program will reach its peak by August, with a total capacity of almost 1 million tons, or about 150,000 tons above the original goal of 850,000 tons. More than three-fourths of the production will consist of buna S rubber derived from alcohol or petroleum raw materials.

Dewey said about 75 per cent of the butadiene used in making buna S is coming from alcohol and the rest from petroleum. The ratio of alcohol will decrease to an average of 53 per cent for the year as more petroleum plants come into production, he added.

He said the drain on petroleum supplies for the rubber program is being held to a minimum because of the need for high octane gas and other petroleum products in the invasion program. He said more petroleum will become available late in the year when the military demand for petroleum products will decrease.

PARABLE
To those who condemn and would destroy the profit motive the Times-Herald commends the parable of the three servants and the ten talents.
The two industrious servants who put their principal to work and showed a profit on their investment were praised above the slothful servant who made no use of his opportunities.
Without the profit motive America would still be a prairie of Red Indians and Buffalo.

FRITZ KREISLER AGREES TO GIVE 5 BROADCASTS

Signs for Concerts Next Summer.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Fritz Kreisler, approaching 70, has decided to break the microphone silence he has imposed on himself ever since the beginning of broadcasting. He will make five appearances on the 8 p. m. Monday concert hour over NBC, starting next summer. The amount of his fee has not been disclosed.

Altho many attempts have been made to get him on the air, he always has refused. He said he changed his mind because travel restrictions have reduced the number of concerts and because an increasing number of letters have urged him to go on the air.

Preston Sellers, featured as an organist at Chicago movie houses for 25 years, has joined W-G-N as staff organist. He plays the organ backgrounds for Open House with Johnny Neblett, the Deacon, June Baker, and other shows. Two years ago Sellers was featured with the string quintet which played on WGNB, W-G-N's FM station. On the stage he has worked with such conductors as Leopold Spitalny, Victor Young, and Charles Previn. Sellers succeeds Len Salvo, who moved to Los Angeles.

The life story of Lt. Tom Harmon, former football star and war hero, will be dramatized on W-G-N's Freedom of Opportunity at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. A gold key and scroll of achievement will be presented to Harmon by Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan coach, and A. A. Stagg, veteran coach of the College of the Pacific. Lt. Harmon, on leave from his fighter plane squadron, will speak from Buffalo, N. Y.

THEATER OF AIR OPERETTA GIVEN FOR BOY SCOUTS

The Chicago Theater of the Air will dedicate its presentation of Sigmund Romberg's patriotic operetta, "My Maryland," in Medinah temple Saturday evening to the Boy Scouts of America, who are celebrating their 34th anniversary. One thousand Scouts, with civic and business leaders, will attend the broadcast. After the broadcast, the South Shore district Scouts will present a program.

The program will be broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network from 8 to 9 p. m. Marion Claire will be starred as Barbara Frietchie, courageous Civil war heroine, who kept the flag flying in the face of the Confederates. Bruce Foote will sing the role of Capt. Trumbull; Angel Raffaelli, that of Jack Negley, and Ruth Slater, the role of Mrs. Hunter. Henry Weber will direct the W-G-N orchestra and chorus.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will give an address in observance of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, which falls on Saturday.

4 FACE U. S. QUIZ IN WMCA SALE THRU COERCION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Four former federal officials will be summoned before a special house committee to reply to charges that they were involved in forcing the former owner of New York City radio station WMCA to sell his property under pressure alleged to have originated at the White House.

This was announced today by Eugene L. Garey, counsel for the committee which is investigating the federal communications commission.

The committee yesterday and today heard Donald Flamm, the former owner, testify he was coerced into selling his station in 1941 to Edward J. Noble, undersecretary of commerce at the time Harry Hopkins was secretary.

Garey said Noble will be subpenaed to appear before the committee within a few days. Subpenas already have been issued, he said, for Thomas [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran, former Presidential intimate; William J. Dempsey, former FCC counsel, and Leslie Roberts,
